Weather Gamble Cost To Owner

SARASOTA, Fla. — A hotel man's gamble on Florida weather cost him money for the second month in a row. C. V. Griffin, owner of the New Sarasota Terrace Hotel here, is beginning to think the weather man is conspiring with his guests against his pocketbook.

His offer until December 31 of free rooms for guests any day the sun fails to shine cost him 174 free rooms during October for guests from 23 states, including most of the middle West as well as New York and New England.

"I paid off and I'll continue to pay off until the year ends," Griffin said, "but I don't know whether I'll have faith enough in Florida sunshine to make the wager again."

Griffin said an easterly wave of bad weather out of the Miami area of Florida caused the sun to hide one day last month.
