Helpful Hints to Teachers.

By J. H. BOMBERGER, D. D.

A Paralytic Forgiven and Healed—Matt. 9:1-13. Sunday March 30.

CENTRAL TRUTH. Christ has power to forgive sin.

FOR ADVANCED CLASSES. Mention other instances in which Christ forgave sinners.

THE TRUTHS TO BE TAUGHT.

BRINGING OUR FRIENDS TO CHRIST. What it means to bring a soul to Christ few realize, or many would be about it. For that soul it means peace, exultant and growing. It means power, assured and increasing. It means honor and prosperity, on the whole, even in this troubled world. It means this for the coming year, and those months multiplied by the long years of life, and that life multiplied by the unimagined stretches of eternity, and glorified by the unguessed joys of Paradise. It means this for one soul, and for all the others whom that one may reach and for the myriads these may reach, through nations and generations. This is only a hint of what it means to bring a soul to Christ. To do this work is the main business of every Sabbath school.

HEALING SOUL AND BODY.

(2) Christ can heal both spiritual and physical diseases. Some times they are closely linked together. "Occasionally restoration to bodily health appears as an incident in conversion; body and soul are healed at the same time. William Carvoss, an earnest English Christian was once surprised by such an outcome of his faithful endeavor to lead a soul to Christ. A friend asked him to visit a woman who was sick. He found she knew nothing of salvation by the remission of sins, and consequently, he gave her an explanation of the way of faith, and exhorted her to believe in Christ, and in the truth of his promises. While I was thus speaking to her," says Mr. Carvoss, "she was seized in a strange manner, and it appeared to me and to those present that she was dying. But in a moment or two she lifted up her eyes to heaven, and cried out: 'Glory be to God! I am healed! I am healed!' For some considerable time she kept on repeating, 'The Lord has healed me, body and soul.' The next day Mr. Sibly, from Truro, came there to preach. He having expressed a desire to see the woman, I went with him to the house, and to our great astonishment we found her down stairs and fully restored." No doubt such cases are exceptional, but there is no reason to doubt that they are possible.

CHRIST DELIVERS FROM SIN.

Ruskin bids us notice that the common mud from the streets of a manufacturing city is composed of clay, sand, soot and water, and that the clay can be transformed into the sapphire, the sand transmuted into the opal, the soot crystallized into the diamond, and the water changed into a star of snow. Just as marvelous is the transformation of Saul, the haughty, self-righteous, persecuting Pharisee into Paul, the humble, penitent, zealous Christian.

Almost as striking was the conversion of Augustine. He himself has told in his "Confessions" about the sinful life he led, the unrest that came to his soul, the influence of the prayers of his mother, the sermons of Ambrose, the example of St. Anthony and the study of Cicero and Plato and Isaiah and Paul. In an agony of remorse he threw himself on the ground in his garden one day, and heard a voice as from heaven saying to him, Tolle, lege, take and read. He sought a friend who placed in his hands Paul's epistles. He opened and read his exhortation to "put on the Lord Jesus Christ." This, he felt, was the voice of God to him and he obeyed. He became the greatest Christian teacher of his century.

CHRIST'S CALL TO SERVICE.

(9) Christ calls every man at some time, in some way, again and again, if he fails to heed at first, to salvation and service, just as he called Matthew.

THE SAVIOR OF "SINNERS."

(10:13) I have devoted as much time as any man living to the sacred books of the East, and I have found the one key-note, the one refrain through all—salvation by works. Let us not shut our eyes to what is excellent and true and of good report in these books, but let us teach Hindus, Buddhists, Mohammedans, that there is only one book whose gospel can be their mainstay in that awful hour when they pass all alone into the unseen world. It is the sacred book that contains that faithful saying that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners.—Max Muller.

University Letter.

Dr. Eben Alexander, Dean of the University of North Carolina, died in Knoxville, Tenn., last Friday. He was on a leave of absence from the University and was spending the time at his old home in Knoxville. Dr. Alexander was born in Knoxville, March 9, 1851. He entered Yale in 1869. While there he was one of the most popular and prominent members of the Class of 1878. He was a member of Psi Upsilon, the Honor Order of Skull and Bones and the scholarship society of Phi Beta Kappa.

After graduation he became tutor in the University of Tennessee, later professor of ancient languages and then chairman of the faculty. He gave up this position to become professor of Greek at the University of North Carolina in 1887. In 1893 President Cleveland appointed him envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Greece, Roumania, and Servia. His services as minister were commended by leading newspapers in Greece and America. One of the many good things that he did was to have a part in the revival of the great Olympic Games.

"It is a far cry from the Acropolis to a professor's chair at Chapel Hill," says his kinsman, Prof. E. P. Moses, in Ashe's Biographical History, "but when his term of office expired the diplomat gladly put aside the business of the nation to take up again his work for the men of North Carolina." In 1897 Dr. Alexander left the Greek Court to return to his duties here. In 1900 he was elected Dean of the University, a position which he has since held with great honor. He was buried Sunday afternoon in Knoxville, Saturday all exercises in the University were suspended in honor of this scholar, diplomat and teacher.

A vigorous evangelistic campaign was conducted in the University last week from Wednesday through Sunday by four representatives of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., W. D. Weatherford, W. E. Willis, E. C. Mercer and Clayton S. Cooper. Weatherford and Willis are student secretaries of the South. Mercer is the man who has been telling the story of his life in the Universities of America.

C. E. McIntosh and F. N. Cox won out in the contest for places on the team to represent Carolina in the thirtieth intercollegiate debate with the University of Georgia. This debate will be held in Chapel Hill the night of April the eighth. The same night and with the same question and with the same aid Carolina meets Washington and Lee. The same afternoon Carolina will meet on the diamond in Greensboro, Durham, or Raleigh, her old rival the University of Virginia. Manager B. Drane has prepared an excellent schedule of 25 games with leading colleges and universities of the north and south. Two games will be played with Davidson and three with Virginia.

This world's famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at noon. Recently interviewed, he says: "I have suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and have used several well known kidney medicines all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley's Kidney Pills I was subjected to severe backache and pains in my kidneys with suppression and oftentimes a cloudy voiding. While upon arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley's Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and once more feel like my own self. All this I owe solely to Foley's Kidney Pills and always recommend them to my fellow sufferers." Miller-White Co.

The Delineator for April.

"The Rising Cost of Living" is a symposium in The Delineator for April to which ten distinguished men representing different walks of life contribute. The whole field of high prices is covered, as each of the writers takes a different angle. "The American Farmer's Wife—Her Problem" helps solve the puzzling question of the woman on the farm. Rheta Childre Dorris handles the church problem in "The Institutional Church." The fiction is by Zona Gale. Richard Washburn Child, Grace MacGowan Cooke, and a new serial, "The Unforseen," is begun by Mary Stewart Cutting. The early Summer fashions are set forth attractively in color and in words of authority. The number is well balanced and pleasing.

The Great Need of Southern Soils and How to Supply It.

The great need of the cotton farmer is cotton grown at less cost, and the cost can be lessened most by the production of legume forage and the feeding of it with the corn crop on the farm. Growing abundance of the best forage and corn and feeding it to live stock, abandoning the purchase of the low grade complete mixtures and depending on the phosphoric acid and potash to make the forage, will do more to cheapen the cost of the cotton crop than anything that can be done. The cotton farms need nitrogen, but they need it in humus-making materials like peas and stable manure, and it can be gotten in this way without cost. Growing forage and feeding farmer as to any other class, and live stock he at the very foundation of all rational soil improvement, no matter what the money crop may be.—W. F. Massey, in Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Free If It Fails.

Your Money Back if you are Not Satisfied with the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of the world's greatest research chemists. As an active agent it possesses the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal tonics as well as being particularly pleasant and prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. They come in two sizes of packages, 12 tablets 10 cents; 86 tablets 25 cents. Sold in Mooresville only at our store.—The Rexall Store. The Geo. C. Goodman & Co.

THE Texas Monster

Barnett's Home Made 4-Wheeled Cotton Chopper

Works Across the Rows the Right Way. Patented April 21, 1908.

I desire to call your attention to this Great Labor Saver. The Chopper that does Execution to Grass and Weeds, in fact, it does the work of eight men. After looking around for a time, I have decided to go direct to the cotton planter and sell him the right to make this chopper for his own use for One Dollar. This right is good for 17 years from the 21st day of April, 1908. I will say here that I have complied with all the laws of the patent office and I further say that this chopper does all I claim for it or your money back.

A SHORT DESCRIPTION.

The Chopper works across the rows, the chopping and plowing is done with a System of sweeps adjustably connected to a stock beam. In setting up these sweeps I will say you can close them altogether—that, of course, would cut it all out; but this connection being an adjustable one you then move out on the beam, as desired, so as to leave a SPACE between the sweeps that will allow 1 or 2 stalks to pass through. The beam and stocks are connected with the front with rods; they are also connected beneath the frame with a cross rod; the beam and stocks are movable in the frame; if the bundles are elevated or had stand, by elevating the handles you miss that part altogether and strike the next ridge at any depth desired. The chopper can be adjusted to leave 1 or 2 stalks; and to run deep or shallow. The chopper cuts uniform any distance, by using large or small sweeps. Say you want 8-inches, use 8-inch sweeps. If wanted extra wide, take out one or more stocks and use extra wide sweeps. This patent calls for any number. I think 5 or 6 about right. The rear wheels run in the wake of the outside sweeps. The front wheels cut under, turning is easy. The chopper works in an ordinary land, with one or two horses. The old way of baring off cotton is a waste of time and money. This chopper does all the plowing as it goes across, leaves dirt to the cotton and gives the land a thorough cultivation. By taking out the middle stock and straddling you can give your cotton a second plowing, two rows at a round. This done, your cotton is under control. This rapid cultivation in the early spring is a good remedy for the boll weevil, try it. Now let me say right here: In planting if you will put plenty seed in to insure a stand it will not pay to follow this chopper with the hoe, for the amount left is with you. I have prepared a book of instructions for making the chopper that tells every thing, you simply take any light cast off wheels and cut them down and use the same axles. The farmer with the aid of this chopper is independent as far as labor is concerned. He gets in the cotton at the right time, both chopping and plowing as he goes at the rate of 10 acres a day. No such thing as being in the grass. Its what you save that counts. Read what the farmers say, and send $1.00 today for this right and book of instructions for making and be ready. Address:
