After Grippe or any Sickness

Vinol Creates Strength HERE IS PROOF

"After a long attack of Grippe, Mrs. Vaughn seemed unable to recover her strength. She was very weak and had no appetite. VINOL rapidly improved her condition and restored her to health. I sincerely recommend its use during convalescence or any run down condition."

JUDGE C. N. VAUGHN,
Huntsville, Ala.

Miss Adelaide Gamm, of Watertown, Wis., writes, "After a severe attack of the Grippe, my system was in a very weakened, nervous, run-down condition. I took VINOL with the best of results, and it made me feel better and stronger than I have been for years."

We have never sold in our store a more valuable health restorer for weak and run down persons than VINOL, and we ask such people in this vicinity to try VINOL with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it.

Tortured For 15 Years.
by a cure-defying stomach trouble that baffled doctors, and resisted all remedies, I was cured by Dr. J. C. McLean's "Stomach Remedy". I feel like a new man now, and I can live much longer. "Whatever I tried failed me," he wrote. "I tried Stomach Remedy, which worked such wonders for me that I can now eat things that I could not take for years. It is surely a grand remedy for stomach trouble, and as good for the liver and kidneys. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c at Geo. C. Goodman & Co."

MEANING OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The library holds an important place as a moral agent and ranks next to the home and the school in moulding the character of the children. It keeps boys home in the evening by giving them well-written stories of adventure and travel. Entertainment is provided for their leisure hours and a taste for good reading is acquired—a taste which drives out lower tastes. The girls, likewise, find in the library tales of fancy and imagination and stories of great men and noble women which delight and inspire them to higher ideals of life. For the housewife are books on the care of children, books on cookery and house-keeping, as well as novels and romances which will transport her to an ideal realm of love and happiness. The working man finds not only "improving" books of history, biography and science, but stirring tales of adventure, entertaining books of travel, and good detective stories—books which will enable him to put aside for a time the cares and hardships of his life and give him relaxation of mind and nerve—From N. C. Library Bulletin.

Perhaps you say that does not mean the Mooresville Public Library since it is so small—but that is the point. We want you to become interested and help so that it will not remain so small and insignificant. Again, you may say you do not believe in helping the general public—but who constitutes the general public? Would not you be helping yourself, also? Isn't your family one of the 116 who are registered on the Librarian's book? If it isn't we should be glad to have it placed there.

Mooresville Public Library open
Wednesdays 3 to 4 p. m., Saturdays
3 to 4 p. m.

CABARRUS MAN MURDERED?

Concord, Jan. 29.—Sidney Barrier aged 23, a well-known farmer of Rimontion, this county, was found lying in the public road, one and a quarter miles east of Concord, at about 12:30 tonight with a bullet hole through his heart. The discovery was made by parties driving to Concord in a buggy. When found the man was still breathing, but was unconscious and died in a very few moments, making no statement whatever. The authorities were notified of the crime, but at an early hour this morning have succeeded in finding no clue to the assassin. The man had had no trouble with any one, so far as was known, and the officers were unable to even fasten suspicion on anybody.

Barrier was well known in the county and was well connected. He was a successful farmer. He was married last October.

Wife Got Tip Top Advice.

"My wife wanted me to take our boy to the doctor to cure an ugly boil," writes Dr. Frankel of Stroud, Okla. "I said 'put Bucklen's Arnica Salve on it.' She did so, and it cured the boil in a short time." Quickest healer of burns, scalds, cuts, corns, bruises, sprains, swellings. Best pile cure on earth. Try it. Only 25c at Geo. C. Goodman & Co.

Farmer Has to Pay for Killing Dog in His Sheep Pasture.

The law is sometimes a mighty "searching" thing. A few days before Christmas Mr. C. H. Lunsford shot a dog that had invaded the precincts of his sheep pasture, and he was at the trial found guilty and fined $2.50 and the costs. Ordinarily a sheep killing is an outlaw. Mr. Lunsford had several hundred acres on the west end of the mountain fenced in, and recently lost a large number of sheep from his flock, attributing the trouble to dogs. One day receiving information that a fox race had led to his pasture, and that a number of the pack were inside the enclosure, Mr. Lunsford took his gun and fired on the first dog he met in the enclosure. The shot felled the animal, but it did not die, unknown to Mr. Lunsford, who went on hunting for more dogs. Later he learned the shot dog was not dead, went back and finished it with another load. Mr. Lunsford's negligence in failing to ascertain the effect of the first shot, cost him the suit. The astute owner of the dog, Joe Jones, brought action on the charge of cruelty to animals and won.—Danbury Reporter.

THE FIFTH COMMANDMENT.

Upon request of a very estimable old lady of Mooresville, we publish the following elaboration on the Fifth Commandment, which was written by a Lutheran minister:

In answer to your question the Lord has given us a perfect rule in the holy Scriptures, in his covenant that he made with Israel in Horeb, saying: "Honour thy father and mother, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee. Deu. 5:16. This command is alike to both parents and children of all ages, in all places and in all time.

The Ten Commandments the Lord had written upon two tables of stone. The first table teaches us our duty toward God, and the second table teaches us our duty toward our fellowman. The command to honor father and mother is written at the head of the second table. Father and mother are the head of the family, and their children regardless of age are to love, obey and honor them. Christ has given us a perfect pattern in his life from childhood until his dying hour. We read in Luke 2:51, that he was subject to his father and mother. And when on the cross in the midst of his cruel suffering, when he saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son! Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home." St. John 19:26-27. Like the Lord let us think of mother unto the end, and like the mother has a home, and see to it at once.

The duty of children towards their parents is also plainly taught by St. Paul in his epistle to the Eph. 6:1-2. "Children obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honour thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise. What is the promise? That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth."

Upon this paternal state, God has conferred praise above all other states which are subordinate to himself, by commanding us not merely to love, but to honor our parents. In reference to brothers, sisters, and neighbors, he commands nothing higher than to love them, so that he separates and distinguishes father mother from all other persons, and places them next to himself. To honor is much more sublime than to love, as it embraces not only love but modesty, humility, and reverence. God does not only require us to speak kindly and reverence our parents, but also to conduct and demean ourselves, both in our hearts and in our deportment so that we hold them in high estimation and regard them as next to God. We should honor and esteem them very highly.

All children regardless of age, state or condition should be impressed with the idea that they should honor and esteem their parents as God has commanded; and if the parents be old, poor, weak and peevish, nevertheless they are your parents and given of God. They are not deprived of their honor on account of their deformity or defects. The personal appearance of the parent however deformed is not to be considered, but the will of God who thus created and ordered it.

We should esteem our parents sincerely and worthily as the highest treasure on earth; we should demean ourselves towards them modestly in our words and actions; we should not approach them in anger, or look upon them with contempt or disdain, but yield to them in their claims, and keep silence even if they do not act prudently at all times. We should manifest this honor in our conduct, in love we should serve, assist, and maintain them when they are old, sick, feeble or in need; this should be done willingly, with humility and reverence; done in the presence of the Lord, who said this is right. Children who know how they should esteem their parents in their hearts, will not let them suffer with hunger and want, but will regard them equal and superior to themselves, and impart to them according to their ability and possessions.

Escapes From Jail.

Kinston, Jan. 27.—Boston Boyd, colored, who was brought here from Greenville to be placed in jail for safe-keeping, made his escape within the shadow of the jail. Sheriff Nunn left the prisoner handcuffed in the back, in charge of the driver, and went into his office for the jail keys. While he was on his mission the negro made his escape.

POLITICS OVERSHADOWED.

The editor of The Chronicle returned last night from a brief trip to Winston-Salem through Mooresville, thence on the return through Greensboro, and all along he had to "scrounge" up in his seat and make room for another passenger. No sooner would one pick up his grip and get off than another would come in. This much by way of indicating the heat of the passenger traffic. On the round trip there are 44 stops, and we suppose we had a dozen different seat mates. A few of them did not count much for intellect, but many of them did. Of the latter, the one and all absorbing question was as to the plans of the Southern Power Company in the way of interurban development. They had read of what Charlotte had been doing in the way of subscribing stock and in the main, they simply wanted their ideas of the matter confirmed. In general, their idea was that in asking for subscriptions to stock in this company, the Dukes were simply wanting to clinch the moral support of the people of the section that would be benefitted by their development. In each instance we told them that their surmise was correct. The Dukes have plenty of money to build their lines. What other object would they have in soliciting stock, except to make the people morally and financially interested in the road? As to the probable value of the stock, the Duke's guarantee was behind that. The only question will be, not if the stock will be at par, but how much above that will it go? For once we made a trip on a train and did not hear politics mentioned. There was not even a suggestion as to what might be going on in the Legislature. The interurban development is the talk now, and well it should be.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Backache, Rheumatism, Sleeplessness

Result from disordered kidneys. Foley Kidney Pills have helped others, they will help you. Mrs. J. B. Miller, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "For a long time I suffered with kidney trouble and rheumatism. I had severe backaches and felt all played out. After taking two bottles of Foley Kidney Pills my backache is gone and where I used to lie awake with rheumatic pains I now sleep in comfort. Foley Kidney Pills did wonders for me. Try them now Miller-White Co."

Weakness of Graded Schools.

The average graded school cannot do thorough work. Some are better than others but all are poor enough. There is ample justification for the cry for the methods of the "old field" schools in our modern institutions. We have made progress in almost everything else except the most important matter of all—the education of our children. We have fine equipment to be sure. That is one of our troubles. Our equipment is a little too fine or rather we have come to depend on it too much. The modern school man holds up his hands in horror at the backless bench that was so high the child's feet did not touch the floor; but that child with that rude equipment made a sight more progress and mastered the basic principles of education with a great deal more thoroughness than the delicate pupil of today who sits on patent desks made to fit every curve of the body in a house built by expert mechanics with an eye to light, heat and ventilation exactly adapted to the needs of the child. Well, what is the matter anyhow? It is not with the children, for they are as bright as their fathers and mothers were; it is not with the teachers, either, for they are in the main, well prepared and capable. In our judgment the trouble lies in the crowded condition of our schools. Children cannot be educated in the mass. It is a personal and individual proposition. The old field school was far more efficient than the modern city school because the old master, if he was half a teacher, had ten times the advantage of the graded-school teacher of today. He could take his own good time, and look his pupils square in the eye. He was not rushed. He had no iron clad course to cover. He could favor or the fellow who needed a little push, and hold back those who were running away. Above all he could drill—line upon line, precept upon precept. The graded school teacher is an automaton. So are his or her pupils. They work by rule. The main idea is to cover the ground; and when it is covered the system is satisfied but the child has learned nothing. There is the metallic ring about the whole business. The machinery overwhelms the boys and girls. The question among the children is not what you have learned, but how far have you gone. The system is at fault. The teachers and the children are the same that they were forty years ago; but they do not have a chance and they never can have until we reduce the size of the classes and give each teacher twenty children instead of sixty.—Charity and Children.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Works Keep Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

N. P. Wilson, 513 W. Front St., Statesville, N. C., says: "For some time I suffered from a pain in the small of my back and a soreness across my hips. I was also troubled by dizzy spells and knew by the unnatural condition of the kidney secretions that my kidneys needed attention. I at length procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief in a short time. In return for this great change for the better, I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

Speedy Relief from Kidney Trouble

"I had an acute attack of Bright's disease with inflammation of the kidneys and bladder and distress," says Mrs. Cora Thorp, Jackson, Mich. "A bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy overcame the attack, reduced the inflammation, took away the pain and made the bladder action normal. I wish every one could know of this wonderful remedy."—Miller-White Co.

HOME-MADE VALENTINES.

"Margaret had gone West the first of the year," says Amy Richardson in Woman's Home Companion for February, "and as the feast of Saint Valentine approached she wondered what she should send home to her nearest and dearest in memory of the day. Her glance wandered to her photograph-album on the table. 'I have it,' she said as she took snapshot after snapshot of herself from the book. Of the particular good likenesses she had duplicates made. Then with red and white crepe paper, lace paper torn from candy-boxes, thin cardboard, bits of ribbon, water-color paints, crayons, library paste, scissors and some tiny bottles of liquid gold and silver, she sat herself down to make valentines."

"Large red cardboard hearts with a little butterfly bow of red satin ribbon drawn through the top and a picture of herself in the center of the heart, and a valentine wish printed in gold around it, was the model for a number of valentines."

"Square, old-fashioned, lace-paper ones, with tiny red hearts pasted here and there on the white paper, with Margaret's smiling face in the center was another style. These should be made on a foundation of light-weight cardboard, starting with a lace-paper frill pasted on the edge and working in toward the center."

"A cabbage rose of tinted crepe paper with a Margaret head in the heart of it; a book-mark of three pieces of red ribbon with a red and gilt heart at the end of each and a snapshot in the middle of the heart; or a book-mark made from white Bristol board with a head at the top, a shower of hearts and arrows pasted down the center and a valentine wish; and then some plain correspondence-cards with a gold or silver line drawn around the edge with her picture in one corner and a little note or rhyme of love and good wishes printed in gold letters beneath—these were some of the simple ideas she used."

S. W. Bonds, of Coal City, Ala., has a justifiable grievance. Two thieves stole his health for twelve years. They were a liver and kidney trouble. Then Dr. King's New Life Pills thrilled them. He's well now. Unrivaled for constipation, malaria, headache, dyspepsia. 50c at Geo. C. Goodman & Co.

Sure Enough Which?

Little four-year-old Robert, like many other boys of his age, liked to ask questions. So when the first downy chicks came in the spring and his mother saw him studying them; most intently, she knew something was coming. And it did, for presently he turned to his mother and asked, "Mama, are chickens' legs hind legs or front legs?"—M. B. Denison in Woman's Home Companion for February.

THE PROBLEM OF THE BOYS.

The following incident may seem irrelevant, but it will serve to show one class of homes where ignorance and shiftlessness predominate and from which many of our unfortunate boys come. It has, however, been demonstrated repeatedly that boys from such homes with correct training and proper environments will make excellent citizens.

A prominent physician in one of our Texas cities has a wife of unusual charm and culture. The doctor's wife has a hobby of teaching and has for years conducted a small select school. It frequently happens that a youth of promise whose parents are not able to take advantage of the opportunities offered in this school will be enrolled. A bright little fellow from one of the homes of the poor had been in attendance at the school for some days, but he had an aversion to soap and water. The teacher sent him home repeatedly to make himself more presentable; finally, in desperation, the boy was sent home with a note to his mother which read something like this:

"Mrs. —, I am sending Johnnie home with a request that you give him a bath, actually he smells bad."

"Teacher: I am sending my son to you all to be teached, not to be smelt."

It will be seen from the above incident that there are homes whose influences are not conducive to the development of a boy along lines that are calculated to train him for useful citizenship. Parents are frequently and unconsciously instruments in developing the delinquency found in our boys. And when the little fellow has passed beyond the influence of their homes and has lost respect for parental authority to a point of danger, it becomes obviously necessary for some other influence to make itself felt in the youth's life in order to save him to a life of usefulness rather than permit him to develop his inclination to delinquency.—San Antonio Light and Gazette.

Life Saved At Death's Door.

"I never felt so near my grave," writes W. R. Patterson, of Wellington, Tex., "as when a frightful cough and lung trouble pulled me down to 100 pounds, in spite of doctor's treatment for two years. My father, mother and two sisters died of consumption and that I am alive today is due solely to Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. Now I weigh 187 pounds and have been well and strong for years." Quick, safe, sure, its best remedy on earth for coughs, colds, Lagrippe asthma, croup, and all throat and lung troubles, 50c & $1.00.
