Buhl's Air Sailor Fourth in Derby

Ahoskie.—Lieut. Comdr. T. D. Buhl's "Air Sailor" failed to finish in the money by a neck as the 13 other horses finished far back, according to radio reports of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, Ky., Saturday.

In Ahoskie Friday on the eve of the Derby, Comdr. Buhl admitted that Air Sailor wasn't "a mudder." He knew the track was wet and Air Sailor's chances to win became slimmer as the track became muddier.

Hoop, Jr., came in first; Pot O'Luck, second; Darby Dieppe, third; and Air Sailor, fourth. Air Sailor came in four lengths ahead of Jeep.

Lieut. Comdr. Buhl is stationed at the Naval Air Station (LTA), Elizabeth City.

Ahoskie.—The average pre-war car used approximately 56 yards of textiles and the lack of these materials today may prove a barrier to the construction of new cars unless the scarcity eases or satisfactory substitutes are arrived at, D. U. Bathrick, general sales manager of Pontiac Motor Division, said today.

Bathrick pointed out that 1,000 cars require 4,736 yards of broadcloth or 3,748 yards of mohair, 3,560 yards of head lining, 2,316 yards of carpeting, 4,761 yards of cotton sheeting and 16,679 yards of burlap.

Increase Profits by Controlling Leafspot on Peanut Vines. Use Copper-Sulphur Peanut Dust

Increase Your Yield of Peanuts and Peanut Hay by Dusting with "Copper - Sulphur"

The North Carolina State College, Raleigh, N. C., and the Georgia Experiment Station, of Experiment, Georgia, scientific experiments show that the yield of peanuts can be increased one-third, and that the yield of peanut hay can be doubled by dusting with Copper-Sulphur.

Experiments have shown that dusting with Copper-Sulphur and dusting sulphur have given excellent results in the control of peanut diseases; thereby increasing the yield of hay and nuts. However, the combination mixture of Copper and Sulphur, according to experiments, gives much better results than the Copper alone or Sulphur alone.
