THE DEADLY BOMB.

The Police Capture the Mischief After a Lively Chase and the Exchange of Shots—Wounded Cases for Amid Great Excitement.

PARIS, February 13.—Edouard Breton, 23 years old, threw a bomb in the cafe of the Hotel Terminus at the St. Lazare railway station Monday evening. The bomb exploded in the middle of the room and wounded twenty persons. An instrumental concert began in the cafe, which is on the ground floor of the hotel at eight o'clock.

Shortly before nine o'clock, a pale, thin young man, with a light pointed beard, paid for a drink, which he had taken at a table in the middle of the room, and started to leave.

When near the door, he turned suddenly, drew a bomb from his coat and threw it toward a group of persons who had sat next to him.

The bomb struck an electric light fixture, then fell on a marble table and exploded. The station was rocked by the shock. The mirrors, windows and doors were blown to atoms. The ceiling and floor were rent and the walls were cracked.

A dense, offensive smoke filled the cafe for four minutes, and in the obscurity the bomb thrower escaped. When the smoke cleared away five persons were found severely wounded and fifteen had slight injuries. The bomb had been filled with bullets and rough bits of iron, which had riddled the furniture and walls and inflicted most of the wounds. After leaving the cafe the bomb thrower started down the street on a run.

Three policemen passed the spot in an omnibus at the moment, and they gave chase to the miscreant and soon overhauled him.

He drew a revolver and shot one policeman and a woman in the throng on the street, but other policemen overpowered the bomb thrower, and then from the vengeance of a mob. They succeeded, however, in taking him to a police station. The prefect of police, M. Laurent, chief secretary to M. Du-bouat, minister of the interior, and several other high officials were summoned to the station, and the examination of the prisoner was begun, Police Commissary Gavrel taking the evidence.

Meantime, the sound of the explosion, the smoke and the cries of the wounded had attracted a great crowd to the Hotel Terminus. Physicians quickly attended to the wounded of whom needed their services. Four or five are probably fatally wounded, but nobody was killed outright. Most of the victims were injured about the legs and lower part of the body.

The prisoner seemed calm and comfortable in the police station. The removal of his outside coat had revealed a collarless flannel shirt and the general garb of a workingman. In his pockets he had found a pair of brass knuckles, a dagger, a Swedish knife, a six-chamber revolver and some money. At first he refused to talk, telling the police that it was their business to find out who he was. After giving his name and age he again became silent.

Rain and Wind in Alabama. MONTGOMERY, February 13.—Quite a severe wind and rain storm passed over this section at an early hour yesterday morning. Reports from the interior are to the effect that considerable damage was done to farms in blowing down fences, barns and negro quarters. No life is reported lost, though several people were injured, but not seriously.

The Murder and Cremation of a Young Gentleman, Killed by a Desperado. CONCLAVE, Mex., February 12.—A terrible tragedy was enacted on the ranch of Rafael Severio, near here, last night. The foreman of the ranch was Henry Wallace, an American, who has lived for several years in Mexico, and was married to Severio's daughter a short time ago. Up to that time a Mexican named Juan Martinez had held the position of foreman of the ranch. He was discharged to make room for Wallace. This aroused the Aztec blood of Martinez, and he planned to put his successor out of the way. Last night he went to the house occupied by Wallace and his bride. He attacked Wallace in bed, and a desperate hand-to-hand conflict ensued, which resulted in Wallace being fatally stabbed. His young wife came to his assistance, and was also attacked by the desperate man, who, after murdering the couple, set fire to the house and burned the bodies of his two victims. Martinez was immediately arrested and confessed to having committed the deed.

SUSPECTS FOUL PLAY. Mr. McMillan's Friends Think an Enemy of His Fired the Revolver. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., February 13.—It has been persistently rumored that the friends of James H. McMillan, who was fatally burned in the Atlanta livery stable fire, suspect some sort of foul play.

A friend of his said: "We know that one of the men in the building, who is not an Atlantiowed Mr. McMillan $500, and a note for that amount was in Mr. McMillan's pocketbook. It is missing. We also know that there had been a serious business dispute between the two men, as a result of which Mr. McMillan had several times told us that he had been swindled. We will begin investigating the affair tomorrow. A pension check for $90 is also missing.

MR. HOUK'S SUCCESSOR.

Revenue Collector Dowling, of the Cincinnati District, Said to Be An Aspirant. CINCINNATI, February 13.—A new candidate is spoken of for the vacancy in the Third Ohio congressional district, caused by the untimely death of Judge Houk. The new aspirant for the shoes of Judge Houk is no other than Joseph H. Dowling, of Dayton, at present collector of internal revenue for the Cincinnati internal revenue district of Ohio. It is said that Collector Dowling has for some time had an ambition to go to congress, and that this is the opportunity offered, and that if it should turn out as it is said to be likely, that ex-Governor Campbell will feel it incumbent upon him to keep out of the politics for a time and to attend to his private business and get into shape, Dowling will announce himself.

Died While Seeking Office. WASHINGTON, February 13.—Prof. Albert Herbert, of Maryland, was found dead in a chair in the sitting room of the Mount Vernon hotel yesterday. He had been here seeking office for six months. On account of the inclement weather he did not go out of doors yesterday, but went to the sitting room, and apparently was sleeping in a chair. An attendant discovered that Mr. Herbert died in his chair, and so quietly that none of those seated near him were aware of it. In his pocket was found an application for the state military academy of South Carolina, situated at Columbia, and also had been an examiner in the United States patent office.

Twenty Lives in Peril. MILWAUKEE, February 13.—There are twenty men on the new in-take tunnel crib and the wind has raised such a sea that it is impossible to take them off. The wind is now blowing about 40 miles an hour and if it rises very much more, there will be great danger of the crib house being washed into the lake and all the men drowned, just as happened last spring. It is moving hard and electric cars are very much delayed.

Rheumatism racks the system like a thumbcrew. It retreats before the power of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies the blood.

A Chance to Make $500—or Better. A slim chance, you fancy. Well, read and judge for yourself. You have catarrh. $500 is offered for an incurable case of catarrh in the head, by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Only a few of these symptoms likely to be present at once. Dr. Sage's Remedy cures the worst cases. Only 50 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere. $500 or a cure. Either would be acceptable.

Mother and Child are Doing Well. Mrs. Brown was sick. Her friends said she would never get well. "What's the trouble?" "O, some kind of female weakness. The doctors have given up her case as hopeless. "She may live for some time," they say, "but as for a cure, that is quite out of the question."

"I don't believe it," said a woman who heard the sad news. "I don't believe she's any worse of than I was five years ago, from the same trouble, and I don't look much like a dead woman, do I?" She certainly did not, with her rosy cheeks, bright eyes, and 150 pounds of good healthy bone and flesh. "I am going to see her and tell her how she can get well." She did so, and general Mrs. Brown took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Mrs. Brown took the advice also the medicine which cures all kinds of delicate diseases so common among women, and—got well. That was two years ago. Last month she presented Mr. Brown with a ten-pound son, and mother and child are doing well.
