FERNANDINA, FLORIDA.

Fernandina is one of the most enterprising cities in the Peninsular State. Unlike so many of its sister towns in the Land of Flowers it is a new place, having sprung into prominence since the Civil war, presenting a strange contrast to the neighboring capital of the State, St. Augustine, the oldest town on the new western continent.

It is a city imbued with the quickening spirit of the New South, and if the achievements of the recent past are an earnest of the future its possibilities are great. Fernandina has a population of 4,000. It is situated on Amelia Island and is the county seat of Nassau county. It is located in the northwestern extremity of the State, 35 miles from Jacksonville and 45 miles from Brunswick, Ga.

Fernandina is easily accessible by land or water, being the terminal point of the Florida Central and Peninsular railroad as well as the Mallory Steamship line. It is within easy reach of New York by a seaboard line of railroad or by coastwise steamers.

Fernandina has a deep water harbor, and enjoys the distinction of being the principal South Atlantic shipping port. It has immense elevators and storage houses for fertilizers, phosphates, coal, salt, etc. It leads in lumber shipping and the shipping of phosphates abroad are larger than those of all other ports in Florida and Georgia combined.

In the line of public improvements Fernandina is right in the forefront. It has more miles of graded and shelled streets than any city of its size in the South. It is illuminated with electric lights and has a fine system of waterworks. It also has the Bell telephone communication. The city is drained thoroughly through terra cotta pipes, which artificial means added to the natural highly sanitary conditions, gives Fernandina a clean bill of health. Nor is Fernandina yet a finished city. The city fathers are constantly inaugurating new plans of improvements and the work of grading and shelling the streets is always being pushed. The most beautiful drive ways in the country are to be found in and around Fernandina. The beach, a mile and a half distant from the town, and 25 miles long, is reached by a delightful shelled road.

At the beach is the famous hotel, "The Strathmore" at the terminus of a branch of the F. C. & P. R. R. This great pleasure hotelery is in excellent keeping with its surroundings—grand in extent, picturesque in situation and architecture and palatial in appointments. For many successive summer seasons "The Strathmore" has been full to overflowing under the management of "mine host" Col. H. H. Linville, who imparts the character of Boniface to perfection. The surf fishing here for bass and drum is exhilarating sport for the angler. The surf bathing is unsurpassed. The beach has a gradual slope into the water, there is no treacherous undertow and life lines are not required. The hunting preserves of the island, the fishing waters and the oyster and clam beds offer every inducement to the lovers of sport. Cumberland Island adjoining is the site of the fine mansion and the hunting grounds of the great ironmaster Carnegie.

Vegetation is as early here as 100 miles south, the island being entirely surrounded by salt water. In fact the date palm on Cumberland Island fruits as soon as in its favored habitat 200 miles south. Live and water oaks line the streets. Orange trees are to be found in nearly every yard and garden in the city. Figs bear two crops a year. Peaches grow to large size and are found in luscious varieties. Grapes grow wild on the island. The cultivated varieties also do well. Japanese persimmons, lemons and other fruits of the tropics find here a congenial home where the frosts come not to blight the early flower and fruitage. The most favorable soil and climate conditions exist for the raising of oranges. All kinds of vegetation develop early. Land is cheap; the roads are good; shipments are quickly made by land or water. The weather is mild and temperate all the year around.

The F. C. & P. car building and repair shops give employment to about 1500 men. There are canning, ice, fibre, oil and creosote and cigar factories. By the way, tobacco equal to Havana is grown here. There are shingle and lumber mills galore. Liberal inducements are offered to manufacturers to locate.

Fernandina has two land companies; two newspapers; a bank; five public buildings; library; clubhouse and gymnasium; excellent school system; churches of all leading denominations; fine residences; imposing business houses; large wholesale and retail interest; a clever, cultured, hospitable, enterprising people.

For further exhaustive information relative to the city or its surroundings address Col. H. H. Linville of the Real Estate Exchange.

Pleasures of Hope.

"Who hath not owned with rapture smitten frame The power of grace, the magic of a name?" asks Campbell, the poet, in his "Pleasures of Hope." Pleasures of Hope, forsooth. Many and many a woman knows them no longer. They're run-down, debilitated, suffering from what they know not. It may be dyspepsia, heavy disease, liver or kidney disease; any or all of them. The sickness of women are cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That's where the magic of name comes in. This improves digestion, invigorates the system, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, produces refreshing sleep, dispels nervousness and melancholy, and builds up both the flesh and strength of those reduced below a healthy standard. It is a legitimate medicine, not a beverage. Contains no alcohol or inebriate; no sugar or syrup to sour in the stomach and cause distress. It is as peculiar in its composition as it is marvelous in its remedial results.

If you decide to take Hoo's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any substitute article. Take Hood's and only Hood's.

ONE OF HIS NAMES.

Never a boy had so many names. They called him Jimmy, and Jim and James. Jeems and Jamie; and well he knew Who it was that wanted him, too.

The boys in the street ran after him, shouting out loudly: "Jim! Hey, J-i-m-m-y! Until the echoes, little and big, Seemed to be dancing a Jim Crow jig. And little Mabel out in the hall, "Jim-my! Jim-my!" would sweetly call, Until he answered and let her know Where she might find him; she loved him so.

Grandpa, who was dignified, And held his head with an air of pride, Didn't believe in abridging names, And made the most he could of "J-a-m-e-s."

But if papa ever wanted him, Crisp and curt was the summons, "Jim!" That would make the boy on errands run Much faster than if he had said, "My son."

Biddy O'Flynn could never, it seems, Call him anything else but "Jeems," And when the nurse, old Mrs. McVee Called him "Jamie" it sounded nice. But sweeter and dearer than all the rest Was the one pet name, that he liked the best: "Darling!" he heard it whate'er he was.

For none but his mother called him that.

The Plain Girls Flatter the Men.

A lady being asked why plain girls often get married sooner than handsome ones, replied that it was "owing mainly to the fact of the plain girls and the vanity and want of tact on the part of men." How do you make that out?" asked a gentleman. "In this way," answered the lady: "The plain girls flatter the men, and so please their vanity; while the handsome ones wait to be flattered by the men, who haven't the tact to do it."

A Voice from the Gallery.

It seems as if there is some hope for Captain A. H. A. Williams in the contest against Settle. We certainly hope that the House will reverse the action of the committee. We hope that Williams will keep up the fight. —Williamston Sun.

It forestalls consumption. Miss Sarah E. Williver, Phillipsburg, N. J., giving her experience writes: "I was troubled for several months with a severe cough, which would have turned to consumption but for the timely use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives the best satisfaction of any cough medicine I handle, and as a seller leads all other preparations in this market. I recommend it because it is the best medicine I ever handled for coughs, colds and croup.—A. W. BALLBOURNE, Millersville, Ill. For sale by Irvin & Purcell, Reidsville and Jesse Carter, Madison.

What Home is.

A London paper offered a prize for the best definition of a home. About five thousand answers were given. Some of the best were the following: The blossom of which heaven is the fruit.

A world of trifle shut out, a world of love shut in. Where you are treated best and grumble most. The father's kingdom, the children's paradise, the mother's world. The best place for a married man after business hours are over. The place where the great are sometime small and the small often great.

The jewel casket containing the most precious of all jewels—domestic happiness. The coziest, kindest, sweetest place in all the world, the essence of our purest earthly joys and deepest sorrows.

The only spot on earth where the faults and failings of fallen humanity are hidden under the mantle of charity. A little hollow scooped out of the windy hill of the world where we can be shielded from its cares and annoyances.

A hive in which, like the industrious bee, youth garners the sweets and memories of life for age to meditate and feed upon. An abode in which the inmate, the "superior being called man," can pay back at night, with fifty per cent interest every annoyance that has met him in his business during the day.

The source of comfort which youth does not fully appreciate, which the young man and maidens lovingly desire, which the middle-age generally possess, which the old rightly value.

Naughty, Fanny M., Schoolfield. Is it not strange that Mr. Schoolfield should be rejoicing over the defeat of a brother Allianceman by a Republican? He professes to want financial reform, an income tax and other just legislation, and yet he has no word of condemnation for Mr. Settle, who has voted against every measure that the people of the Fifth District want. He voted to demonetize silver and against an income tax, and Mr. Schoolfield is disposed to be funny over such outrageous misrepresentation! Verily it is a matter to be funny about.

Don't Monkey With the Snake. It is stated that a rattlesnake cannot bite if held up by the tail. Would you like to put the statement to a practical test? Probably not; but how often do you take far greater risks? A snake-bite is not the only means for introducing poison into the system. If your liver is sluggish, it fails to remove the impurities from the blood which passes through it, and deadly poisons are thus thrown into the circulation. All the more dangerous because they are insidious. If your blood is impure, if your liver is out of order, if you have blotches, pimples, boils or eruptions, "don't monkey with the snake." Take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the only specific against all blood poisons, no matter of what name or nature. It is sold under a positive guarantee, that it will cure, or your money will be refunded.

Information Wanted from Everybody.

When you contemplate extending or improving your plant, when you need any additional machinery, tools or supplies of any kind; in fact when you have any kind of want that is to be filled, you will find that it will be greatly to your advantage to send prompt information to the Manufacturer's Record specifying just what you need. By doing this your wants will be made known immediately to thousands of manufacturers and dealers in all parts of the country who are in a position to supply anything you want. You will thus have the benefit of competitive prices and a larger selection than you could otherwise obtain, except by very extensive correspondence.

The Manufacturers Record will render you this aid in purchasing without any charge whatever. It neither buys nor sells machinery but it has hundreds of advertisers who would be glad to have your orders, and that paper makes a specialty of showing them where buyers are. It makes no difference whether you are a subscriber to the Manufacturer's Record or not, its services are at your disposal. If you want machinery, tools, material, building, railroad, or general building a new factory or enlarging an old one, developing a coal mine or a gold mine, building a saw mill or doing anything else where machinery is needed write to the Manufacturer's Record and tell about it. In fact the Manufacturer's Record wants any information you can give about everything that relates to the manufacturing, mining, railroad, or general business interests of any part of the South. A sample copy of the paper will be mailed you upon application. Address Richard H. Edmonds, editor Manufacturer's Record, Baltimore, Md.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well-known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says. "And have since been free from all pain." He now recommends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by Irvin & Purcell, Reidsville and Jesse Carter, Madison.

The Curfew.

The only town in which curfew is still rung is Fayetteville, N. C. Notwithstanding the abolition by statute in the sixteenth century of the custom of ringing the curfew in England this American town has kept it up for nearly two centuries. It is a custom which was first settled. The custom has very nearly lost its ancient significance—ordering the people to put out the fires on the hearths and to remain indoors for the night. Every evening curfew rushes in the night and bids farewell to the day that is done, and seldom are people seen on the streets after its sounds have ceased. It has never missed a night during the last century, and there is no disposition to abolish it. It also has a town crier, but in this it is not alone. Columbia, S. C., keeping up that custom, which, I believe has fallen into disuse elsewhere.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

A Republican View.

They say that either John Webster or John King can beat Settle for Congress next time. Evidently some Settle man inspired this piece of Raleigh news. Nothing could please Settle better than a "cuckoo" machine candidate of the Webster-King species. But why not make the next Congressional campaign interesting by nominating "Baldy" Williams. He is badly in need of a vindication. And then too, "Williams and the Democratic party" would make a suitable campaign campaign match for "Simmons and the Democratic party." We nominate Williams for a third attempt.—Winston Republican.
