HIT THE BULL'S EYE.

THE REVIEW'S nomination of Col. Jule Carr for governor was a centre shot and has been warmly seconded by scores of the leading papers and tion of the State. Below will be found exiracts from a few of the State papers that are favorable to Col. Carr. Space will permit us to publish only a few of the many articles which have recently appeared on this line:

THAT REIDSVILLE INTERVIEW. There is more meat in that offhand interview from the REIDSVILLE REVIEW, that we copy elsewhere, of Col. J. S. Carr's than anothing we have seen in recent years. "The as sassination of silver," he says, "sounded the Iliad of all our woes, and he asserts his unalterable faith in its revivifying power, and declares himself ready to go on record favoring its restoration to its former place as money. Such sentiments from such a man are evidences of real patriotism. We say this because there are about twelve men in all North Carolina who would be financially benefited by a strict gold standard and Col. Carr is one of these. A millionaire, with an income in no way dependent upon the trade or success of his neighbors, and the purchasing power of whose accumulated dollars would be largely enhanced by a restricted coinage, he comes out boldly for the only policy that will bring relief to a debtor sec tion, and soften the hardships of a sparsely-settled agricultural community. We are simply just in calling his position patriotic, and we commend his broad views to the prayerful consideration of Hon, Chauncey F. Black-Durham Globe.

SECONDS THE NOMINATION. THE REIDSVILLE REVIEW has nominated Col. Julian S. Carr for Governor. No man would suit us better. We make some extracts from the

Necessity creates great occasions and great occasions are the opportunities which call men of destiny to the front. In this crisis a leader who measures up to the need of the hour is forth-coming. Col. Carr is a man who is intensely Democratic and intensely North Carolinian. He is a man who is a stranger to defeat, and whose career has blazed the pathway of success and whose achievements are an example, an inspiration and a guarantee to every poor boy in this State, showing him that the conditions of our civilization are favorable to his own progress. He is a man who dares to cherish high ambitions, which are laudable, and advance them by every means which is legitimate. He is a man with the gallantry, grace and genius of generalship which invokes success and furnishes a spur to devotion. He is a man of affairs and events, who, while in money a millionaire, in brains, enerlove of his fellow citizens is a multimillionaire. money. It is real refreshing to read such doctrine from such a source. Col. Carr has as much right to be a grasping goldbug as any other rich man. But he isn't. He knows how to manage his business affairs so as to make money, but he knows the value of a dollar, knows that a dollar is only worth 100 cents, and is honest enough to admit that one dollar is worth as much as another. He is not engaged in the business of building up his own fortune by making paupers out of ten thousand of his neighbors. He loesn't claim that the way to make money plentiful is to quit coining and printing it. Last, but not least, Col. Carr is not looking around to buy up the property of his less for tunate fellow citizens at one third or one half its value with appreciated gold dollars, as many wealthy men

Col. Carr was almost as poor as any of us thirty years ago, but went into the tobacco business, and, by manufacturing a superior grade of smoking tobacco, has built up a trade that extends to every corner of the earth. Prospering as he did, he has not felt the stings of contraction nor experienced the trials of attempting to do a hundred dollars worth of business with thirty dollars in cash, as nine hundred and ninety nine of our citizens are forced to do business now, hence he is not a typical calamity howler, and may be excused when the balance of us howl.

He has not studied every phase of the financial question, but he is right its sky is overcast. Its enemies have on the silver question. His patriotic combined against it and it is utterances show that his heart is on the right side. Long live Coi, Carr!-

ENDORSES ALL THE REVIEW SAID. THE REIDSVILLE REVIEW of last week devoted several columns to an interview with North Carolina's foremost tobacco manufacturer and a ringing editorial nominating him for Governor. We quote this passage which is particularly fine and eminently true: "Col. Julian S Carr! A name-magical and magnetic-to congy, breadth of vision, patriotism, and | jure with in North Carolina. A personality, which, like that of the lamented Vance, possesses an abiding placed at the head of the ticket and interest for the people of the good old North State. careful observer of men and events North in Carolina remarked to us not long ago that Walter R. Henry, of Henderson, was getting ready to make a break for the Populist camp and was only watching a favorable opportunity to form a new his married life as "one grand, sweet alliance. We happened to known that Mr. Henry was nursing a very sore head, was sulking in his tent and had soured on some of the leaders of the Democratic party, particularly Minister Ransom. Still we were hardly prepared to credit the statement of his abandoning the principles of Democracy which he has so eloquently advocated on the stump. But the world of politics is full of surprises. His flop to Populism s now an accomplished fact. Mr. Henry was a talented young lawyer of Henderson and if he had adhered to the practice of his profession, instead of hunting for a party which would delight to honor him to an office, he might be now enjoying the success for which he is evidently well fitted. It is to be regretted that a young man of Mr. Henry's ability would give up the sure rewards insident to the practice of the law to engage in the uncertain game of politics. We really pitied him when we learned of his banging around Washington trying to get an office. He was unsuccessful and feels his disappointment keenly. Instead of being able to realize that he is a young man and can afford to bide Cleveland. Now he proudly exhibits his time in the party he feels called upon to make some kind of spectacle of himself, and takes no warning from such fellows as old man Buck Kitchen. He "jines" the Populists, expecting to get balm for his sore spots and to revenge himself upon the Democratic party because it has not been quick to recognize hime in some substantial way for his services. There are older and better workers in the party than Mr. Henry, who have been stood off for years without hope or promise of reward. We would have been glad to have seen him supplied in some way, but now that it looks like he was seeking an office more than the triumph of Democratic principles we are not able

The following from the Chenoa (Ill ) Gazette, will be read with interest for its excellent sentiment if not the poetic inspiration it breathes: "How dear to our hearts is the old silver dollar, when some kind sub scriber presents it to view; the liberty bust without necktie or collar and all the strange things that to us seem so new; the wide spreading eagle, the arrows below it, the stars and the words with the strange things they tell; the coin of our fathers, we're glad that we know it, for some time or other t'will come in right wellthe spread eagle dollar, the old silver dollar, the dollar of our daddies that we all love so well."
