NEW SAN FRANCISCO

Work of Reconstruction Vigorously Pushed.

San Francisco, May 3.—To-day marked the actual beginning of the disentangling of San Francisco from its disordered condition and of commencing the work of reconstruction. On many sides were visible indications of the determination of the merchants to resume business. Gangs of men with teams were excavating for foundations in numerous vacant lots and in other places the removal of debris of burned buildings was under way. The streets at an early hour were thronged with laborers on their way to the burned districts, where they had been engaged to assist in the task of cleaning up. The boats from the cities across the bay and the local electric cars from the suburbs were packed with workmen who had already secured employment. In many places advertisements were posted on the walls seeking laborers, and these inquiries for the men were met with numerous responses from heads of families who were only too willing to engage in any kind of labor. The authorities to-day issued numerous permits to corporations and individuals to open their safes. Every precaution was taken to establish the identity of the owners, so it will be almost impossible to practice fraud in this direction.

To-day's work of providing for the destitute and the homeless was done under the plan devised by Gen. Greely, and a check put upon the waste, extravagance and deception that had prevailed to some extent in the past.

There will be some important meetings soon of the committees concerned with the financial future of the city, and it is expected that the ideas advanced for the rehabilitation of the city will become crystallized in a project which may eventually be submitted to Congress for action by that body.

The police and military authorities have taken steps which will eventually prevent looting of the ruins, particularly in Chinatown. The latter place has been a mecca for relic hunters and it is asserted that men and women of prominence have been carrying from the ashes of this quarter many valuable pieces of chinaware, bronze, etc.

Last night four militiamen were placed under arrest while digging in the ruins of Chinese bazaars. The extension of street car, telegraph and telephone systems is proceeding as rapidly as the difficulties will permit and it is hoped before the week is ended the people who remain in San Francisco will be provided for in affairs of information and transportation along the lines approaching normal.

Rural Delivery and Good Road.
Mecklenburg county is a perfect network of rural free delivery routes. This is not one of the counties for which there is talk of cutting out routes and the reason is that Mecklenburg has good roads. The Postoffice Department first requires a good road before a route is established and to this fact is due to a general improvement of roads throughout the country. In its efforts to arouse interest in this matter the Department is doing a good work. In speaking of the work of the department, The Washington Post says that since 1894, Congress has made appropriations to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to make inquiries in regard to the systems of road management throughout the United States, to furnish expert advice on road building and to make investigations in regard to the best methods of road building and the best kind of road-making materials in the several States; and for preparing, publishing and distributing bulletins and reports of such work. The maintenance of good roads, unobstructed by gates, with no unbridged creeks or streams not fordable at all ordinary seasons of the year, is a condition precedent to the establishment and continuance of rural delivery service. When a rural agent or a postmaster reports that the roads, traversed by rural carriers are impassable, or in bad condition, the matter is taken up with the department through the postmaster, with the local road authorities, and due notice given that unless the condition of the roads is improved it will be necessary to take steps looking to withdrawal of the service in that vicinity. This policy has resulted in the expenditure of thousands of dollars throughout the country in the construction of bridges and the improvement of highways. The maintenance of good roads as required by the Post office Department does not necessarily involve any radical change in the system of roads in a given locality, but does call for a system of grading that will keep the roads smooth and properly drained. The Post says the difference in some places to this important subject, so far as rural delivery service is concerned, is disclosed by the inspection of the service now being made, and it is hoped that the result of the efforts of the Department during the coming summer will be such an increased interest in the improvement of all highways traversed by rural routes that the Department will be enabled to more satisfactorily complete the work of extending the service to the largest proportion of the rural population throughout the country.—Charlotte Chronicle.

A Notable Controversy Over Some Famous Nubbin Ridge Lyrics.

The Greensboro Record takes note of the controversy between The Richmond Times-Dispatch and Montgomery Advertiser concerning the Liza poem and song, and says, after presenting fairly the contention of each: "If permitted to enter the controversy, we should like to remark that both papers have the stanza incorrectly quoted. The Observer is correct in saying it is a Carolina production; it was written by a man from Nubbin Ridge, Rockingham county, and is heard here to this day, and here is how it runs:

"You go down new-cut road,
I'll go down lane,
If you get there 'fore I do,
Kiss old Liza Jane."

"This is 'it'—the original production; it had a chorus which we could repeat, but this is quite enough; it clinches the whole business."

It is with great diffidence that we record a difference with a paper usually so accurate as The Greensboro Record, particularly in matters of classic literature and more particularly still in matters of poetry and song. But it is certainly wrong in this instance. We are not blaming it; God forbid. In view of the exciting events which are so constantly occurring in its town it is to be pardoned for an occasional lapse of memory and a certain degree of mental alienation. But the facts must be kept straight. The Observer stands pat with the Times-Dispatch on this version of the poem and insists that all others are base imitations:

"I went up the new-cut road,
She come down the lane;
I axed Liza Jane to marry me;
She axed me won't I shame,
I turned my back upon her side—
O, g' long Liza Jane."

The Record in its confused mental state, has no doubt gotten this new-cut poem confused with another, which opens thus:

"An I went up the new-cut road
I met a terrapin and a toad;
Every time the toad would sing
The terrapin cut the pigeon wiug."

If the truth is ever known it will no doubt be found that this is the real Nubbin Ridge product. Col. Reece will please pull himself together and appeal to his better memory.—Leading Editorial in Charlotte Observer.

Stomach Troubles.

Mrs. Sue Martin, old and highly respected resident of Fasonia, Miss., was sick with stomach trouble for more than six months. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured her. She says: "I can now eat anything I want and I am the proudest woman in the world to have such a good medicine." For sale by Geo. W. Brittain.

TROOPS ON THE SCENE

More Trouble Feared at Mount Carmel.

Mount Carmel, Pa., May 3.—Quiet continues here, although trouble may break out at any time, owing to the intense bitterness of the residents to the constabulary. All of the people who were shot during the rioting on Monday are still alive, although several are expected to die. Despite the threats of the citizens that another battle would result if any of the troopers entered the town, four squads of Captain Page's men made their appearance on the streets early today. They were all mounted and had their carbines unslung as they rode slowly through the place. Hundreds of people gazed on them with astonishment, as no one dreamed the constables would venture into town in such a small force. Burgess Ponman and other local authorities quickly passed word along for everybody to remain orderly and not insult the troopers. The latter kept a watch on all persons, and were ready to use their guns if any one attempted to use firearms. The troopers remained here about 15 minutes and then proceeded to Locust Gap.

During last night the territory surrounding the Sayre colliery was free of stragglers and angry miners. The captain arranged a system of patrol such as obtains in the regular army, and the first men out of the stockade to investigation of adjoining territory were the squads passing through the place. These troopers will visit towns and villages within a radius of fifteen square miles and pay particular attention to the topography of the ground surrounding coal breakers, so that they can procure good positions to repel attacks of mobs in case the latter should attempt to raid non-union men who, the coal officials say, will be put to work as soon as possible after the Scranton convention, in case that body declares for a strike.

The constabulary are greatly encouraged over Governor Pennypacker's declaration that they acted right in defending themselves here in the two fights with the mob. The officials of the United States Mine-Workers, who have been busy the past forty hours influencing the foreign element of the union to be orderly, left today for the Scranton convention, after making a final plea to the men not to provoke the constabulary and thus lead to another fight.

Sheriff Scarpless is keeping close watch on the situation, and will use no time in asking the governor for state troops if more serious trouble occurs.

Five carloads of strike breakers from the clearfield region arrived here early today, and it is reported that five additional carloads from the same region will reach here later in the day. The men are said to have state miner's certificates entitling them to work in the hard coal fields. Fourteen carloads of men from the soft coal region were run into the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company's storage yard near Mahanoy City. The cars containing the strikebreakers are fitted up so that the men can live in them. The cars are guarded by details of coal and iron policemen. In case no strike is declared, the Clearfield men will be shipped back home.

Didn't Show Up.

Prof. Hayes and Mr. Ivie, after they arrived at Bethlehem Tuesday night, found that Mr. Hudson or Mr. Foster or Mr. Joyce did not meet them for a division of time as had been given out in advance of their going. It seems that the advocates of mud roads are determined not to let the people hear them in a joint discussion, and in fact they have carefully avoided making speeches in territories where they felt their arguments could find their way into a newspaper. Speech-making in Carmel Woods, they think, is all right, but they dare not speak in Reidsville, Leaksville, Madison, or one of the county towns where the newspaper people or the speakers who are advocating the bond issue can hear them. What does the average voter think of being invited to cast his ballot with a set of people who are afraid to allow the general public hear their contentions?

Robbed of Large Sum.

The police authorities here are on the lookout for the burglars who some nights ago made big hauls at the residences of two prominent citizens in Reidsville. Mr. Harris, of Reidsville, one of the parties robbed, was in the city yesterday and in consultation with Chief of Police J. B. Akers, and gave much information concerning several who are suspected of being implicated in the robberies. Mr. Harris himself had $535 stolen from his bed room, and the robbery was one of the most daring known to have been perpetrated in this section. He suspects two women and a man, who have been traveling through Reidsville selling proprietary medicines as being the guilty parties. The women had been to his home, and consequently had an opportunity of learning how to enter the dwelling.

On the evening prior to the robbery Mr. Harris had been given $500 by a resident of Reidsville to deposit in one of the banks. The banks, however, closed before he reached them, and he carried the money home with him. In addition to this he had of his own $35. Mr. Harris believes that he was chloroformed. "I was aroused," he said, "late in the night by a peculiar odor in the room, and felt something press across my face. I caught sight of the skirts of a woman in the room, but was in a half dazed condition and thought that the figure was my wife. I fell into a dream and did not awake until next morning."

When Mr. Harris aroused on the following morning he discovered that he had been robbed of a large sum.—Danville Register.

Penn-Edrington.

A special from Fort Worth, Texas, Tuesday to THE REVIEW says:

"Preceded by brilliant social functions for the past 30 days, the wedding of Mr. Charles A. Penn, of Reidsville, N. C., and Miss Teddie Edrington, of this place, was solemnized tonight. In Miss Edrington Texas loses one near and dear to the State and city. Born and reared among us, here family is closely identified with Texas history and independence. She is a daughter of Mr. H. D. Edrington, one of the oldest bankers of Texas. No young lady has been more prominently identified with the social life of Fort Worth. Mr. Penn is of distinguished parentage and is closely identified with one of the largest independent tobacco concerns in this country.

"Miss Edrington entered the church with Mr. Edrington, her brother. She wore a gown of duchess lace with pearls and an empire dress veil fastened with a diamond crescent, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. There were six attendants: Misses Anita Penn, of Reidsville; Bernice Newlin, of Fort Worth; Margaret Crawford, of Dallas; M. Phelan, of Atlanta, Ga.; Carrie Saunders, of Fort Worth, and Bessie Tarleton, of Austin.

"Mr. and Mrs. Penn left tonight on a trip to the Northwest and thence to the Hawaiian Islands."

The Tobacco Market.

Sales continue very small on the Reidsville tobacco market, owing to dry, cool weather, as well as the small amount of tobacco now in the farmers' hands. During the past few days sales last-d hardly an hour each day. The quality of the goods offered is rather nondescript and no fine or color tobacco, to speak of, appeared on sale. Prices are strong, and all the tobacco offered is taken at outside figures, the stocks being more reduced than they have been before at this season of the year.

Preparations for the new crops are under way in the Southern sections, there having been considerable planting. No scarcity of plants in the old section is heard of, but there is a scarcity of plants, owing to unreasonable dry weather, in Eastern Carolina, which may effect the size of the crop planted in that section. However, from what can be learned, about the acreage of last year will be planted in the old belt and there will be a slight decrease in the Eastern Carolina sections.

South Carolina will plant, as far as can be learned, about the same as last year. As the crop of 1905 was below the average in size in the bright belt, this not indicate a very large acreage for the crop of 1906. Of course the yield in ponds will be governed largely by the conditions that prevailed during the growing period.

An Argument Against Good Roads.

"I want a bill like they have in Guilford county," said Mr. Standpatt, as he finished an argument against a provision in the Rockingham bill which was precisely the same as the one in the Guilford bill.

STORMS SWEEP TEXAS

Northern Part of State Sustains Damage.

Dallas, Texas, May 2.—Extremely heavy rains, destructive winds and lightning have caused serious washouts on the railroads and much damage in Northern Texas. At Dennis for 28 hours rain has fallen aggregating 5 3/4 inches.

On the Frisco system between Dennison and Red River, a section of track sunk several inches and trains had to be derailed. Similar conditions exist on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas between Dennison and Greenville and Dennison and Whitesboro, with several washouts reported.

The Dennis yards of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway were flooded.

At McKinney and vicinity wind and rain in volume destroyed a number of farmhouses and injured several people.

The storm swept a clean path from Blue Ridge Northeast for eight miles, its track being 200 to 400 yards wide. Several people were injured.

Dallas and vicinity received a hard rain flooding basements and underground warehouses of business firms.

In the vicinity of Bailey, in Fannin county, 12 houses were blown down.

Should Be Made to Stay at Home.

Messrs P. W. Glidewell and Henry Lane spoke at Sadler Tuesday night. About thirty voters were out to hear them, and of this number nearly all were opposed to the good roads movement.

We regret to learn that one gentleman who was present annoyed the speakers so much that they proceeded with great difficulty. It has been clearly shown that the advocates of mud roads are unwilling to hear arguments on the question, and that they prefer to vote under prejudice, but we had not anticipated that any of them would resort to an effort to suppress the speakers of those who are advocating the bond issue. Any such habit better remain away from the speaking, as they lay themselves liable to indictment for disturbing a public speaker.

D. M. I. Suspends.

The Danville Military Institute, one of the best known educational institutions in the South, suspended Wednesday, two weeks before the close of the regular session. The suspension is due to financial embarrassment, but to what extent the school is involved is not known.

An Argument Against Good Roads.

"I come to Reidsville frequently and leave in a drunken condition; on my return quite often I lose my balance and fall from my horse into the deep mud; if they macadamize the roads I might fall on the rock and that would be the last of me in this world."
