ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

"Watch Reidsville Grow Cleaner" should be the shibboleth of this town and every citizen could help in the movement.

Boost Reidsville in season and out of season. There is nothing that helps a town like boosting, unless it is new enterprises which frequently come as a result of boosting.

At a conference of the Democratic State leaders at Lincoln, Nebraska, Wednesday afternoon, at which Mr. Bryan was present, it was decided that Mr. Bryan should be the party's candidate for the United States Senate next year. Mr. Bryan was not bidding for the place, but the leaders demanded that he enter the race.

Those of us who remember Hon. John M. Morehead as a baseball umpire know that when he made a decision that he would never change it, and we are betting that if he has ever said he would go to see the President and tell him a few things, that he will do it, and we are also banking on him tendering his resignation if he does not succeed in having his candidate finally landed for census supervisor. The other day when he predicted that he would take his medicine we had lost sight of Mr. Morehead's propensity for sticking to his decisions.

The State Department of Education has just gotten out the initial number of a monthly special letter from the division of teaching-trainees that is designed to go into the hands of every public school teacher in North Carolina with a view to increasing efficiency and bringing about uniformity in teaching methods. The November special just issued recites the fact that the rural schools throughout the State are just opening and urges that active, earnest work be gotten under way at once. There are hints and references as to the best organization of the district schools, systems of recitation, reading courses.

With his arrival in Washington Wednesday, President Taft completed a tour of 12,739 miles occupying fifty-seven days. In the trip he crossed thirty-seven States and territories, visited seventy-six cities, not to mention innumerable towns, made two hundred and fifty speeches, and attended fifty banquets, besides breakfasts and lunches. In the course of his travels he went over twenty-four different railroad systems and en route gathered enough presents to fill two or three express cars. These include saddles, Indian pottery, wines, hogs, kegs of cider, scarf pins, golf sticks, and sacks full of letters from cranks.

GOING BACK TO THE FARM.

Elsewhere we are copying from the Progressive Farmer an article written by our countryman, Mr. A. L. French, with reference to the splendid opportunities which life on the farm presents young men. We have in mind a number of young men who have moved from the farm to overcrowded cities or the towns and who have, later, returned to the rural districts and made a splendid success in tilling the soil. It seems natural, as Mr. French pointed out, that those who are suited or adapted to farming will drift back to the cultivation of the soil. The following reference is to a young man who came from the Polham section to Reidsville a few years ago, and who after trying of town life, went back to the farm.

Mr. Tom Pierce, of Polham, N. C., sold a large load of tobacco here today, the prices received being $20, $30 and $45 per hundred pounds. Hundreds of young men who had abandoned the farms to return again are making a success at farming, have been imbued with new ideas and new methods which count mightily in the making of success on the farm today.

A STRANGE CHARACTERISTIC.

We have frequently noticed what we thought was a more manifest sympathy on the part of the female population for members of the male sex who might have trouble or adversity than they showed towards those of their own sex. Likewise we have noticed that the men sympathize more deeply with women in their affliction than they do with men. The Greensboro News, speaking of the suicide of a young woman near that city one day this week, calls attention to the fact which we have frequently noticed from time to time. Says the News:

Another strange human characteristic of human nature was noted yesterday morning as groups of friends who went to view the body passed out of the door of the undertaking parlors. Every man who came out had a solemn expression of countenance, while without exception the ladies, as they struck the sidewalk, showed not the least solemnity of appearance, but on the other hand went away chatting and smiling as if they had just emerged from some shopping expedition. The contrast of facial expression between the men and women was too patent to escape the attention of a group of curious citizens who had gathered about the establishment.

THE TROUBLE IN GREECE.

Failure of Hellenic Cause in Crete Has Brought About Disturbance.

The cause of the naval revolt in Greece which led to the fight at historic Salamis is to be found probably in the recent failure of the Greek cause in Crete when the powers upon Turkey's protest removed the Hellenic flag which had been hoisted in Kanak. For this failure to secure Crete for Greece the blame was popularly laid to governmental inefficiency, and as a result several weeks ago two battalions of troops at Athens mutinied. Retiring to the suburbs, they demanded the surrender of the high places held in the army by Crown Prince Constantine, commander in chief of the Greek army; Prince Andrew, a captain of cavalry, and Prince Christopher, a sublieutenant in the infantry.

The cause of the malcontents was espoused by the powerful Military League, which on Oct. 15 forced the chamber of deputies to vote a measure abolishing the right of the crown prince to hold the post of commander in chief and of the other princes to hold military commands. King George earlier in the day having persuaded his sons, the Princes Constantine, George, Nicholas and Christopher, to resign their commissions. Before the passage of the military bills in the chamber of deputies thirty royalist members showed their disapproval by withdrawing from the chamber. These loyalists insisted that the Military League was determined to force the king to abdicate.

To some observers it seemed that the crisis had been postponed by the retirement of the princes, but to all it was evident that it was likely to grow acute again if the Creteans returned deputies to the chamber at the next election.

Meanwhile the Military League, not satisfied with the humiliation of the royal family, issued an ultimatum demanding the enactment within twenty-four hours of an ordinance suspending all promotion for five years, the abolition of the post of rear admiral, hereafter held by Prince George, together with two vice admiralships and fifteen positions of lesser rank. The premier offered a compromise in the form of a bill altering the age limit for superannuation from sixty-five years to fifty-eight years. This was not satisfactory to the league, and thirty naval officers retired to the island of Salamis, upon which is situated the arsenal which these officers seized and where previous to the engagement between the fleet and their torpedo boats they entrenched themselves.

Road Superintendent Exonerated Of the Grave Charge of Brutality

The grand jury filed into court at Reidsville yesterday and made a report of an investigation into the whipping of C. F. Lewis which exonerated Road Superintendent Rickman of any brutality, and had embodied in their report the statement that Lewis himself claimed that no maltreatment was employed. Judge Jones stated that he had authorized the grand jury to make an investigation, as he thought the people of the county were entitled to having the matter probed. The jury appointed a committee of five to visit the convict camp and in their report they say that they examined Lewis separately and apart from the convicts and the guards, and that he stated that while he was given 21 lashes, which were painful, there were no marks left, and that he had not been fastened with a ball and chain or confined in a dungeon. He declared, so the report states, that there was no maltreatment, and that he had been treated no worse than other prisoners had been treated.

Reidsville people who were in attendance upon the sessions of the court yesterday state these facts and we base our report upon the information we consider from a reputable source.

We append below what Superintendent Rickman sends us as a report of the grand jury, which was submitted to his honor, Judge Jones:

"We visited the county convict camp and acting under your honorable instructions we made a thorough investigation of the whipping of C. F. Lewis. I have not questioned the said Lewis. He informed us that he was whipped unaccountably, but was a run only twenty-one lashes and that there was not a single mark on him from the effects of the whipping, that he was not placed in any den, neither was there any ball and chain put on him, and that he was not confined in a dark pit. We found the camp in excellent condition and have no recommendation to make regarding its maintenance."

To the Editor of The Review. My attention has been called to an article appearing in your paper of the 21st instant, regarding the whipping of C. F. Lewis, which is in many particulars false and slanderous and does me great injustice. The statement that he was "run" is absolutely false, and the statement that a ball and chain was put on him, that he was confined in a dark pit, is equally false and without any foundation in fact. It is true that this prisoner was whipped, but he was not whipped unaccountably. He was not a run, as stated above, more than fifty lashes on his bare back, but although only fifty lashes were given, the pain was such as to cause a prisoner who has been whipped in this manner, to feel as if he were being put on him, or any other part of his body, his or any other part of his body confined in a dark pit. I keep in mind the fact in which to confine prisoners, nor do I keep balls and chains at the camp. This prisoner has enjoyed the privileges of a "trusty" from the time he was received at the camp until his recent offense. Out of consideration of his physical condition he has been given light work, and has at all times been treated with kindness. When he abused the privileges which had been accorded him, and committed an act which in my judgment called for correction and punishment I ordered that it be done. I did not punish him myself, but it was done by my direction, and I assume full responsibility for it. It is my duty to protect the prisoners who are in my care and custody from the public, and it is equally my duty to protect the public from them. More especially do I think it my duty to protect ladies who are passing along the road from interference or insult by men under my charge, and so long as I am superintendent I expect to do it. If this displeased The Review it can't be helped. It represents my conscientious convictions of the duty I owe the public, and will be none the less adhered to in the future.

As regards the alleged illegality of the punishment, and the damage suits and criminal indictments which you say it is rumored will be instituted, I submit that the whipping of prisoners as a method of correction and punishment was not begun by me. It was first practiced by Mr. L. Blackburn, our first superintendent, and has been followed by every superintendent since, including Messrs. C. H. Stokes, James V. Price and George W. Estes. I have simply followed the custom which has prevailed in this county since we have worked prisoners on the roads, and if it is wrong I have never heard it complained of before by The Review or any other newspaper in the county.

In this connection, and as bearing directly upon the case, I had you honor with letter from Mr. A. Newton McCollum, a gentleman who has held a responsible position in connection with this work for a number of years. Having served under other superintendents, I am content with his estimate of my conduct towards the prisoners under my charge, and of my action in the case complained of, and respectfully request that you publish the same. I enclose you herewith also a copy of the report of the grand jury, which being in session, visited the camp, today and investigated this matter, and ask that this be published.

In conclusion let me say that I do not think you were fair to me, to your readers, or to yourself, in publishing a mass of unsupported and unfounded rumors about a matter of this sort without first trying to ascertain the truth or falsity of the same, and if you ask that you will give this letter, and the papers already mentioned, a place in your next issue as a matter of justice to all concerned, and in order that the injustice done may be repaired. C. A. RICKMAN, Superintendent.

WATT'S VWAREHOUSE TOBACCO BULLETIN

I am glad to say all grades of tobaccos continue firm and strong and even better prices than when I made my last announcement. Of course I don't know how prices will be in the future, but my opinion is that NOW is a good time to sell tobacco. In selling don't get your tobacco wet. Breaks have been good for a dry time, and I wish the whole crop could be marketed in just such size breaks. My breaks for November so far have averaged nearly $11.00. We wish to extend our sincere thanks for the liberal patronage given us the past eight years. While many merchants have complained of hard times and poor trade our business increases as the years go by. Every month of this year our cash sales are more than any previous year. We believe there is a cause. We have endeavored to give the trade the worth of their money in quality and quantity. We have been handling the Colman and Battle Axe and Jenkins hand-meshes for several years and every time we sell a pair we make a customer and a little money. So we are now able to show as well a selected stock of ribbons for men, women and children as ever came to this market, when were bought early last spring before Hudson's and Glimmer advanced to the present high prices. So that we are now prepared to meet any legitimate competition. We have long since seen the advantage of making our goods as low as we can afford to sell them, and have one price to everybody. So a child can buy from us as low as anyone. We carry a full and complete line of staple dry goods, also staple and fancy groceries, horse and cow feed, etc. Again thanking all who have or may call on us, we ask a liberal share of your business, and when you come to Reidsville stop at the corner of Seales and Glimmer streets with your barter or cash and we will treat you right.
