THE INSTITUTE OVER

Successful Meeting With Inspiring Add-esses.

Misses Davies, Meyers and Durham Among the Speakers—Two Days' Feast of Good Things at the M. E. Church This Week.

The Missionary Institute, conducted in the Main Street M. E. church, closed Tuesday night after a two-days feast of good things. On Monday morning, Miss Davies, Miss Meyers, and Miss Durham tried to throw the burden on the hearts of those present, discussing the Forward Movement, Reasons Why, showing the awful need of this Forward Movement, both in the foreign and home fields. At the afternoon session they gave the outlining of "An Adequate Missionary Policy," giving five items as necessary: 1st, Prayer—Definite Prayer; 2nd, Enrollment; 3rd, Information; 4th, Organization; 5th, Gifts. As Miss Davies was to leave that night they took the topics a little out of order, she taking her special two, Enrollment and Organization. She went into details as to methods, etc., how to get new members, how to keep them, transforming indifferent members from the "lost" to go the missionary meeting into the charmed to go." Her outline of the Organization policy was masterly and she showed us the need of following this policy as far as possible.

Despite the inclement weather, on Monday night, Miss Davies was greeted by a crowded house, speaking on the subject of "World Wide Missions" holding, for an hour and a half, the vast audience spell bound by her message which was one of great power and which was certainly the finest missionary address ever heard in this city.

Tuesday morning, Miss Myers took up the Prayer policy of the Missionary Society, telling what Prayer means to the individual who prayed and to the one for whom prayer was made, and she made an earnest appeal for a deeper prayer life. She also took up the Gift Policy which certainly is a continuation of the Prayer policy, for prayer and gifts go together. Miss Durham conducted the devotional exercises at the noon hour, her talk being on the inner life and it was one which made a deep impression on all who heard her.

Tuesday afternoon, Miss Durham outlined the Information policy; urging formation of Mission Study classes, use of Missionary literature, its use in the auxiliary, place in the home, how to secure general circulation. How often we should meet, what kind of meetings we should have why a program committee, how to make meetings interesting, use of map charts, posters, etc. This part of the work was enjoyed thoroughly by all who heard the ladies, many questions were asked and answered and a season of refreshing was certainly on hand. At four, Miss Myers talked to the children who had been invited for that hour and she held their attention, telling them of the little Korean children, what they did not have, this list being a long one. The little ones were thoroughly interested in what she told them. Miss Durham then spoke on her work among the city poor and in her sweet way won their little hearts.

At night, to a crowded church, Miss

Durham spoke on Home Mission, work the urgent needs at home and she brought tears to many eyes with the sad tale of misery, want and degradation to be found in the large cities. Miss Meyers spoke on the foreign field, particularly on Korea, and it made ones heart bleed to think of those benighted people, crying out for the bread of life and with such little interest being manifested by the Christians in this land where Christ means so much.

The Missionary Institute has come and is now over, but is hoped that it may mean much in the interest awakened, the enthusiasm kindled, and a deeper spiritual life of the whole community. While the subject was taken up and policy outlined from the standpoint of the needs in the fields of Southern Methodism, yet we feel that the whole town has been benefited. We hope that the following motto given by Miss Davies will be taken by each individual as his or her own: "Love Jesus Passionately; study about Him diligently; serve Him willingly; Pray conqueringly; give self denyingly and we would rejoice always." Don't you think so?

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Main Street Methodist Church wishes to extend a thank to the press of our town in helping us notify the people of our meeting; to those of the other church who helped in leading devotional meetings and presiding; in the hearty co-operation of the Pastors and our Presiding Elder, Mr. Ware, in the deep interest shown, and to the public generally for their attendance, for we wanted you to share our opportunity with us and we are grateful that you should have taken advantage of it. To those who conducted the institute for us, we offer our best wishes and our heartfelt prayers for many blessings to fall in showers upon them. We were delighted to have with us our District Secretary, Mrs. A. E. Fordham, of Greensboro. She was a source of much benefit to us, particularly in the meeting of our Society which was called for Tuesday at 2:30 when she gave us such a helpful talk on the prayer life, showing us charts, etc., giving us some plans which we trust may work out with profit and advantage. We are grateful for the presence of these thoroughly consecrated women who came to us with a message, giving freely of what they had—informing us and filling us with inspiration for higher life. But, as Miss Davies said, we may have heard these appeals, may have been touched by them, thought they were fine, "But what are you going to do about it?" What shall we?

Married at Ruffin.

Last Wednesday morning a quiet marriage was solemnized at Ruffin at the home of Mr. A. D. Calhoun, when Mr. George Hill, of Nance, wed to the altar Miss Julia Hoppe. The only attendants were Miss Lill Hopper, sister of the bride, and Mr. Roy Hill, brother of the groom. The bride was beautifully gowned in grey traveling suit with hat and gloves to match.

Mrs. Calhoun received the guests and ushered them into the parlor where the ceremony was immediately performed, and after congratulations, the party left for Hopper.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hopper, and is a deservedly popular young lady.

The groom is a substantial young farmer of Nance.

The writer wishes for them a long life and all success.

Now is the time to subscribe.

Judge Daniels Has Able And Highly Instructive Charge For Grand Jury

The spring term of Rockingham County Superior Court convened at Wentworth Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock with His Honor Frank A. Daniels, Judge presiding, Solicitor S. Potter Graves representing the State.

Judge Daniels was elected in November and since his induction into office he has made quite favorable impressions wherever he has held court.

He seems—as a man—to be a combination of quick dignity, gentleness and Christian manhood, eager to do justice, anxious to uphold the law and with it all carrying in his make-up genuine mercy and a deep sympathy for the wrecked lives and sad human wanderers that appear before his court. His charge to the grand jury was an unusual address. He talked for nearly two hours, holding the close attention of the jurymen, laymen and the bar. He did not, as has been the custom with most judges, recite any catalogue of crime, but in a masterly manner, effective and earnest, he reviewed the growth of the law of the land, its splendid ideals and how they are being worked out. With an artistic mind he touched every range of human endeavor and showed how a great God is working out His great plans for the best. He declared that the age in which we live is the best age the world has ever known. Corrective punishment was what he advocated and he said the last resort is appealing to the terrors of the law.

He spoke of the reformatory, the orphanage, the juvenile court, the schools and the thousands of influences at work in the nation to enable boys to grow into strong and useful men. The boys' corn contests, he declared, are serving a very useful purpose and are doing great good in the country. Progressive legislation has been enacted which prevents the working of children in the mills at tender age, thereby saving the seed corn from which must come future generations. Good schools are being built everywhere and the State has built one school house every day since 1901. Good roads are revolutionizing country life and there are evidences of moral growth and uplift everywhere.

He finished his remarkable charge by taking a shot at the pessimist, saying that the man who could look up into the blue sky and find no beauty in the wonders of nature, and who could look about him and see no evidence of development, was suffering from a derangement of the liver—nothing more.

In the course of his charge he reviewed the work being done for the health of the people of the State and called attention to the fact that smallpox had lost its terrors, diphtheria much if its attendant horrors and typhoid fever is succumbing to the march of progress. He praised the work of the North Carolina Board of Health.

In conclusion he explained to the members of the grand jury that he felt that it would do "all hands" more good to have a talk on fundamental principles, rather than the ordinary catalogue of crime.

Mr. Ulysses R. Haynes, of Simpsonville township, was appointed foreman of the grand jury.

SHOULD TEACHERS DANCE?

This Question May Be Debated by Two Williamsburg Gentlemen.

Editors The Review: Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words to "Uncle Si" in regard to what he said to "June Sweetener."

He leaves the impression that our competent teachers are teaching dancing and that I am an advocate of the same. That is not correct. We only intimated in another paper that they (the "preceptors") had the privilege of dancing or enjoying themselves as other people. It was the point of liberty, that great principle that our forefathers fought for and spilled so much blood for that I was after. The essence of which our government and constitution of the United States is founded and built upon.

Consistency is the greatest and brightest of jewels. "Uncle Si" should have been the last one to say anything about dancing. No longer than last winter, or spring, there was a minstrel at the schoolhouse and there was dancing—log dancing and "old time religion" danced, and "Uncle Si" jeered and laughed. Not one word said against it. That was when he was the "chief ram-rod." And he would have that called some kind of drill, I suppose. But now, if the present incumbents participate in dancing at a neighbor's house—it is awful. Therefore, I agree with "Uncle Si" that it does make a difference "who does the dancing." The school house a "sacred seat!" Did you ever? When was it made so? "Sacred!" If it was ever made so, it has long since lost its sacredness—before we, the present administration, had anything to do with it. We want to keep history straight.

"Uncle Si" says stealing partners might hard work; that he saw "the time of 'Old Dan Tucker'" is a man sweating great drops of perspiration while at it. Guess he recalls the time pretty well. When he looked in the mirror, "That's not the man." That was one time "Uncle Si" did not have his dancing done by proxy.

Consistency? Yes, it is a powerful word, and a bright jewel. And that good man that lost his eye, was none of his acts that caused him to lose it. And that is a borrowed expression. "Ah, Master, but it was borrowed." The axe that was borrowed fell into the river, don't you know, "Uncle Si?"

"From whence cometh the change? We are very glad "Uncle Si" has reformed. We believe in reformation, but not too sudden. Again, I would say to "Uncle Si" there are more ways for a person to lose their heads than by the guillotine.

He mentioned churches, too. All churches, of our knowledge, have officers to see after their members and discipline, and if they fail to do that, that is no business of "Your Uncle Si's." Selah! What think ye?

Are you filled with the East wind,

"Uncle Si"? No doubt but ye are the people, and wisdom shall die with you. Me thinks I can see "Uncle Si" tonight, as we write, sitting back in his sanctum getting his next lesson. Now, we do not mind what "Uncle Si" says about us. Our shoulders are broad and able to stand it. But let him speak of us, us alone. We will debate the subject with "Uncle Si" at the schoolhouse. The paper is no place.

Now is the time to "stop straining at gnats and swallowing camels." "Take heed unto thyself."

Now, "Uncle Si," we have written this epistle with a benevolent smile upon our face. We sincerely hope you will enjoy it as much as we.

With many good wishes for you a restless night after reading this, I am

RADS. SPLIT ON TAFT

Six Members Voted Against Endorsing Him.

Convention Will Be Held in Raleigh May 15—Announced That Tom Settle Will Run For Governor on Local Option Plan.

Raleigh, Feb. 28.—The North Carolina Republican executive committee today selected Raleigh for the State convention, to name delegates to the National convention, and May 15 as the date. The committee adopted, by a vote of 12 to 6, resolutions endorsing Taft's administration.

That Marion Butler and Chairman Morehead have about reached the parting of ways was the belief tonight of former Congressman Cowles, of Wilkesboro. Major George Butler led the fight in the committee against endorsing Taft's administration contrary to the wishes of Morehead. George is a brother of Marion and his opposition to Taft is believed to have been inspired by the former Senator.

The resolution declares, "We hereby endorse and commend the administration of President Taft," and in a four-hundred-word document, reviews his handicap in securing legislation and the firmness, tact and judicial temperament with which he dealt with conditions.

It is announced that Thomas Settle, who was the author of the resolutions, has returned to the State, having resigned his Assistant Attorney Generalship of the Commerce Court at New York, for the avowed purpose of taking the nomination for Governor, and it is understood that opposition to the North Carolina present prohibition law and a return to the local option policy will be one of his planks.

Republican State Chairman John Morehead denied emphatically this morning that there is any foundation at all for the report that he intends to resign the State chairmanship in favor of Marion Butler. Secretary Grissom, of Spray, declared that such reports would but emanate from political arch enemies of his chief and of the Republican party.

At the big banquet given to the Republican leaders of the State at the Yarrowhouse House tonight by State Chairman Morehead, there were more than 400 present. For several hours the feast presented a scene of much good fellowship, and the speakers were at their best. Eloquence and wit were never displayed to finer advantage.

ROUTE NO. 3.

Our public roads are in a most deplorable condition. The condition of Mrs. J. A. Strader is slightly improved. Misses Mary and Lora Walker visited their home in Reidsville Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. J. W. Jarrett went to Reidsville shopping one day recently. It seems that all the choppings are going on at one time just now. Mr. J. W. Jarrett has purchased a pair of fine mules. Mr. Weaver Strader is planning to plant a large crop of tobacco this year. Misses Mary and Lora Walker visited at the home of Mr. A. D. Strader recently.
