VOL. XXV, NO. 85. $1. PER YEAR.

REIDSVILLE, N. C., JANUARY 7, 1913.

ISSUED TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS.

HOW THEY SELL TOBACCO AT LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY.

Mr. J. S. (Tandy) Martin, a leaf dealer of Winston, who is now in Lexington, Kentucky, writes the Sentinel as follows, regarding the marketing of the big crop in Kentucky: "I find this the largest loose leaf tobacco market in the country. There are twelve tobacco warehouses here where sales at auction are made, and the houses are the largest and best houses to be found anywhere. The Burley Warehouse here is 170x508 feet and there can be more than 1,900 baskets put on the floors for a single sale. It requires more than a day and a half for the auctioneers to sell over the floor. The tobacco is unloaded and put on baskets usually as soon as the farmers drive in, placed on the floors and sets there until it is sold. When there are big breaks on the market it is several days before some of it is sold and the owners go home and return to the sale.

"The season has been dry all the fall here, until the last week of sales and the sales increased in size then very much. When the market closed for the holidays, Dec. 29th, there was enough tobacco left on the floors to sell one more day, and it continues to come in regardless of the fact that no sales will be held until January 2. From the opening day there will be a continued rush. At the close Friday, the 29th, the sales here had been 5,634,140 pounds, and the average price was $12.47 per hundred. Prices are showing a tendency to advance.

"The burley crop in this State (Kentucky) this year is lighter and brighter than last year's crop and it is in demand and prices are good. Nearly every one predicts higher prices later. The American Tobacco Co., the Liggett-Myers Tobacco Co., the Imperial Tobacco Co., the J. P. Taylor Tobacco Co., of Henderson, N. C., the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., the W. L. Petty Tobacco Co., of Rocky Mount, N. C., and other concerns are buying this burley tobacco.

"The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. has a large storage warehouse here with a large re-drying machine, capable of drying from 75,000 to 100,000 pounds daily, and the other big concerns are similarly fixed for taking care of their purchases.

"The Burley Tobacco Company, incorporated, has recently purchased 1 acres of land on South Broadway street, one of the important streets of Lexington, and built the Burley Warehouse on this property, and the remainder of this land has houses upon it that are now rented, but is being held in reserve on which they are contemplating building a large factory for the manufacture of tobacco.

"This is a fine business city, situated in the center of the Blue Grass belt of Kentucky, with a fine farming section all about. There are good roads leading out in every direction, with interurban electric car lines going out to all the towns. There is no reason why this city should not continue to grow. It is now far ahead of any market for handling and selling tobacco, as the farmers unload as soon as they arrive, place their tobacco on the baskets which are then placed on the floor and when they are sold the purchaser takes up the baskets and removes them to his plant. Of course the baskets are then returned to the warehouses."

GASWELL COUNTY FARMER MAKES SPLENDID RECORD.

We believe the following report from one of our farmer friends will out-class any report we have had from any tobacco section in this State.

Mr. George W. Scott, of Milton, R. F. D., reports that he has sold up to the present time for $3,950 and has on hand now about 5,000 pounds of tobacco that will average $25.00 per hundred. Mr. Scott raised this year on a little less than two and one-half acres 3,335 pounds of tobacco which sold for $1,163.55 clear check, averaging $34.81 per hundred. He used as fertilizer for this small crop twelve sacks of guano.

This goes to show that any farmer who will attend to his farm can make it pay above the average business.

Mr. Scott is one of the most progressive farmers in our section. We need more like him.—Milton News.

WESLEY EDWARDS'S GIRL MARRIES ANOTHER MAN.

Miss Maud Iroler, who figured in the capture of Sida Allen and Wesley Edwards and around whom the newspapers weave a pretty romance, has proven faithless to Wesley and is now happily married to a young man of this county.

Miss Maud, during the holidays, was a visitor with friends at White Plains, four miles from this city, and, on last Thursday she and Kenneth Marsh drove to Dobson; secured license and were married, in the presence of several witnesses, by Esquire John Nance at his home in Dobson.

After the ceremony, the newly wedded couple drove to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Iroler, in Carroll county, Va., where they were, no doubt, forgiven. They are making their home with the groom's parents at White Plains.

Miss Iroler is well known, and notwithstanding her newspaper notoriety, is a splendid girl who deserves happiness. The groom is the son of Mr. Robert Marsh and is very popular in his section.—Mt. Airy Leader.

A special from Richmond says: Wesley Edwards, who is now serving a term of 27 years in the Virginia penitentiary for his part in the Carroll county court house tragedy, had rather spend his remaining days in prison than to be married to Maud Iroler, his sweetheart, who was suspected of having betrayed him into the hands of the detectives.

Wesley expressed himself to this effect several days ago to a prison official and, although he did not openly charge the girl with betraying him, he spoke as if he had about reached that conclusion.

When told today of the girl's marriage to Kenneth Marsh at White Plains, N. C., he merely remarked that he did not know Marsh, but his expression indicated what he thought of Maud.

NEARLY 3,000 CONVICTS IN STATE AND COUNTY PRISONS.

The total number of convicts, county and State, in North Carolina is in round number 2,800, of whom 806 are State prisoners. The counties send to the State prison the weaklings, and in two years 425 of these have been received. There are really only about 300 able-bodied State convicts and these are at work on railway construction. There is a strong sentiment in favor of working all the able-bodied men on the public highways, but there is something to be especially considered in this connection. This is that by far the greater part of these are in for life or for very long terms, and that they form the most dangerous class of prisoners.

The question is whether the county convict guards are able to keep these men from escaping. It takes trained and expert guards to do this. It is really a matter to be given special attention and study and care. The entire question of convicts will no doubt be given particular attention by the Legislature. There appears to be a strong impression in favor of a State pardon board and also for the parole system. The latter is declared to work admirably within the numerous States in which it is in effect. A pardon board can give study to all cases, will know at first hand the record of each convict and can best tell whether clemency is merited, as to both pardons and commutations.—Raleigh Times.

Florence Gamble, 32 years old, confessed to Federal authorities at Des Moines, Iowa, last week that she had corresponded with more than 500 bachelors over this country, from some of whom she received amounts ranging from fifteen to fifty dollars. Shipping was paralyzed along the South Atlantic coast and much damage was done in the interior by a terrific wind storm Friday. Diamond Shoals lightship was blown from its moorings and the storm was especially severe on the Virginia peninsula.

GOVERNOR WILL RECOMMEND MOVE STATE PENITENTIARY.

The message of Governor Kitchin to the approaching Legislature is to contain a recommendation that in connection with a general reconstruction of the State system of managing the convicts there be an abandonment of the State prison building in Raleigh and that the farm in Halifax be made the headquarters for the convicts. He thinks that the Raleigh prison is too expensive a plant for the purpose and that it could be adapted for use as some other sort of a State institution, possibly an addition to the State hospital for the insane, the criminal insane being already cared for there. There is sure to be a general reconstruction of the State convict system by the incoming Legislature.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SINCE OUR LAST ISSUE

Rowan County Farmers' Union will establish a warehouse in Salisbury. The funeral of the late Col. Wm. H. S. Burgwyn was held in Raleigh Sunday.

S. E. Williams, of Lexington, N. C., wants to be ambassador to Brazil.

The next reunion of the United Confederate Veterans will be held in Chattanooga May 27, 28, 29.

Wednesday, Jan. 15th, has been selected as the date of the inauguration of Governor Craig.

Fifty-two divorces, an average of one a week, were granted in Buncombe Superior court in 1912.

President Taft announces that he is in favor of submitting the Panama Canal dispute to The Hague tribunal.

Congressman Godwin, of the Sixth North Carolina district, has introduced a resolution for an investigation of the civil service.

Two women have been proposed for places in the Cabinet of President-elect Wilson, one of them for the portfolio of Secretary of War.

The publishers of the Boise (Idaho) Capital News were sent to jail Friday for 10 days for criticizing a decision of the State Supreme Court.

Congressman Wedemeyer, who went insane over his defeat at the recent election, jumped overboard from a vessel on which he had been taken to Colon.

President Taft, who is to be connected with Yale College law school after his retirement from the Presidency, has leased a home at New Haven, Conn.

The Sunday School class which Governor-elect Craig taught in the First Baptist church of Asheville has presented Mr. Craig a gold-headed cane.

The oldest inmate of the State prison at Raleigh is a white woman who has been there for 24 years. She would be pardoned but for the fact that she has no home.

William Rockefeller, through his counsel, has agreed to accept service of a subpoena to testify before the money trust committee January 13th. His whereabouts are still unknown.

The late Ambassador Reid was Saturday laid to rest in Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Tarrytown, N. Y. Many dignitaries attended the funeral services in the cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Fifty-five deaths of violence, an average of more than one each week, occurred in Atlanta during the past year. Only one person has been convicted of murder in the first degree and hanged.

Twenty men, including the captain and his wife, of the steamer Julia Luckenbach, were drowned in Chesapeake Bay Friday morning when they vessel was rammed and sunk by the British steamer Indrakula.

Bonds aggregating one million dollars must be given if the 32 labor leaders convicted in Indianapolis are to take advantage of the writ of supersedeas granted by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago.

Shipping was paralyzed along the South Atlantic coast and much damage was done in the interior by a terrific wind storm Friday. Diamond Shoals lightship was blown from its moorings and the storm was especially severe on the Virginia peninsula.

Mrs. James H. Van Ness, Jr., was found dead from accidental asphyxiation at 1 o'clock Sunday morning at her home in Charlotte. She had evidently gone to the bath room to bathe, had lighted the gas jet and then had lighted the heater to warm the room. She probably fainted and in falling struck the heater which extinguished the blaze and caused the gas to escape.

Services, conforming to his preachings of simplicity, were held in Little Rock, Ark., Sunday over the body of the late United States Senator Jeff Davis. The interment was in a local cemetery. Besides the Congressional delegation and men prominent in the affairs of the State, several thousand persons, among them a delegation of mountaineers, in characteristic garb, attended the services.

J. C. Watkins, of Greensboro, had unpleasant experience in the woods in Craven county. He became lost in the woods, suffering with cold. A hard rain added to the misery of his plight, and the peril was doubly enhanced by the bears and panthers which frequently made known their presence in the woods. He had been 12 hours from human company when he came out on a road and sighted a farm house.

MISS JENNIE E. CUMMINGS—MR. BENJAMIN J. HOSKINS.

Summerfield, Jan. 2.—Last Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock a quiet home wedding, beautiful in its simplicity, was solemnized when Miss Jennie Elizabeth Cummings, the only daughter of the late Robert Cummings, was united in marriage to Mr. Benjamin J. Hoskins. It was in the parlor before a beautifully improvised altar of evergreens and Southern smilax interspersed with numerous white carnations that the vows were spoken. Myriads of shaded white candles cast a soft glow over the scene.

As the first notes of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin sounded, Misses Elizabeth Brooks and Annie Cummings, two little cousins of the bride, daintily attired in white, came slowly down the stairway, unfastened the white satin ribbon from the door and formed an aisle to the altar. Next came Miss Louise Rawlings, of Staunton, Va., maid of honor, and Miss Bees Young, bridesmaid wearing draped white charmeuse dresses caught with sprays of rosebuds, and carrying arm-bouquets of bridesmaid roses. Following these came the groom with his best man, Mr. Kaiser, and the bride with her cousin, Mr. Paul Cummings, who gave her away.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white crepe metzer, and carried a magnificent bouquet of bride's roses showered with lilies-of-the-valley.

The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. W. H. Wilson, of Greensboro, while Miss Gladys Cummings rendered softly Schubert's Serenade. Mendelssohn's wedding march was used as a recessional.

In the reception room, lovely in pink and green, the young couple received congratulations.

Only the immediate members of the family and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony.

Artistic beauty was skillfully displayed in the dining room. Here ivy, holly and mistletoe banked mantel and buffet, streamers of white tulle entwined with smilax descended to the corners of the table, and candles, shades, and a profusion of Richmond red roses gave a charming Yuletide effect. A delightful three-course luncheon was served.

In an alcove in the hall, decorated in palms, ferns and smilax, little Miss Julia Brooks served punch. Mr. and Mrs. Hoskins left Greensboro for Florida and other Southern points.

A SPLENDID YEAR FOR THE CITIZENS BANK.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of Citizens Bank was held Thursday and there was a full attendance, 602 of the 750 shares being represented. Mr. H. R. Scott presided and Cashier Eugene Irvin acted as secretary.

President R. L. Watt's report showed the bank's affairs to be in a most satisfactory condition. After paying the usual dividend of 8 per cent a nice sum was added to the surplus account, making that fund forty thousand dollars. The board was unanimously of the opinion that the time had come for the bank to change from a State to a National institution, and President Watt invited discussion of this question. After full discussion a resolution was adopted without a dissenting vote instructing the directors to take the necessary steps to convert the bank into a national institution to be known as the First National Bank of Reidsville. The change will be made in the near future and the bank will occupy its beautiful new home as a national bank.

The old board of directors was re-elected, as follows: R. L. Watt, C. H. Overman, A. J. Whittemore, Jas. Robinson, J. B. Pipkin, C. A. Penn, R. B. Chance, J. N. Watt and W. J. Irvin. The directors elected the following officers:

President—R. L. Watt.
1st Vice-President—A. J. Whittemore.
2nd Vice-President—W. J. Irvin.
Cashier—Eugene Irvin.
The same office force was retained for the ensuing year.

A Girl's Wild Midnight Ride

To warn people of a fearful forest fire in the Catakills a young girl rode horseback at midnight and saved many lives. Her deed was glorious, but lives are often saved by Dr. King's New Discovery in curing lung trouble, coughs and colds, which might have ended in consumption or pneumonia. "It cured me of a dreadful cough and lung disease," writes W. R. Patterson, Wellington, Texas, "after four in our family had died with consumption, and I gained 87 pounds." Nothing so sure and safe for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Fetzner and Tucker and Gardner Drug Co.

DEATH OF MR. STEPHEN STRADER, OF NEAR RUFFIN

Stephen Strader was born in Caswell county, North Carolina, the year 1837, and departed this life at his home near Ruffin, N. C., Jan. 1, 1913, aged 76 years. In the absence of his pastor the funeral service was conducted at his home by Rev. A. J. Burraus, pastor in charge of Wentworth circuit, and his body was laid to rest in the family burying ground in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

Brother Strader was married early in life to Miss Eliza Hobbs. To this union there were four children, of which three survive him—Mr. George Strader, Mr. Benjamin Strader and Mrs. Wm. Perkins. His second marriage was to Miss Virginia Daniel. To them were born 10 children, eight boys and two girls—Mr. Thomas M. Strader, Mr. Albert G. Strader, Mr. Edward G. Strader, Mr. Andrew J. Strader, Mrs. Mattie Travis, Mr. Horace G. Strader, Mr. Arthur Strader, Mrs. Shepp Gammon, Mr. Lauder Strader, Mr. Wesley W. Strader, making 13 living children, all of whom are living within eight miles of where they were born and raised. He is also survived by three brothers and three sisters, 65 grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

He professed faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and joined the Methodist Episcopal church at Mt. Carmel 24 years ago under the ministry of Rev. R. P. Troy. And these many years he has lived an upright, consistent Christian life. The writer has known him a greater portion of his life. As a citizen he was a straightforward man with all of his dealings with his fellowman, living a peaceable, quiet life.

As a father and husband he was sincerely devoted to his family; a good neighbor, and a kind friend.

Three weeks previous to his death he was partially stricken with paralysis while in Danville on a business trip, and on returning home and feeling conscious that the end was near, he talked freely of death and often expressed his willingness to go. He then lingered for about two weeks when pneumonia developed, and then all hope of his recovery was given up.

Just two nights before he died he called his wife and children to his bedside, bade them a fond good-bye, and then asked them all to stand in line so that he could see them, and made the following remarks to them:

"I have trusted the Lord Jesus Christ, and He has saved my soul. I now see the light of Heaven."

He bade them all to meet him where there is no more suffering or sorrow.

He died a victorious death in the Lord Jesus Christ. He fought the battles of life bravely. He lived well, of course he died well. He could well say with the Apostle Paul, "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing."

He died in the full triumph of faith in Christ, saying that he was ready to go. His only regrets were that he had not given his life to Christ earlier, and to leaving his wife and children.

May God's blessings rest upon the bereaved wife and children. And may He help them to live lives worthy of the father that has gone on before.

THINKS ROMAN CATHOLICS ABOUT TO TAKE COUNTRY.

Editors Review: It seems to me that it should be a source of regret to the voters of the two old parties that neither can hold a national convention without having a Catholic chaplain.

I note that in the last election the following number of Catholics were elected to high office: Five Governors, three Lieutenant-Governors, six Attorney Generals, three State Treasurers, two Auditors, one Comptroller, seven Associate Justices, two Judges of Appeals, one Senator and thirty-nine Congressmen. These figures have caused some Catholic editors to boast that the Catholics are coming into their own.

It appears to us that the Catholics are not satisfied to be allowed to worship God in this country according to the dictates of their conscience but that they have as their ultimate aim the making of this country an adjunct of Rome. Let those who doubt inform themselves and watch every movement of Roman Catholics in this country.

That President Taft allowed himself to be made a pet by them is plain to all close observers, and it is rumored that Prof. Wilson is to have a Catholic in his Cabinet, but we hope he will not let them make a pet of him—Presbyterian that he is. We believe that it was Catholic pressure that caused Taft to revoke Valentine's order against certain school teachers wearing religious garb while on duty.

How can Protestants vote for men to fill high office whose religious belief is that no marriage is legal unless the pledged troth is sealed in the presence of a Catholic priest?

Some one has said, "It is our duty while dealing with the present to steadily take thought for the future." Let us while dealing with the present take thought not to build up a power in America fashioned after, and like unto, the one our forefathers fled from in Europe.

We have no doubt that many Catholics are good people, but what their stand for is the trouble, and for this reason it might not be safe for us to trust the reins of government too much in their hands.

A happy New Year to you, Mr. Editor, and may it bring you all you want—the most.

DEATH OF A FORMER CITIZEN AT HIGH POINT.

High Point, Jan. 3.—Mr. C. W. Rochelle, 58 years of age, one of the most prominent photographers in town, and for the nine years since his coming here from Reidsville a most industrious citizen, died very suddenly of heart disease last night at 8 o'clock near the well just outside of his studio whither he had gone for water. Drs. Stanton, McCain, and McAnally were immediately summoned but nothing could be done.

The deceased leaves a wife and daughter, Miss Lillie, and two sons, Messrs. Eugene F. and T. V. Rochelle.

A sad feature of the death was that it occurred the night whereon his daughter had made preparations to give a party to her many friends.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved family.
