

DISTRICT CONFERENCE HELD HERE LAST WEEK

On Thursday, March 11, the doors of the Main Street Methodist church were opened wide to receive the women of the Greensboro District Women's Missionary Society, who assembled there to transact the business of the district meeting.

The delegates were met at the station and carried immediately to the church where at 10:15 o'clock the meeting was opened with devotional exercises by the Rev. W. A. Lambeth, who also extended to the ladies a most cordial welcome in the name of the people of Reidsville and the W. M. Society.

Mrs. Blanche Carr, who has charge of the city welfare work in Greensboro, responded in a beautiful way. Miss Ruby Allen was appointed secretary of the conference.

Mrs. Fordham, district secretary, made her report, which indicated growth along all lines.

Mrs. Richard Willis, of Greensboro, made a most impressive and interesting talk on "The Young People's Work." Mrs. Willis is president of The Margaret Foster Society of West Market Street Church, and is saturated with the missionary spirit.

Following her talk the meeting adjourned to meet again at 2 p. m.

The afternoon session was opened with prayer by Mrs. Lucy Robertson, president of the annual conference. She then gave an interesting talk on the Children's Work, in which she made very plain the ways of arousing the child's interest.

Rev. W. A. Lambeth made a splendid talk on Stewardship. In his usual attractive way he made all feel that their possessions are simply a trust from God, and to be used for His Glory.

Young people's reports were called for and they were gratifying and satisfactory.

A talk on Social Service by Mrs. Blanche Carr, telling of some of her personal experiences, was next on the program.

Mrs. Arch Wilkinson presented the Publicity Work report, and urged every Auxiliary to appoint a press superintendent to carry out this work. Reports from Junior Societies came next.

The evening session of the District Conference was of special interest to the children.

Devotional service was led by Mrs. Carr; hymn, "Publish Glad Tidings," was sung, and the first nine verses of the 197th Psalm read.

Mrs. Eugene Watt and Miss Florence had charge of the program, as follows:

Recitation—Miss Gladys Burton. Seven Little Girls, their Gifts to God for Gratitude.

Song—Six girls dressed in Japanese costume, sung in Japanese and English.

Mrs. Lytt Gardner told what was done with missionary funds.

Prayer—Mrs. Fordham. Miss Zung, from China, was introduced to the Conference and made a fine talk on the modes of education in her country.

Miss Zung is a graduate of McTyre School, and has been a pupil in the Greensboro College for two years. She plays beautifully on the piano, and is truly a trophy from that foreign field.

Dr. Weaver was expected to open the meeting on Friday morning, but was unavoidably prevented, and Mrs. Fordham read Acts, 1:8. A season of prayer was held and many petitions were offered for the advancement of the missionary work.

Adult Societies made their reports. Mrs. Robertson then held an institute, explaining the new plans and methods of work, heartily advising organic union under the direction of the Council.

Reports of Annual Conference by Mrs. John D. Huffines brought the morning session to an end.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Robertson led the devotional service, reading the 2nd Psalm, and asking her audience to take two special subjects for prayer—Miss Blanche Howell, who on last Wednesday sailed for her work in Brazil, and for the Council meeting April 14 in Little Rock, Arkansas.

Report of Committee on Courtesies was read by Mrs. Scarborough of High Point.

Mr. Jordan, pastor of Wentworth Circuit, made a most helpful talk on Mission Study, taking as his text Hosea, 4:6, "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge."

Mrs. Wilson of High Point made a telling talk on the Literature of the Church and solicited subscriptions to The Missionary Voice, The Christian Advocate, and The Young Christian Worker.

Mrs. Scarborough of High Point ably presented the temperance cause.

Mrs. James Norfleet of Winston-Salem, made a talk on City Mission Work. She said they had recently added to their other equipments a clinic, and two of the city physicians had volunteered their services twice a week for an hour; that they averaged from fifteen to eighteen patients a week. Miss Florence Miller is the deaconess, lives in the Wesley House, and is supported by Centenary, West End and Parkhead churches.

Pledges were made and it was gratifying to know that these pledges lacked only a small amount of covering the amount assessed the district, and there are new Societies to be heard from.

Mrs. J. F. Watlington delighted the conference with one of her beautiful songs.

Motion for adjournment was in order, and the meeting was dismissed with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Jordan.

After the noon session of conference, under the supervision of Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Fordham, assisted by Mrs. Terry and Mrs. Wilkinson, a Young People's Society was organized with nine members, and the following were elected officers of the same.

President—Miss Susie Stokes.

First Vice President—Miss Ruth Chance.

Second Vice President—Mrs. Fire-sheets.

Corresponding Secretary—Miss Kathleen Terry.

Recording Secretary—Miss Mary Preddy.

Treasurer—Miss Ruth Rawley.

Supt. Publicity—Miss Katie Ware.

Supt. Supplies—Miss Janie Raw-ley.

Supt. Social Work—Miss Bessie Hightower.

The next meeting of the District Conference will be held in High Point.

DEATH OF FORMER WELL KNOWN REIDSVILLE MAN

The news of the death of his wife's home in Ridgefield, New Jersey, of Dr. J. C. Walton was received with profound sorrow by his many friends in this State and Virginia.

Dr. Walton was 59 years old, and his life was full of service to humanity. Few men have had the fortune to obtain the confidence and good will of all their associates to the extent that Dr. Walton possessed. His professional brethren several times honored him with responsible positions in their organizations; but he will be longest remembered for the friendly spirit that made his life a benediction to scores of the needy—not always the financially needy, but those in need of a word of sympathy and encouragement. He was a successful physician and enjoyed a large and varied practice.

When a young man he began practicing at Prospect Hill, in Caswell county, and in 1893 removed to Reidsville, where he was associated professionally first with Dr. Len G. Broughton and later with Dr. J. A. Williams, remaining here for eleven years. He resided in Danville for two years and was associated with Dr. J. S. Irvin. Later he was re-ident physician at the Mecklenburg Mineral Springs, Chase City, Va., and for the last six years has had a sanitarium in Richmond, Va.

About two years ago Dr. Walton suffered a stroke of paralysis and since that time has resided at his wife's home in Ridgefield, N. J.

Dr. Walton was a prominent member of the North Carolina Medical Society and for several years was a member of the North Carolina State Board of Medical Examiners. He was also a member of the Danville Academy of Medicine, and the Virginia State and Richmond City Medical Societies.

He is survived by his wife and two children, a boy and a girl. Mr. J. C. Faucette of this county and Mr. Walton Brown of Danville are nephews, and Mrs. H. A. Faucette of this county and Mrs. W. B. Woody of Rockdale, Texas, are sisters of the deceased.

Dr. Walton was born in Caswell county. After his graduation from Jefferson Medical College, in Philadelphia, he practiced for 25 or 30 years in this State.

Dr. Walton's remains were buried in Ridgefield Saturday.

ADVISES FARMERS TO CUT OUT SOME OF IT

If tobacco warehouse people throughout the country, and supply merchants and others who are interested, want to do a genuine kindness to the great army of tobacco farmers, they will advise them against the planting of too much tobacco another year; or, as to that, any year. This journal has always advised against this dangerous policy. We have contended always that the only sensible thing for tobacco farmers to do is to produce their own home supplies as far as possible and then to plant as much tobacco as they can care for in the proper way, and in a way that will be profitable. We personally come into contact with thousands of tobacco planters annually, and whenever we find one who pursues the policy of making his own supplies, and then what tobacco he can well care for, we find a man in a good fix. On the other hand, when a tobacco farmer grows tobacco to the exclusion of other crops he is generally hard up.

If tobacco planters would do as we suggest there would be no necessity for low prices and there would be a great deal less common and unsalable stuff.—Southern Tobacco Journal.

Best Treatment For Constipation

"My daughter used Chamberlain's Tablets for constipation with great results and I can recommend them highly," writes Paul B. Babt. Brushly, La. For sale by Gardner's Drug Store.

THE WINSTON JOURNAL WANTS A CONGRESSMAN

We cannot understand why the Winston Journal keeps talking about Chatham or any other man for Congress. We know that Mr. Chatham isn't going to run against Major Stedman. He is going to run again—maybe twice more. He is vigorous and he is making good. Of course Winston has a right to talk; the Journal cannot be blamed for wanting a man who will give it the postoffice, but this thing of insisting that Major Stedman should be turned down is making some people weary. A Confederate soldier; an able lawyer; a first-class Congressman, the question arises why should any one offer to run against him. Certainly a lot of nerve. The Congressman gets more experience each year he is there, becomes more valuable, and for the Journal to keep talking about somebody to defeat the Major is in bad taste. A stockholder of the Journal wanted to be postmaster and didn't get it. Therein is the sour milk in the gourd. And the people are wise to this. Mr. Martin knows Major Stedman is making good and why he wants to keep insisting that somebody should run against the Major is funny. Major Stedman will be elected if any Democrat is elected. This district is not safe by any means, and we make bold to say that Major Stedman will secure more Republican votes than any Democrat in the district—because he is universally popular and because he is deserving.—Fairbrother's Everything.

One lone man faced 36,000 women and talked to them with brutal frankness that brooded no misunderstanding.

He stood before 36,000 women and spoke to them thoughts that were clothed in no veneer or gloss of language.

He hurled at 36,000 women views that were as rabid as they were outspoken, as burning as they were bitter.

He interested 36,000 women, shocked some, hurt others, and grieved many.

But he said that he had told them all the truth, as far as he was given the light to tell.

Billy Sunday was the lone man. Three audiences filled the tabernacle. It was the first time that the dynamic evangelist had addressed congregations comprised entirely of the opposite sex. Billy didn't feel the slightest embarrassment on that account, although his auditors may have felt some. The apostle of the unvarnished speech fired away with the same zeal, the same ardor, the same directness as he does when talking to an audience comprised entirely of men.

The energetic clergyman didn't take any undue advantage of his audiences, nor did he suffer them to be taken unawares. Before starting each sermon he told any woman "who did not care to hear plain talk from a man" to leave. Not a single person left. And hear plain talk from a man they surely did. The vast sea of faces that spread before him were just like so many thousand white dots. The women were nervous and stirred uneasily in their seats.

As the sermon progressed the women became easier in feeling and manner. Upon its finish thirty hit the trail. The second service was a duplicate of the initial meeting. One hundred and thirty-six struck the sawdust trail at this meeting.

"RUNAWAY JUNE" WILL GIVE TRIPS TO THE EXPOSITION

"Runaway June," the George Randolph Chester photoplay serial, now being shown in Reidsville at The Amuzu Theatre, will take the most popular woman in each State in the Union to the Panama-Pacific Exposition and on a trip de luxe through picturesque California with all expenses paid. The women will be chosen by their friends who patronize the moving picture theatres where "Runaway June" is shown.

The fortunate women who win will have no expense at all and will travel in the best possible manner, not only the necessities but the luxuries of the trip being paid by "Runaway June." Millionaires could travel no better than they will. The rules of the contest will be issued in pamphlet form by the theatres where "Runaway June" is being played.

Each theatre will have three rotes of each installment of the picture and the smallest theatre will thus swing as much influence as the largest. The contest will close at midnight, Sept. 30, 1915, and the votes will be counted by Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montross of New York City, expert accountants. The decision will be announced through the theatres and daily newspapers.—The Review by Oct. 10. The 48 lucky women will start immediately thereafter for beautiful California with "Runaway June" as their hostess.

WHEN LOVE IS DONE.

(By Duval Porter.)

"The Night has a thousand eyes,
The Day but one,
Yet light of a whole world dies
When Day is done."

Though Hate has a thousand eyes,
And Love but one,
Yet light of a whole life dies
When Love is done.

Cascade, Va., March 15, 1915.

A New Banner.

Engineer Hunter has started something by carrying a banner on his engine of "Safety First." It shows that Mr. Hunter has the subject on his mind; that he is watchful and careful, which in itself is half the battle. And yet we recall an old engineer on the Southern who never had an accident for 30 years, then he killed a man by running over him at a station. This so unnerved the old fellow that he never got over it and finally he quit his job and died soon thereafter.—Greensboro Record.

Can't Stop Him.

"Can't keep me from getting liquor," said an old man today. "I made it out of molasses during the war and can do it again. I raised the cane, made the molasses, then the liquor. The greatest objection I had to it was that it made me drunk before I could have much fun. It also made me fearfully sick the next day, but on the theory of the hair of the dog being good for the bite, I tried it again."—Greensboro Record.

For the Stomach and Liver.

I. N. Stuart, West Webster, N. Y. writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Tablets for disorders of the stomach and liver off and on for the past five years, and it affords me pleasure to state that I have found them to be just as represented. They are mild in their action and the results have been satisfactory. I value them highly." For sale by Gardner's Drug Store.

LAND SALE.

By virtue of a deed of trust executed to L. R. Ware, Trustee, on Feb. 22, 1912, by S. E. Smith and Glover Smith, and duly recorded in Book 179, page 40, in the Register of Deeds office at Wentworth, N. C., the terms of which have not been complied with, I will offer for sale in front of the Confederate Monument in the city of Reidsville, on Saturday, April 10, 1915, at 12 o'clock noon, the following described property:

A tract of land situated on the South side of the Wentworth macadam road, adjoining the lands of Dr. J. H. Thacker, G. W. Carter, D. W. Johnston and others, containing 40 acres, more or less. A full description and the mete and bounds of the property will be found in said deed of trust.

Terms: Cash.

MADE IN REIDSVILLE

A GOOD REMEDY FOR LA GRIPPE

THE FOLLOWING TESTIMONIAL IS VOLUNTARILY GIVEN BY ONE OF REIDSVILLE'S BEST KNOWN CITIZENS, MR. J. M. HARRIS.

Reidsville Remedy Co., Reidsville, N. C., March 2nd, 1915

Gentlemen:— I have used HORNBUCKLE'S EXTERNAL REMEDY, and find it all you claim for it.

I had an attack of La-Grippe a few weeks ago, and was confined to my bed with very severe pains in my back. I used a small sample bottle given me by Mr. Hornbuckle, and found almost instant relief. I do CHEERFULLY RECOMMEND IT TO ALL MY FRIENDS.

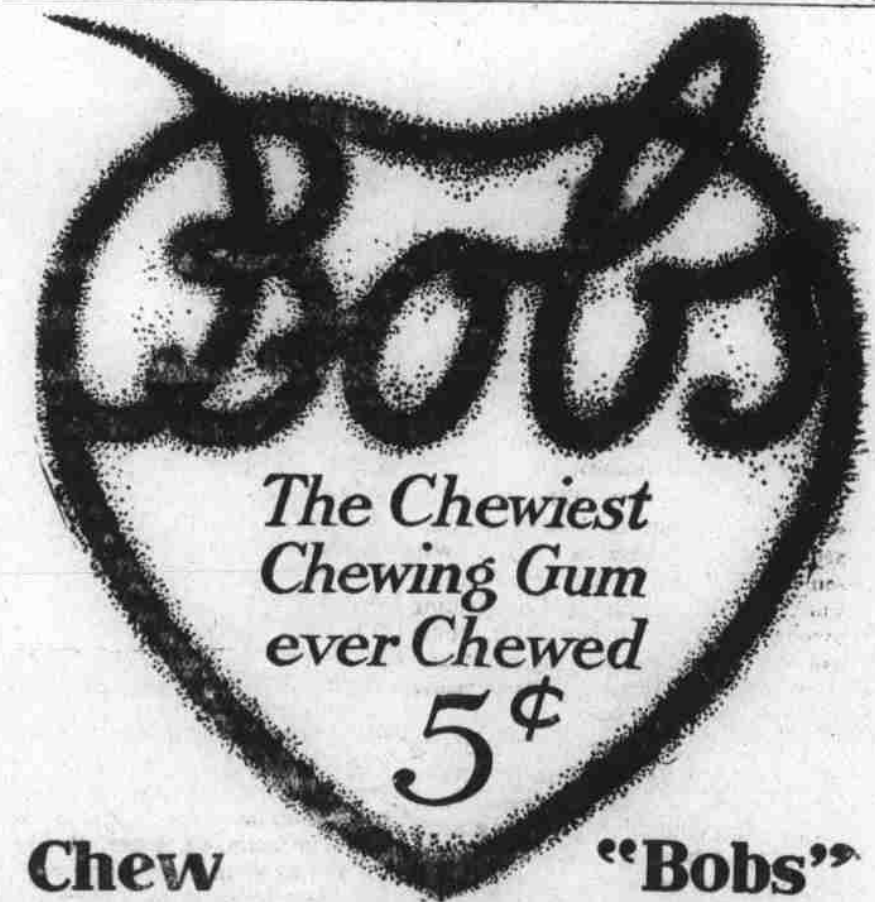

Respectfully,

J. M. HARRIS

Hornbuckle's External Remedy is efficacious for la grippe, which is such a prevalent malady at this season. Try it and be convinced. Sold by all druggists.
