

REIDSVILLE AND ROCKINGHAM NEWS

NOTICE TO CITY SUBSCRIBERS

Hereafter The Review is to be mailed to city subscribers at the postoffice. Those who do not have a lock box will please call for the paper at the general delivery window.

Under the postal regulations a semi-weekly paper published in a town having city delivery will not be delivered by the city mail carriers unless a one-cent stamp is affixed on each copy. Those who wish the paper delivered by the city mail carriers will please notify us and remit $1.00 per year extra for postage.

We find that nearly all of our city subscribers prefer having their paper mailed at the postoffice instead of by our own carrier service which we have maintained for the past few weeks. Less than 20 subscribers have expressed a preference for delivery in this way. Therefore, our delivery service, which has not proven popular, will be discontinued beginning with this week.

Please call at the post office for papers.

Mid-Winter Festival Dec. 18.

Attend the Methodist Bazaar.

Mr. W. E. Dix of Mayfield was a visitor here Thursday and gave The Review office a pleasant call.

Mr. A. N. Smith, a clever and hard-working young farmer on Route 1, was in town yesterday and gave The Review office a call.

Our jolly farmer friend, Mr. A. N. Williams, of Route 6, sold tobacco here Friday and gave The Review office an appreciated call.

Attention is called to Mrs. Cornie Irvin & Co's. new ad. in this issue. "The Woman's Store" advises early shopping for the Christmas trade.

Mr. R. L. Somers, a prominent farmer of Alamance county, sold tobacco here Friday and was very well pleased with prices. He says prices have advanced about 20 per cent. in the last two weeks.

A district meeting of the public school teachers of this county will be held at Madison on Saturday, December 4th, beginning promptly at 10:30 a. m. The meeting will be held in the Madison Graded School building.

A hunting party composed of Messrs. Hugh Daniels, Jack Troxler, Tom Martin, E. G. Gatlin and Dr. Troxler, caught four 'possums, one wild-cat and one 'possum kitten Saturday night near Brown Summit, on Reedy Fork.

Married, at New Hope church Sunday morning, Miss Maude Windsor and Mr. W. R. French, two popular young people of the county. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. M. Trent. A large crowd was present and witnessed the ceremony.

Mr. Frank Smithy, of McIver, had tobacco here yesterday and was well pleased with prices. He says the "revenue" are keeping a sharp watch for contraband liquor in his section and are doing their best to break up the traffic. A keg of liquor was found in one of his neighbor's barns by Deputy Collector S. T. Neal last Tuesday. No arrests were made.

Mr. J. D. McKinney of near Williams Academy was in town Saturday and called to pay his respects to The Review. He complimented the Reviewer and clay road very highly and says it is now in tip top condition and as smooth as a plank floor.

Judge Cline showed his surprise at court one day last week when an intelligent looking man on the stand stated that he could not write. The man conversed well and surely did not look as ignorant as he claimed he was. This man should be brought into a moonlight school and given a chance.

The Amos Motor Company is making quite a number of changes in their Scales street store room and when completed will be one of the most conveniently arranged garages and supply stations in hte county. A handsome electric Ford Automobile sign will also be put on the front of the building.

Mr. R. A. (Carroll), a prominent farmer on Route 2, gave us a very pleasant call Friday. Mr. Carroll is strongly opposed to the administration's preparedness program and thinks Congress would make a great mistake in committing the country to such an expensive military and naval increase of expenditures.

Mr. Wade Rankin, formerly of this county, was painfully hurt in an automobile accident near Fayetteville several days ago since which time he has been in a Fayetteville hospital for treatment. Mr. Rankin and a companion were riding in an automobile and in turning to allow a buggy to pass the car turned over. Mr. Rankin had five or six ribs broken and it is thought suffered internal injuries. His condition, according to reports from the Fayetteville hospital, is critical.

Mrs Temple Lewey of the Sharon neighborhood, whose death occurred last Monday, mention of which was made in the last issue of The Review was probably the oldest woman in the county. She was 97 years and eight months old. She left two sons and three daughters, all prominent citizens of the county, and a great many grand-children and other kindred. Mrs. Lewey was raised in Alamance county but came to this county while a young girl, where she has resided ever since. She was a splendid woman and had a wide circle of friends.

Mr. J. A. Tally of near Lawsonville was in town yesterday and gave us a very much appreciated call. Mr. Tally is not only a good farmer but is one of the country's most loyal citizens. He patronizes the home market exclusively and says he has never seen where he could save anything by selling and buying in outside towns. "Besides," he says, as a citizen of the county, he feels it his duty to help build up his county town, believing this to be for his own best interests in the end. If every citizen of this county was as loyal and patriotic as Mr. Tally, the old county would soon bloom like a rose.
