STRIKES AND LOCKOUTS IN U. S. DURING 1916

There were 3.160 strikes and 108 leckouts during 1916 in the United States. Although there were more sirikes than in 1915, there were less lockouts. The employers won in 471 and the employes in 706 strikes, 10 were arbitrated and 542 compromised. Practically every occupation was involvedsomewhere. "1916." says an exert of the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics, "will long be temembered as the year of strikes. The scarcity of labor and the rapid increase of cost of living seem to have caused wage-earners to feel that they were not getting their share of the present prosperity and to show their discontent by striking. Higher wages and shorter hours were the causes of twothirds of the strikes last year, while a large proportion of the remainder as due to causes connected with unionization." Several years ago and before joining the ministry, Dr. Abernethy w s an editorial writer on metropolitan daily and it was at the time of his becoming a pastor that his newspaper friends conceived the ide: of extanding his field by syndicating his weekly ermons.

The papers now using Dr. Abernethy's sermons have an aggregate circulation of over six million copies weekly and perhaps half as many again readers. When this vast number is taken into consideration, one can readily see that Dr. Abernethy's termons reach more people weekly than Rev.
