AMERICA FIRST

My Country 'Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty.

The poor newspapers are to be hit another hard lick in the proposed increase of postage rate. It is going to be a survival of the fittest in the newspaper game.

More than 100 students of the University will enter the training camp at Fort Oglethorpe and a dozen or more have volunteered for the cavalry, navy, aviation corps, etc.

A $15 increase in the pay of all the enlisted men of the navy during the war was agreed upon by the House naval committee. As an amendment to the naval bill, it equalizes the enlisted pay of the army and the navy.

Wheat continues to skyrocket—yesterday's quotation on the May option reaching 3.12 per bushel. If such prices do not stimulate our farmers to renewed efforts in producing foodstuffs the country will be in bad shape, for a fact.

The most desperate fighting of the great war is now taking place on the Western front between the Germans and the French and British armies. The slaughter is terrific and entire divisions are annihilated every few hours in attempts to break through the German lines.

Col. Roosevelt's volunteer army for service in France is said to total 180,000 men. We hope Congress will furnish the necessary sanction for the equipment of this expeditionary force and thus expedite the appearance of the stars and stripes on the "Hindenburg line."

Conflicting reports come out of Russia as to the stability of the provisional Democratic government which is directing the affairs of that great nation. German influences are busy in trying to undermine the new regime and bring about a separate peace, but with what success remains to be seen.

Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, through Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo sent to Congress an estimate for $8,100 with which to begin work on the Guilford Battleground under the terms of the act passed last summer by which the Battleground becomes a military park. The estimate was referred to the committee on appropriations.

The great Liberty Loan of two billion dollars is being applied for at a gratifying pace and indications are that it will be greatly over subscribed. The Review would be delighted to take up about a million dollars of it, but all our surplus has gone into the tills of the paper trust and we will have to pass up this opportunity to show our patriotism.

THE BOY SCOUTS WILL BE LOOKED ON TO FEED TROOPS

Two million home gardens, cultivated under the auspices of the Boy Scouts of America, are going to prove invaluable to the United States during the war period and help to end the high price of food here, according to O. H. Benson of the United States department of agriculture.

Mr. Benson, who is in charge of the government's agricultural extension work, conferred in New York with officials of the boy scouts on the plans for mobilizing the 275,000 scouts and officers for food production. He said the back yard gardening campaign is sweeping the nation and that the movement to a great extent will prove the solution of the food problem that now confronts this country.

If these new resources are properly conserved, Mr. Benson says, they will force prices down next fall and also furnish a reserve food supply that will be invaluable to the country in its prosecution of the war.

"This boy scout movement alone means more than 2,000,000 new gardens throughout the country this spring," said Mr. Benson. "In addition to raising a garden himself, each scout is pledged to persuade nine other persons not scouts to raise gardens. That makes ten gardens per scout, and there are 218,900 scouts, not counting the adults in the organization. These millions of gardens will furnish an addition to the food supply which the nation will appreciate more next fall than it does now."

Boys to Ration Army.

A plan by which the United States army can be furnished with millions of pounds of balanced rations on a few hours' notice through the co-operation of the boy scouts was revealed by Mr. Benson. Boy scouts all over the country will be instructed in scientific methods of preserving the surplus food products of their gardens. They will be taught how to prepare a balanced ration in one pound packages especially for army use.

One of these packages will be sufficient to feed a soldier for one day, if on short rations. Normally a soldier would eat one at a meal. The food will be compact, and a marching soldier could carry several days' provisions in his knapsack.

Millions of these one pound packages of food will be stored by boy scouts under the direction of the scout masters. When the government needs the food for its soldiers the war department will communicate with the boy scout headquarters. Immediately telegrams will be sent to scout masters all over the country. They will at once ship the rations from their districts to a central distributing point named by the government. Within a few hours rations enough to equip a great army will be pouring in.

The basis of the one pound ration will be either spaghetti, rice or hominy. With this, in scientifically balanced proportions, will be meat, potatoes, tomatoes, carrots and onions. The ration can be heated in the can, thus furnishing a soldier a quick, appetizing and nourishing meal.

Increase in Gardening.

The interest being shown throughout the country in the gardening movement is indicated, Mr. Benson said, by the fact that the department of agriculture has already distributed more of its pamphlets on gardening this spring than it did the whole of last year.

Equally as important as the efforts to increase this country's production of foodstuffs, said Mr. Benson, is the necessity of preserving the surplus and avoiding waste. This can be done by canning under modern methods, he declared.

Making 2,000,000 gardens is to be only a part of the boy scouts' work. They are to make their gardens 100 per cent efficient by not allowing a single pea or potato to go to waste. Mr. Benson strongly urges all amateur gardeners to do the same.

Ready Response.

"I'm seeing America first," said the tramp at the door. "Could you assist me in my travels, mum?"

"Certainly," answered the kindly housewife. "My husband is an automobile enthusiast and has dozens of road maps. You are quite welcome to one of them."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

PRESIDENT WILSON MAKES AN APPEAL TO THE FARMERS

People of Europe must rely upon the harvests in America. Upon the farmers of this country, therefore, in large measure, rests the fate of the war and the fate of the nations. May the nation not count upon them to omit no step that will increase the production of their land or that will bring about the most effectual cooperation in the sale and distribution of their products? The time is short. It is now most imperative that everything possible be done immediately to make sure of large harvests. I call upon young men and old alike and upon the able-bodied boys of the land to accept and act upon this duty—to turn in hosts to the farms and make certain that no pains and no labor is lacking in this great matter.

I particularly appeal to the farmers of the South to plant abundant food stuffs as well as cotton. They can show their patriotism in no better or more convincing way than by resisting the great temptation of the present price of cotton and helping, helping upon a great scale, to feed the nation and the peoples everywhere who are fighting for their liberties and for our own. The variety of their crops will be a visible measure of their comprehension of their national duty.

The Government of the United States and the governments of the several States stand ready to cooperate. They will do everything possible to assist farmers in securing an adequate supply of seed, an adequate force of laborers when they are most needed, at harvest time, and the means of expediting shipments of fertilizers and farm machinery, as well as of the crops themselves when harvested. The course of trade shall be as unhampered as it is possible to make it and there shall be no unwarranted manipulation of the nation's food supply by those who handle it on its way to the consumer. This is our opportunity to demonstrate the efficiency of a great Democracy, and we shall not fall short of it!

This I let me say to the middleman of every sort, whether they are handling our foodstuffs or our raw materials of manufacture or the products of the country will be especially upon you. This is your opportunity for signal service, efficient and disinterested. The country expects you, as it expects all others, to forego unusual profits, to organize and expedite shipments of supplies of every kind, but especially of food, with an eye to the service you are rendering and in the spirit of those who enlist in the ranks, for their people, not for themselves. I shall confidently expect you to deserve and win the confidence of the people of every sort and station.

To the men who run the railways of the country, whether they be managers or operative employees, let me say that the railways are the arteries of the nation's life and that upon them rests the immense responsibility of seeing to it that those arteries suffer no obstruction of any kind, no inefficiency or slackened power. To the merchant let me suggest the motto: "Small profits and quick service;" and to the shipbuilder the thought that the life of the war depends upon him. The food and the war supplies must be carried across the seas no matter how many ships are sent to the bottom. The places of those that go down must be supplied at once. To the miner let me say that he stands where the farmer does; the work of the world waits on him. If he slackens or fails, armies and statesmen are helpless. He is also enlisted in the great Service Army. The manufacturer does not need to be told, I hope, that the nation looks to him to speed and perfect every process; and I want only to remind his employees that their service is absolutely indispensable and is counted on by every man who loves the country and its liberties.

Let me suggest, also, that everyone who creates or cultivates a garden helps, and helps greatly, to solve the problem of the feeding of the nations; and that every housewife who practices strict economy puts herself in the ranks of those who serve the nation. This is the time for America to correct her unpardonable fault of wastefulness and extravagance. Let every man and every woman assume the duty of careful, provident use and expenditure as a public duty, as a dictate of patriotism which no one can now expect to ever be excused or forgiven of ignoring.

In the hope that this statement of the needs of the nation and of the world in this hour of supreme crisis may stimulate those to whom it comes and remind all who need reminder of the solemn duties of a time such as the world has never seen before, I beg that all editors and publishers everywhere will give as prominent publication and a wide circulation as possible to this appeal. I venture to suggest, also, to all advertising agencies that they would perhaps render a very substantial and timely service to the country if they would give it widespread repetition. And I hope that clergymen will not think the theme of it an unworthy or inappropriate subject of comment and homily from their pulpits.

The supreme test of the nation has come. We must all speak, act, and serve together!

IN MEMORIAM

Jessie H. Saunders was born in Guilford county, N. C., November 11, 1843, and died May 1st, 1917, being 73 years, five months and 20 days old. He was Armenian in doctrine and a most excellent Christian gentleman. I have known him for over 50 years. He was a kind husband, and an affectionate father and a good neighbor. He stood well in his neighborhood. He leaves a widow with three sons: C. E. Saunders, John Saunders and Aurelius and also four daughters: Mrs. David Pearson, Mrs. A. A. Walker, Miss Clara Saunders of Greensboro and Mrs. John Watkins of Reidsville.

He was a member of Lowe's church but on account of rheumatism he did not attend church regularly, he living seven or eight miles from church on a rough road, the jolting hurting him too much to ride the distance. Nevertheless he was accepted as an exemplary Christian. He was an old veteran of the Confederacy, was an excellent soldier and was in many hard fought battles. His favorite hymn was "Stand Up for Jesus" and his prayer was that he might not have a lingering death. He died almost instantly. G. T. W.
