Globe-Wernicke Sectional Bookcases

"Built-to-Endure"

"I will study and prepare myself," said Lincoln, "and then, some day, my chance will come!"

YOU ambitious young man or young woman, look about you. You must perceive, as Lincoln did, that there is no success without knowledge. Prepare yourself. Read for recreation. Study for success. A Globe-Wernicke Sectional Bookcase in your room will help you. It is a constant invitation to read and study. As you add section to section to take care of incoming books, it becomes a guide post of your progress, the outward symbol of the growth within. Place it in your room where you can spend those intimate hours before retiring in mental companionship with the great minds of the world—the great minds that will prepare you for the day your chance will come.

THE illustration shows a Globe-Wernicke combination of two bookcase sections and a desk section. The desk offers a broad expanse of writing and reading surface, contains various compartments for your papers and writing materials, and folds up out of the way when not in use. It can be purchased at low cost.

Canning.

Plenty of good canning can be done with very simple apparatus. All that is necessary is a ham boiler, or an ordinary washbowl, with a piece of galvanized wire netting on the bottom, and the necessary cans, or glass containers. The ham boiler or washbowl should have a top, to be kept on while the cans or glass containers are being processed, so as to keep the steam in.

Garden peas are now coming in. These can be successfully put up by the rawest amateurs—if they abide by the rules.

Select pint cans, or jars for peas. Place the jars in the tepid water—about three inches of it, and let the water come to a boil, and boil the cans or jars for fully eight minutes. This will sterilize them. Put on new rubbers, after keeping them in boiling water for three minutes.

Grade your peas, keeping the larger and older ones separate. Place the smaller peas in a muslin sack, and plunge them into boiling water one minute—no more. This is called blanching. Older peas must be blanched for eight minutes. Pour immediately into the jars, fill to within half an inch of the top, and fill then with hot water till the peas are covered. Add one level teaspoonful of both salt and sugar; place the rubbers on jars, screw the tops down lightly, or, if spring tops, spring them lightly, and add cold water to the boiling water in the boiler, to prevent cracking glass. Put jars in boiler, put top on the boiler, and when the water begins to boil, count time. After half an hour push the spring down, or screw the tops on jars tightly, and allow to remain in the boiling water another fifteen minutes. With the older peas longer time—half an hour after closing tops, is necessary.

Peas must be treated three days in succession. The second day do not touch the lid; leave it tight, but place the jars in tepid water, bring to a boil and keep the jars in, for young peas, forty-five minutes, for older and larger peas, sixty minutes. Repeat this process the third day.

The reason why so many failures are made in canning peas is that, while all active bacteria are killed at the first boiling, the spores are not affected. These develop in the twenty-four hours between the first and second boiling into active bacteria. The second boiling kills them, but some spores are so hardy that they do not develop until after the second boiling. The third day's boiling fixes them, and you have a thoroughly sterilized can or glass jar of peas. You might succeed in getting good sterilization with one day's boiling, but the percentage of spoiled cans is too great to take chances. The three day's boiling will assure good canning.

The above process comes from Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, State Agent Home Demonstration Work, to whom we are indebted for information on a subject that has caused us much anguish of mind every winter. It comes at a timely moment, and we hope no one will lack green peas round next Christmas.

To Their Credit.

It had been told in a special cock and bull story printed in the New York Tribune that the negroes of Guilford (Rockingham) county were going to join with the Germans. It had been told that they would refuse to register, and that we were liable to have a big war with Sambo. All of this this paper denied at the time. And when the registration booths were open the African was there. He was there in great numbers. He was first to the booths. As Sheriff Stafford expressed it yesterday morning "You must hand it to the colored man—he was on hand and showed his loyalty."

It was gratifying to see this. The mass meeting held at the court house Monday night by the colored ministers filled the house to overflowing. Hundreds were turned away. The African is an American—the ones living here—and they make good soldiers. They have proven this in the Spanish war, and in the Indian wars they behaved most splendidly. In the Custer campaign the negro showed that he could be organized, and he also showed that when organized he was well set to music. He made a splendid fight in that Custer campaign; no company of soldiers was ever braver; no company ever fought with less fear. And in this war which is world wide the two million available colored men who have registered and who are willing to go will show the world that they understand what it means to defend their flag.—Everything.

Major Stedman's Remarks.

At a meeting of the North Carolina Club in Washington last week Major Chas. M. Stedman said in part:

"It is a high privilege to greet the distinguished Governor of North Carolina, who is the guest of honor, and on behalf of all of the people of our State, I thank you for the courtesy extended to him. In behalf of my comrades, whether present tonight or detained at their homes, I thank the citizens of this beautiful and attractive city and the entire people of our common country—for their invitation to assemble here together in friendly intercourse, to recall days gone by of glory and renown, won under the folds of a flag now furled forever."

"It could not be otherwise, for the name and fame of North Carolina is inseparably connected with the renown and glory of the Confederate soldier."

"This happy occasion is the outcome of an event which has no parallel in the annals of nations—this reunion of Confederate soldiers in our national capital—a small remnant of those who have preceded us by a day's march along the route of the innumerable caravan—the mighty dead."

"This reunion will make manifest a truth which none will ever hereafter question; that amongst the people of the South regenerated by fire and blood; will be found that high and broad and lofty patriotism which shall constitute them amongst the strongest, safest and best defenders of the land of our fathers in its entirety. And as the suffering and oppressed of every land and every clime shall still turn their steadfast gaze toward the Western hemisphere, they shall rise up and call you blessed."

"I know that no Confederate soldier nor a descendant of a Confederate soldier will fall in his duty to the great republic whose countless blessings he enjoys. If called to the battlefields of Europe, the sons of Confederate soldiers will never tarnish the glory won by their fathers, but will carry the stars and stripes gloriously and unflinchingly wherever the path of duty leads."

Fall Tomatoes From Cuttings.

Tomatoes grow readily from cuttings, and an early fall crop may be had by making cuttings from the spring crop. Seedlings are hard to raise during summer unless given special care. But plants from cuttings are comparatively easy to obtain. Then when roots have formed the plants are two to three weeks ahead of plants from a seed bed made at the same time.

Probably the easiest way to obtain plants, according to C. K. McQuarrie, State Agent for the University of Florida Extension Division, is to bend the old vine over and cover a portion of it with earth so that the top protrudes. In a few days roots will have formed and the top may be cut off, with the roots, and set. A more difficult way is to make cuttings several inches long and to set them in sand until they are rooted. They should be watered frequently and protected from the hot sun.

Where the old plants are not diseased they may be pruned back to eight or ten inches and allowed to grow from new tops. This will perhaps give the earliest tomatoes. In the home garden this pruning may be extended over several weeks so that a succession of tomatoes may be had. The cuttings may be made with the same view.

Money is Plentiful.

You can't understand why it is, but people are not worrying about money matters. More automobiles were sold last month than ever before in the same length of time, and the banking interests all report plenty of money. Merchants are not complaining and the farmer, who at first concluded he would hoard his savings, has concluded that when he gets to spending the seven billion dollars maybe there will be enough to go around.

There is no doubt about good times. The war will make money more plentiful than we have seen it in a long time. When you go to circulate seven billion dollars, use it in war preparation, that money circulates freely and quickly, and when money circulates every man who performs any task gets his share.

There is no reason to think that times will not be good for years to come. There may be a lean year when the readjustment comes, but that isn't coming for some time. The man who puts his money in the ground or in a trunk is simply foolish. He is a last year's bird nest with the bottom out.—Greensboro Record.

The Evils of Constipation

Constipation is one of the main reasons why the average human life is below 40 years. Leaving waste material in the body, poisons the system and blood and makes us liable to sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and muddy skin. When you note these symptoms, try Dr. King's New Life Pills. They give prompt relief, are mild, non-gripping in action, add tone to your system and clear complexion. At your druggist, 25c.

A new tax of two cents on all bank checks and drafts over $5, expected to raise about $10,000,000 in revenues, was added to the war bill by the Senate finance committee. The committee also struck out all house taxes on dues of social, athletic and sporting clubs, from which $10,000,000 in revenue were expected.

Bible Exemptions From War.

Searching for some reasons for exemptions from conscription, Deacon Ashcraft of the Monroe Enquirer, found this laid down in the laws of Moses:

"And the officers shall speak unto the people saying, What man is there that hath built a new house and hath not dedicated it? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man eat of it."

"And what man is there that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not yet eaten of it? Let him also go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man eat of it."

"And the officers shall speak further unto the people and they shall say, What man is there that is fearful and faint-hearted? Let him go and return unto his house, lest his brethren's heart faint as well as his heart."

"When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, but he shall be free at home one year and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

And the United States government has gone and violated the Mosaic law; at least the word has been put out that marrying a new wife is no excuse. How can a war succeed that is "agin" Scripture, asks the newly wed?—Statesville Landmark.

Pool Room No Place For Boys.

Asheville is attempting to keep the boys away from the pool rooms, according to the following from the Times of that city:

"The city commissioners yesterday afternoon took a forward step in helping the youth of the city by passing an amendment to the city ordinance regarding pool rooms, which will not allow boys of the city under 21 years of age to enter the pool rooms. A license was granted Angelo Keritases to operate a pool room at 32 Biltmore avenue, provided his patrons left the place by the rear door and it was in granting this license that the commissioners announced they would have the pool rooms of the city watched closely to see that boys under 21 did not enter them. The tax law as now amended provides special tax for the pool rooms as follows: First three tables, $50; next three tables, $45; next three tables $40, and all over nine tables $30 on each table."
