

NEWS OF REIDSVILLE AND ROCKINGHAM

"Woman Suffrage" Friday night at 8 o'clock in the C. & A. Hall.

Messrs. W. A. and B. C. Trotter are spending a few days at Atlantic City.

Attorney J. R. Joyce attended court at Chatham, Va. this week.

Mr. W. R. Dalton will be unable to take part in the debate Friday night, but his place on the programme will be filled by Mr. Numa R. Reid.

Rain is needed to enable the farmers to prepare wheat land.

The sale of the Sloan lots in the West End Saturday afternoon conducted by Mr. J. E. Poag of Charlotte was fairly satisfactory.

The show will not start at the Grande theatre next week at night until 8:30 o'clock, except Saturday will open as usual.

Capt. A. J. Ellington, special agent of America's oldest life insurance company, The Mutual Life, of New York, tells our reader of the advantages of carrying a policy in this great company.

Watt's Warehouse averaged $31.07 for its entire break of tobacco Wednesday. Only five piles sold below $20 per hundred.

Mr. J. B. Taylor, proprietor of King's Warehouse in Leaksville, is making a stir in tobacco circles and is bringing Leaksville to the front as an important tobacco market.

Announcements reading as follows have been received by friends: "Dr. and Mrs. J. K. Stockard announce the marriage of their daughter, Marietta, to Mr. Edouard Albion, on Saturday, September 15, 1917."

The meeting now in progress at the Church of Christ on North Scales street is proving to be very interesting.

The Rev. Mr. Harlow is delivering some very able sermons. His manner is pleasing, and his delivery is calm and forceful.

Brown's Warehouse at Winston-Salem is doing up the farmers "brown" on their tobacco these days.

The Moore's Merry Maids Co., that played at the Grande here the first three nights of this week, met with grand success.

The Fletcher Kemp property in Leaksville, on which an option was held by the Carolina Cotton and Woolen Mills company was sold a few days ago, the price paid being $10,000.

Attention is called to the large advertisement in today's Review of the land sale near Monroeton on October 10th of the Hopkins tract of 330 acres.

A LIFE INSURANCE POLICY

is a long contract, and is usually made to run through the remainder of the policyholder's life. Such a contract should be made with none but the safest possible institutions.

The Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York is the oldest American life insurance company, having issued its first policy Feb. 1, 1843. Its assets exceed six hundred and twenty-four millions of dollars, and it is as safe as anything human can be.

ITS POLICY CONTRACTS are, at the same time, as liberal as sound principles will allow and its dividends are large. It will cost you nothing and will pay you to consult me before insuring elsewhere.
