Nebuchadnezzar Roberts, aged 84, died Monday morning at the home of his son, John Roberts, at Leaksville. Mr. Roberts was in declining health for the past year and passed away Monday at 9 o'clock.

J. N. Ambler of Winston-Salem is expected in Leaksville early this week to confer with the Water and Sewerage association and also with all citizens, who are interested in public improvements.

The Thinkle Club which met last Friday afternoon with Mrs. J. H. Barham, had a very enjoyable meeting. The members were most all present and a number of invited guests. The roll call was answered with jokes which afforded much pleasure to all present.

The Wearwell Bed Spread mill started today making its own thread. The thread used up to the present time has been shipped here from which the Bed Spread mill obtained its supply. It had been planned the first bale of cotton would be used early Monday morning, but, because of the accident on the steam pipes, and motor, the work was delayed. The bed spread will hereafter be made from Leaksville made thread.

The need for additional store buildings on Washington street can be seen by the use to which old and heretofore unused buildings are being put. Many shacks have been patched up and turned into stores. The latest is the old building on the corner of Washington and Henry streets. Carpenters have been working on this building the past week and in a few days it will be occupied with a stock of groceries. Can't some enterprising business man give us some store room?

About 9 o'clock Sunday night, Luther Coward met with a painful accident while making some necessary repairs on the steam pipes in the Wearwell Bed Spread mill at Leaksville. Coward was working on a staging when one of the steam pipes burst. He fell to the floor and was injured by the fall. It was afterwards found that his face and neck were scalded by the steam from the burst pipe. Just as the accident happened Superintendent Forster happened to visit the mill and he at once phoned Dr. Ray who responded quickly, and the injured man was taken to his home in Mr. Forester's machine. After Mr. Coward was revived he was able to walk to the machine, and it is expected that he will be out in a short time.

NOTICE

The National Red Cross has sent out an appeal for 100,000 handkerchiefs. In response to this call Mrs. Allan Hopper of Leaksville is the originator of a patriotic scheme for the school children of Rockingham county to make a generous contribution to the necessity of our soldiers in the trenches and camps. Her plan is to ask all the superintendents and teachers in the county to co-operate with her in having November 9th as Handkerchief Day in all the schools. Supt. Hickerson gives this plan his hearty approval and writes Mrs. Hopper: "It will be a beautiful thing for our school children to do and I will give it my cordial approval and support." We hope all our teachers will catch the inspiration and we may realize our hope, of turning in five thousand handkerchiefs to the several Red Cross Chapters in the county.

Will you, dear reader encourage and help every child in your school or community to donate one large handkerchief on November 9th to our Handkerchief Supply Committee.

MRS. W. R. WALKER,
V-Chr. Leaksville-Spray-Draper Red Cross Chapter

Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable.
