MORE THAN MONEY REQUIRED TO WIN THE WAR

"There's more to be done if we are going to win this war than simply giving our money," says Col. F. H. Fries, State Director of War Savings.

"We must so direct our lives, our households and our desires as to release labor and materials that are now employed for personal gain and comforts, that they may be used in producing things necessary to win the war. We cannot go on living and living and making use of things now just as we did before the war, and at the same time support a vast army in the field and a great navy at sea.

"The warfare that we are in today not only requires our sending our men to the front, but our keeping them there fed and clothed. It requires a production of ships and shells, guns and rifles, motor trucks, aeroplanes, hospital supplies, food and a great variety of goods, the output of which call for vast industrial plants from one end of the country to the other, manned by millions of men and women, who serve their country as effectively in their way as our soldiers and sailors in active battle.

"If our people continue to require the luxuries and non-essentials which they required in the time of peace, they are not only making it necessary that these things shall be produced and at the expense and time of materials needed to fight the war, but they are handicapping the Government. They cause strong competition with the Government, rather than give it their support.

"England has long ago put the ban on extravagant dressing, and I am told that no one in England owns or uses an automobile for pleasure. Many of the palaces and rich houses have been closed, the families moving into apartments, to release the servants for work in munition plants and other war industries. And it seems to me that our people might as well now begin to do without some of the things which are non-essential to their health and efficiency and which cost money and labor to produce, that our Government may be less hindered in its plan of fighting and winning the war."

Postmasters Best Sellers of Stamps

The post offices of North Carolina during the months of December, January and February sold $780,875 of Thrift and War Savings Stamps, according to a report from the Treasury Department of Washington to State Headquarters for War Savings stamps at Winston-Salem, which report was compiled from the figures of the Post Office Department. This amount of sales by the post offices figures out that the per capita sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps in the State is about thirty-five cents, and while the banks have sold probably a similar amount, the per capita sale remains far from what is required of each individual if the State's quota of $50,000,000 is to be reached this year.

From the Treasury report the post offices of Forsyth County leads the State with the sale of $60,513.13. Cabarrus is second with a sale of $54,992.35. Other counties making good sales are: Rockingham, $42,783.31; Halifax $37,581.35; Buncombe, $26,622.00; Union $25,629.02 and Granville $23,610.61.

Drops A Bomb

Henry A. Page, U. S. Food Administrator for North Carolina, has just dropped a bomb into the camp of the blockaders and those merchants and millers who have been supplying the blockaders with food products. Mr. Page's statement covering the matter was characteristically short and sweet. Here it is:

"To use food products, sugar, corn meal, molasses and the like in the manufacture of blockade whiskey, rum etc., is clearly a willful waste of food and as such is punishable under the Lever Act. It is also unlawful for merchants or millers to sell these persons of in such quantities as make it appear reasonable certain that they are to be used in the manufacture of illicit intoxicants.

"The Federal Food Administration for North Carolina gives notice that It will take prompt and drastic action when evidence can be secured that any merchant and miller has offended."

The British steamer Baltscan, a coal carrier, having a crew of 41, is believed to have been lost with all on board somewhere off the Southern coast of Nova Scotia. Three bodies and a ship's boat which came ashore at Deep Cove, 15 miles from Yarmouth, and wreckage picked up near the Tusket Islands, are regarded by shipping authorities as conclusive evidence that the steamer has gone down.
