A Failure Leaves $63,000,000.

A business failure died in New York the other day, a man who busted after three months of business life, but who was game enough to try the idea again. It was so good that when he died he was operating 1,050 stores throughout the United States and had built the highest building in the world. The man's name was F. W. Woolworth, the founder and owner of a chain of five and ten cent stores scattered all over this country.

Last year his five and ten cent stores did a one hundred million dollars business, and it was mostly made up of nickle and dime trade. Other failures might note the mark made by this man, and take another grip on the handle of success.

To Enforce Prohibition.

The announced plans of the internal revenue office calls for three thousand agents working in especially arranged zones for the enforcement of prohibition after July 1st. Attention will be paid to all cities where violations are anticipated. Local police officers are expected to aid greatly in enforcing them.

Prohibition is expected to stimulate illicit stills, which have flourished in the past mainly among moonshiners of the Southern mountains. The circulation of literature for home manufacture of beer, ale, wines and even distilled liquors brings to mind a plausible source of many violations. To make liquor under these directions, it is stated, will be a clear violation of the law.

There can be little question that the initial enforcement of the prohibition law will be hard. The fact that the law has been passed rather than one's opinion as to the law, should guide us in our opinions on this matter. The people who worked so hard for prohibition, the organizations that stirred up the nation, must be everlastingly on the job, creating public sentiment in favor of the rigid enforcement of the law. Newspapers that fought prohibition especially will render great public service in upholding the hands of the law.

After reading an article in this week's Landmark by a "Sometimes Church goer" we want to make a suggestion to the pastors and officers of the churches in Elkin. We will first ask this question, "Is it necessary to have the church services an hour earlier on account of the new time ruling?" Sunday is a day of rest for both soul and body, then why should we be rushed on Sunday morning in order to get to Sunday School and church? With the present hours of service under the new time, which is Sunday School at 10 and preaching at 11 A. M., many stay away from church because they are rushed for time, and rather then go in late they stay at home. Let us change the hours of service have Sunday School at 11 o'clock and church at 12 o'clock, M., new time. It will make no change in the hours, and it will give the tired mother time to get her children off to Sunday School and herself to church. It is not the purpose of the writer to tell the preachers and officers how to run the churches. But the hurry and rush entailed on housekeepers by the new time is an unnecessary hardship on them, and the tired workers who enjoy an hour's extra rest on Sunday morning should have it.

Elkin Township sent seventy-two boys to the war. Out of this number one made the supreme sacrifice and is now sleeping beneath the sod "where the poppies blow on Flanders fields" one left a leg and two were crippled for life. Six or more are still over there awaiting their turn to come home, while the remainder are here and on the way. We gladly welcome these boys back to their homes and friends again. They were the pick and flower of our community. They went away from us, mostly plain, inexperienced country boys, they are coming back busily developed, portly men. We meet them, shake their hands and say we are glad to see you back again. Is this greeting sufficient? No. We owe them more than this. They deserve a better reception and we want to see it given to them. The 4th of July is a national holiday, the anniversary of our independence. Let us celebrate that day by giving our returned soldier boys a rousing reception. We want to see them in their uniforms parade through the streets of Elkin. Not only the boys of Elkin township, but those from Yadkin and Wilkes, also, who went from this section. Will not our leading citizens take up this matter and see what can be done. Let us have a big day and have every returned soldier here and give them such a reception as will make them forget the horrors of the war and the hardships they endured for us.

The boys are coming in. Each rain brings men from the ship loads arriving at Charleston, Sunday night the 120th regiment of the 30th division arrived at Camp Jackson and yesterday paraded in Charlotte. They are now being discharged and are rapidly going to their homes. Many men in this regiment are from this section of the state, Surry, Rockingham, Alamance, and Randolph, each having companies in this division and during the coming week many homes will be gladdened all over this country by the return of their loved ones. While it is a source of joy and happiness to the friends and relatives of these brave soldier boys, yet there will be a time of sorrow and regret in the hearts of these brave fellows as they separate, after months of dangers and hardships, endured together in the camps and on the battlefields as they part. A kind fate may sometime bring them all together again, but more likely many of them are seeing each other for the last time until after they have crossed the river "to rest under the shade of the trees."

Another bond issue has been called for by the government. The big drive begins next Monday, April 21, and continues until May 10. The people are asked for $1,500,000,000 to pay for the expense incurred during the great world war. The "Victory Liberty Loan" bond will be offered. This debt was authorized by the people, the bills were made, and now they must be paid! To fight the war took money; to win it took still more money, and we had to win regardless of the cost. We are not being asked now to sacrifice, to give. The war has been won, and the bond issue that is now being offered is the "victory" loan, the one that finishes the job. There are two ways by which the government can raise the required money—by bonds and by taxes. When you pay your money in taxes it is like water going over a dam. It is gone for a good purpose, but draws no interest for you. No man has ever received any interest on the taxes he paid. Money invested in bonds is still on the job. It makes you a stockholder in the government, and day and night it is working for you—earning interest. Now which do you prefer—taxes or bonds? The government asks you to loan it this money and will pay four and three fourths per cent interest, and in a few years returns it all to you. If you refuse, then the money will have to be raised by taxation and you will get neither principle nor interest in return. Again we ask which shall it be: "Taxes or bonds?"

Read the Liberty Loan ads. in this issue, the space of which was contributed by men who appreciate the fact that the loan must "go over."

Next Wednesday will be a big day in Winston Salem. The 105th Engineers who arrived in Charleston last Sunday from France will parade, and a big reception will be given by the citizens. Col. Pratt, with his staff and regimental band will be with them.

TELLS FRIENDS OF IMPROVEMENT

Greensboro Lady Gives Entire Credit for Her Present Good Health to Dreco, and is Recommending it to Every One Who Suffers From Stomach Trouble.

In a brief period of time Dreco has sprung into wide prominence. There is no medicine so effective in combatting those ailments which are sapping the very life and energy out of the people today, namely—stomach and nervous disorders and constipation.

Many men and women who have suffered from stomach, liver and kidney troubles, are now enjoying perfect health, due to Dreco, as their signed testimonials will show.

For instance, the one printed here from G. F. Alberty of Greensboro, N. C., says: "For five years my wife has suffered from nervous indigestion, could hardly retain any food on her stomach, and it would ferment and cause gas to form, keeping her in constant misery. Her liver was in bad shape, which made her have dizzy spells and headaches. I think her blood was thin—in fact she was rundown in every way, and was taking pills all the time to keep her bowels moving. I heard and read so much about Dreco that I got her a bottle, and it did her more good than all the medicines she had taken put together. It knocked out the nervous indigestion and her food digests without the gas collecting. She never has a headache or a dizzy spell, and she is not constipated any more. I give all credit for the improvement to Dreco."

Dreco is now sold by all good druggists throughout the country and is highly recommended in Elkin by Abernethy's Cash Pharmacy and Turner's Drug Store.

A Burning Question

After the fire the question is not "Was it insured?" The question is "What is your loss?" Insurance is a fine thing but a home that doesn't burn is far better. Our connection with the Hartford Fire Insurance Company enables us to offer you a fire prevention service which will surround your home and your family with every precaution that it is humanly possible to take. It's worth knowing about.
