CALDWELL 4-H BOYS PLANT BLACK WALNUTS

Two thousand black walnut trees were planted in Caldwell county last week by eighty 4-H club boys as the first effort toward replacing the fast diminishing supply of walnut timber. The black walnut grown by the North Carolina State Nursery had been exhausted by the heavy demand.

Caldwell county did not participate in the early distribution of black walnut trees, but recently a Caldwell citizen agreed to pay for 2,000 trees if the boys would plant them and keep records of their growth for five years.

While on a recent visit to Caldwell county, R. W. Graeber, extension forester at State College, assisted P. M. Hendricks, county agent, in presenting this program to the organized 4-H clubs of the county. He asked the boys to consult their fathers and report to the county agent. In three days, eighty boys had signed up and filed their requests for trees. Each boy got twenty-five trees and they were planted in fence corners, ditch banks and other waste places around the boy's homes.

This will be the largest Black Walnut Club in the state, says Mr. Graeber. These boys will keep a five-year record of the growth of the trees. The Club adopted as its slogan: "Plant A Walnut Tree and Harvest a Furniture Crop."

The donor of the trees told Mr. Hendricks that he was very much interested in Caldwell county boys and their future, but he would not let his name be made known in connection with the project.

"MARCH GARDEN NOTES"

PROPER USE OF MANURE

Manure should be applied broadcast at the rate of 10 to 20 tons per acre as a garden fertilizer, depending on the state of fertility of the soil. Ten tons an acre equal about fifty pounds per square foot. Manure applied in spring should be well rotted. A combination of manure and superphosphate is good for most soils.

"Leafy vegetables such as cabbage, lettuce and spinach require nitrogen for their best growth and this should be taken into consideration in using manure with a mixture of commercial fertilizer," says E. B. Morrow, Extension Horticulturist at State College. "Tomatoes respond best to manure combined with fertilizer containing a high percentage of phosphoric acid and moderate amounts of nitrogen and potash. Ten tons of manure per acre plus a complete fertilizer analyzing about 12 to 16 per cent phosphoric acid, 4 per cent nitrogen and 4 to 6 per cent potash should be used."

Mr. Morrow says that cantaloupes and watermelons do especially well when fertilized with manure. When applied in the hill, 5 or 10 pounds of manure per hill is not too much. A handful of superphosphate to each hill also is helpful on most soils. After the plants are established give one or two side dressings with a nitrogen fertilizer, especially on sandy soil.

Avoid the use of manure on Irish and sweet potatoes, advises Mr. Morrow. It enriches the soil too much for sweet potatoes and may cause scab on Irish potatoes. If used to enrich soil for Irish potatoes it should be applied to a previous crop. Sweet potatoes do best on land of moderate fertility heavily fertilized. Both Irish and sweet potatoes respond best to fertilizers containing rather high percentages of potash.
