Stewart-Bivins

Announcement was made Monday at the wedding of Mrs. Nan Evans Stewart to W. Edward Bivins which was solemnized on September 23, 1932.

Mrs. Bivins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Evans, and was educated at the local school and at Bryard.

Mr. Bivins is the son of the late J. B. and Mrs. Bivins and holds position with the State Highway Commission, with headquarters at Fayetteville, where they will make their home.

Miss Edith Neaves Entertains At Delightful Dance

Miss Edith Neaves entertained a delightful dance at her home on Bridge street Wednesday evening honoring her guest, Miss Carolyn Halsey, of Mouth-of-Wilson, Virginia, and Misses Myrtle and Elizabeth Motesinger of Winston-Salem. The guest list included a number of the college set home for the holidays and their visitors.

Delicious refreshments were served during intermission.

Dr. and Mrs. Harrell Entertain At Bridge Party

Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Harrell entertained at a most delightful bridge party at their home on West Main street Friday evening, with several tables in play. Red candles and evergreens were used in the living room, sun parlor and dining room. Beautifully appointed refreshments were served from the buffet during the evening.

Mrs. C. G. Armfield was awarded the ladies' high score prize and O. Bryan received the gentlemen's prize. The consolation prize was given Mrs. J. H. Beeson.

Unity Club Has Holiday Dance

One of the most delightful and widely attended events of the past week was the Holiday Dance given by the members of the Unity Club in the ballroom at Hotel Elkin Thursday evening. A number of holiday visitors and out-of-town guests were present for the delightful occasion, in addition to the club members and their guests.

The ballroom was lovely with shaded lights and holiday decorations. Music was furnished by Art Hart and his orchestra.

A number of the young ladies set acted as chaperones for the occasion.

Leap Year Dance Held At Hotel Elkin Saturday Evening

Climaxing the holiday activities was the Leap Year dance given in the ballroom of Hotel Elkin on Saturday evening by the young ladies of the town. The ballroom was effectively decorated with a background of pine and cedar, with softly shaded lights. Music for the occasion was furnished by a loud speaker.

About eighteen couples enjoyed the delightful event. Chaperones were Mrs. E. F. McNeer, Mrs. E. C. Click, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Farris and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sherrill.

The proceeds, above the actual expenses of the dance, were given to local Associated Charities.

Eight of Clubs Guests of Mrs. Freeman

Mrs. J. N. Freeman was a charming hostess on Friday evening when she entertained the members of the Eight of Clubs at her home on Circle Court.

Two tables were placed on bridge. Mrs. Clyde Eller and Mrs. Ruth Gwyn were awarded silk hose for high and low score, respectively. With the removal of the cards a tempting collation was served to the following guests: Miss Ruth Atkinson, Miss Anna Atkinson, Mrs. Jayne Hall Robinson, Mrs. R. Freeman, Miss Ruth Gwyn, Mrs. Clyde Eller, Mrs. Edwin Harris at the hostess.

Mrs. Robinson Hostess to Bridge Club

Mrs. Jayne Hall Robinson delightfully entertained the members of her bridge club at her home on West Main street Monday evening. Tables were placed for the game. Bowls of narcissi and evergreens made an attractive setting for the players. Miss Anna Atkinson was the club award for scoring highest during the progressions.

At the conclusion of the game, sandwiches, coffee and fruit were served to the following guests: Miss Anna Atkinson, Miss Ruth Atkinson, Miss Kathleen Bailey, Mrs. Elizabeth Turner, Miss Sue Byrd, Mrs. Ruth Byrd Crater and Mr. Robert James.

Miss Mattie Brendle Entertains Senior B. Y. P. U.

Miss Mattie Brendle entertained at a most enjoyable party at her home on Elk Spur street Thursday evening, having as her guests the members of the Senior B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church.

Following a medley of old fashioned games the guests were invited into the dining room, which was actively arranged with Christmas decorations. The table was covered with a handsome lace cloth and crimson candles were used on either side to further accentuate the holiday motif. Delicious punch was served with sandwiches, nuts, candy and fruit. About twenty guests enjoyed Miss Brendle's hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. Pyron Hosts At New Year Party

Mr. and Mrs. Ruohs Pyron entertained at a most delightful New Year party at their home at Klondike Farm Saturday evening. Eight tables were placed for bridge in the spacious living room and dining room, which were artistically arranged with evergreens and crimson candles, suggestive of the holiday season. Mrs. Albert Bryan was awarded the ladies' high score prize at the conclusion of the games and Dr. B. E. Pulliam received the gentlemen's high score award. The consolation prize fell to Mr. W. R. Schaff.

Tempting refreshments were served buffet style during the evening to thirty-five guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Beeson Entertain At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Beeson were hosts at a lovely dinner party at their home on West Main street Thursday evening. The beautifully appointed table was covered with a white cloth and centered with a massive silver bowl of holly. Red candles were used at either side of the table, completing the Christmas motif.

Covers were placed for six, most of whom are employees of the Bank of Elkin. An elaborate four-course turkey dinner was served. Following the dinner the guests were entertained at a theatre party.

Those enjoying Mr. and Mrs. Beeson's hospitality were Misses Gaynell Phillips and Barbara Weir and Messrs. Roy Collins and Walter Snow.

Mrs. Poindexter Entertains Club

Mrs. C. C. Poindexter was a charming hostess on Wednesday when she entertained the members of the Wednesday Bridge Club at luncheon at her home on Gwyn Avenue.

Upon the arrival of the guests a beautifully appointed collation was served from small tables, centered with crimson candles. Place cards further accentuated the Yuletide season.

Mrs. Ruohs Pyron received a novelty make-up box for scoring highest during the progressions.

Those playing were: Mrs. Hardin Graham, Mrs. Thomas Roth, Mrs. Raymond Chatham, Mrs. Ruohs Pyron, Mrs. Alex Chatham, Mrs. Richard Chatham and Mrs. Poindexter.

Mrs. Salmons Hostess At Party Honoring Guests

One of the loveliest parties of the week was on Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. H. C. Salmons entertained at a delightful party at her home on Church street, honoring her sisters, Mrs. A. T. Banks and Miss Pearl Michael of Kernersville and Miss Georgia Moore of Elon College.

Progressive hearts were played at four tables. Mrs. Chas. Brewer won a pair of silk hose for high score award during the progressions.

With the removal of the cards a beautifully appointed refreshment course was served. Those enjoying the delightful event were Mrs. Banks, Miss Michael and Miss Moore, guests of honor, Mesdames W. W. Whitaker, E. E. Hayes, W. R. Wellborn, C. H. Brewer, Harry L. Johnson, Marion Allen, George Royall, W. N. Sherrill, E. C. Grier, Misses Effie Crater, Blanche Dixon and Mary Hendren.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry L. Johnson Hosts at Bridge Party

Dr. and Mrs. Harry L. Johnson were hosts at a most enjoyable party at their new home on Thursday evening, with seven tables of bridge in play. Mrs. Hardin Graham received the ladies' high score prize, a double deck of cards, in a novelty case. Dr. B. E. Pulliam received the gentlemen's prize, a carton of cigarettes, and Mr. Ruohs Pyron received a double deck of cards as consolation.

Mrs. Johnson was hostess again on Friday afternoon. Three tables were placed for bridge. Mrs. Walter R. Schaff was given a double deck of cards for scoring highest in the progressions and Mrs. W. R. Wellborn received a pair of sachets as consolation.

At each party a beautifully appointed refreshment course, with the Christmas motif predominating, was served. Lovely evergreens and candles were used throughout the home to further accentuate the holiday motif.

Aluminum was not discovered as a separate metal until 1824. Scientists have learned that it is earth's most abundant metal.

HOT DOGS
With the automobiles killing more people each year than were killed during the War, it behooves every one interested in the safety of human life in general and of his own family in particular, to see the places where some of this slaughter can be avoided.
The hot dog, the ice cream cone, the vegetable stand and the gas station owners are responsible for a portion of this loss of life, and highway regulations should be so framed as to avoid this particular menace.
Many of these roadside stands are so close to the edge of the highway that when cars stop to patronize them, they are still on, or partially on the highways. Cars on that side of the highway must turn out into the wrong side of the road in passing, and many of the accidents due to this menace are the most deadly kind—the head-on collision.
Such stands should be compelled to locate far enough back from the highway proper to give ample parking space for automobiles which stop to patronize them. These stands are unsightly enough without being an added menace to the general hazard of cross country driving.
On Sundays and holidays, such stands are frequent causes of traffic jams, dozens of cars being held up by oncoming traffic while one hungry motorist stops to get a mustard plastered hot dog, or while some child is humored with an ice cream cone.
The remedy is so simple and the stands built at such small expense, that highway commissioners would do well to consider carefully this way of avoiding a menace to the life of every passing motorist.
Public safety and public convenience demand that parked cars be parked off the highway. The people who profit by their stopping should be the ones to arrange for them to be able to get out of the way of other motorists who want to proceed.

MEMBERSHIP DEVELOPMENT
At one of the district conventions this fall, it developed that one of the oldest clubs in the United States had practically doubled its membership without in the least lowering its membership standards, without in any sense putting on a drive, and without doing anything else sensational.
To bring the membership of any club back to its highest point, or even higher, it is not necessary to make any stir outside of the club. The result is attained by real work inside of the club. It is a fact not to be gainsaid that if every Kiwanian now belonging to the organization would make a sincere effort, the membership of Kiwanis could be doubled in one month.
There is no Kiwanian now in the organization who could not bring into his club one desirable member. The difficulty lies not in finding worthy men who would make good Kiwanians, but in inspiring the men who are now Kiwanians to a realization of the need of building up the club to its best working strength.
A real leader as committee chairman can hold revival services in any club and inspire its membership to build up the club. The big point is selecting for this important task a man who can inspire and who will be followed by the membership.

In every city where a Kiwanis club functions there are good men who need the town loyalty inspired by Kiwanis. In every town are young men who would esteem Kiwanis membership a recognition by the leading men of the town. These men can be had if approached in the right way by the right person.
No Kiwanis club has so far forgotten the dignity and the standing of the organization as to stage anything which takes on the nature of a membership drive. Such a move would be more hurtful than helpful. But a careful survey of the business and professional men of any town will show Kiwanis material of the highest type which needs only approach by the proper person to be brought into the club, to the benefit of the man himself, the organization and the town.
K
EDUCATING AGAINST ITINERANTS
"Madam, we can sell you these much more cheaply than any local merchant. We have no expensive store rent to pay, we do no advertising in the daily papers, we have no big overhead for trucks and deliveries, so we can sell you at least twenty-five per cent cheaper than the stores down town."
This is the argument of the itinerant salesman at the front door. Membership of Kiwanis are merchants and manufacturers and business men of the home town. There is no better way to educate the housewife against this propaganda than to put on an entertainment at a Ladies' Night to educate against such salesmen.
The very argument of the salesman is the best argument against them. If all business were done on the house-to-house plan, no stores would be rented, no advertising bought in local papers, no tax money collected to pay policemen, firemen, garbage collectors, street sweepers, paving, city lighting, and all the other advantages of a properly conducted city government.
Such salesmen should be asked how much their firms contribute to the local tax budget, and how much they pay toward the support of the free schools in which our children are educated.
To put on a playlet in which the salesman tries to sell a housewife who asks him these and other pertinent questions, is to educate the wives of Kiwanians against the kind of buying which undermines the local merchant and materially lowers the per capita wealth of a town by sending out of it thousands of dollars which should be spent with local merchants and manufacturers.
Money spent in the home town is convenient money which the spender may get back at an early date. Money sent out of town is distant money, unlikely ever to get back into local circulation.
