Winston-Salem Weed Market Opens Tuesday With Average $17.75

SALES FOR FIRST DAY IN EXCESS OF A MILLION POUNDS

Superior Quality of Crop Important Factor For Price

EVERYONE PLEASED

Record prices and a record volume of sales marked the opening of the Winston-Salem tobacco market Tuesday.

Prices for the 1,154,448 pounds of tobacco sold averaged $17.75 per hundred pounds and brought producers $202,716.25. Sales were 503,274 pounds in excess of those on last year's opening day; the average was $3.62 above that the same day in 1932 and the return to farmers was $110,732.41 greater.

The average of $17.75 was the highest for an opening in the state this season and brought elation alike to farmers, warehousemen, market officials and others directly or indirectly affected.

Buyers and market officials expressed the opinion that the average will hold up well as the season progresses. They attributed the good prices to a better quality crop, especially smoking tobacco, and to adherence of buying concerns to price agreements.

Half million pounds of tobacco was on floors of the seven warehouses and a steady flow was anticipated Tuesday night.

Market officials estimated that 15,000 farmers, the majority of them sellers, were on hand for the opening day. Prices were the most satisfactory in several years and observers pointed out that this year's crop was produced at the lowest cost in many years, leaving the producer a sizeable profit.

NRA BLUE EAGLE IS GIVEN CLAWS; JAIL AND FINES PROVIDED

Those Who Violate The Agreement Treading Risky Path

RULES LAID DOWN

Those persons who have signed the President's re-employment agreement with an outward show of patriotism in order to gain the coveted blue eagle, yet who violate its terms, are liable to feel the claws of the eagle in the form of a six months' jail sentence and a $500 fine, an order made public by President Roosevelt Tuesday night shows. The story from Washington announcing the President's move follows:

Washington, Oct. 17.—President Roosevelt served notice upon the nation tonight that he is prepared to keep the blue eagle honest by fines and jail terms for persons who fall to live up to its standards.

In an executive order, he prescribed $500 fine and six months' imprisonment for persons who sign the President's re-employment agreement and then violate its provisions, and also for persons who display the blue eagle after they have been ordered to turn in the symbol of recovery because of violations.

The order was the administration's answer to complaints that it was not enforcing the temporary agreements and the complaint of many business men that they no longer abide by the agreements because competitors were not doing so.

The orders made clear that violators of the temporary re-employment agreement are subject to penalties provided in the recovery act for violators of permanent codes.

HAYES NOT TO JAIL LIQUOR VIOLATORS

Whisky Sellers to be Put On Probation By Wilkes Jurist

No more defendants, unless they are hardened criminals, will go to jail for liquor law violations, if they are tried in federal court presided over by Judge Johnson J. Hayes.

The jurist, in opening court at Salisbury Monday, said he would put on probation all offenders convicted of selling whisky unless they had long criminal records.

He said he believed those now in prison for violating the 18th Amendment would be turned loose upon repeal of the law, and that anyone sentenced to six months or a year on such a charge now would not have served his time before repeal.

Judge Hayes said he believed the courts should be responsive to public opinion and that an overwhelming majority of the American people have already decided they wish the Eighteenth Amendment repealed.

He said further that a man sentenced for six months or a year would not have served his sentence before the amendment is repealed.

It was the judge's opinion that those in prison for violating the Eighteenth Amendment may be released upon its repeal by Congress or the President.

CARS CRASH ON BOONVILLE ROAD

Run Together When Driver Is Blinded By Lights

C. S. Bohannon, of Boonville, sustained two broken ribs about 8:15 Tuesday night when the roadster which he was driving was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Sarah Click, of this city on the new Winston-Salem highway about three miles east of town. Mrs. E. G. Click, Miss Click's mother, who was in the car sustained a cut on the hand. With the exception of slight bruises, other occupants of the colliding machines were not injured.

According to Corporal W. B. Lentz, who investigated the accident, Miss Click evidently was blinded by the headlights of the approaching car and held her machine too far over on the left of the highway. The left front wheels of both machines were said to have struck, the impact turning over the roadster and badly damaging both cars.

In the automobile with Bohannon were E. F. Gough and Zeb Patton, both of Boonville. The machine was said to have been the property of O. C. Poindexter, of Boonville.

In addition to her mother, Miss Click was accompanied by her sister, Jean.
