THE CAMPAIGN

You'll notice, perhaps, as soon as you finish reading this column that The Tribune is this week announcing with great gusto a circulation campaign in which it will pay to deserving brothers and sisters over $1,300 in hard cash!

The first prize will be $600 in a lump sum; the second $400; the third $150 and so on down the line. Which, you must admit, and wife, Valley Hayes, will be mighty nice for those who hustle the fastest and win.

However, the Gab Bag shall not be outdone. The board of directors of this column, consisting of the writer, Simpson, Oswald H. Gumbersnitz, and Oscar the rat (pictured above in the heading), have decided to award ad-ditional prizes to those who come out ahead in this campaign.

After an all night meeting, in which Simpson snored mightily and Oscar the rat started to nibble on the writer with the idea that he is a big piece of cheese, the following prizes were decided upon:

To first prize winner will be awarded a new tack. This tack is to be used for sitting upon. Thus, when anyone tells the winner to go sit on a tack, it will not be necessary for that person to go to a lot of trouble hunting for a tack. He or she will have the prize tack instantly available.

Second prize will consist of Klondike Lake. Thus the winner will have every right to "go jump in the lake.'

Third prize caused the board of directors a lot of trouble. We had a hard time deciding on what to give. But after much thought we decided upon a "protector" from false teeth. With this "protector"

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

the false teeth may be slipped into the hip pocket and the person so doing may sit down without fear of being bitten.

To the remainder of the contestants who win prizes will be awarded a box of Dr. Bumper's Bunion plas-ters. After three applications the foot comes off.

NEEDED: STOP LIGHTS

As soon as street markers are in-stalled here, the Gab Bag is going to launch another of its famous and absolutely resultless campaigns. This time it will campaign with its usual ineffectiveness for stop and go traffic lights.

The intersection which cries the loudest for one of these lights is the one at the north end of the new bridge. It is probable there would have been no death there last Wednesday morning had such a safeguard been installed when the Market street extension was opened.

As a result of this negligence in safety, we have a widow, and nine children left fatherless.

Would the cost of a traffic signal be too dear an effort to make to avoid further tragedies there?

What with being accused of spreading rumors it be-gins to look as if we'll have to spill Still, we wouldn't want to say that Mr. Griffeth, down at Pen-ney's, traded for a balky horse after telling the man with whom he traded that "I'm an old horse trader." . . . According to what we hear, Mr. Griffeth's new horse wouldn't even move with a fire under him, but as we said before, we're not going to tell about that yet on account of we have some slight idea ourself of how it feels to be kidded .

It's reliably reported that after the horse trade Mr. Griffeth still had his shirt.

From what we can gather, Lee Snow has captured a 'possum that's so big he had to enlarge a cow stall to keep it in . . . He was afraid to put it in the barn with his cows for fear it would step on some of them . . . It's also reported by Will Holcomb, a man of unquestioned in-tegrity (?) that Mr. Snow is fattening this 'possum for a wedding feast . . . Reports are that Jack Smoot, chief cook and plate dropper down at Abernethy's, has to do all the cooking at home since taking unto himself a wife . . . Sort of a "from behind the lunch counter into the kitchenette" affair . . . Well, we always figured Jack would find his real calling some day . . . Speaking of Will Holcomb, we hear he had his picture taken the other Sunday. Two exposures with his hat on and one with it off . . . It's said the photographer made him keep the hat on so it would cover part of his face. In that way he protected his camera . . . When the pictures were developed, one resembled Mae West and the other two didn't resemble anything-not even Mr. Holcomb . . .

THIS AND THAT

Funny how the wind piles all the leaves from trees right smack in the middle of the sidewalk.

Another reader or two to record. Nurses in a Cincinnati hospital—or so we heard. Goodness knows this weekly drivel needs some nursing.

Looks like we're going to be in the market for some extra soft soft soap.

Libby Holman Reynolds' baby son, Christopher, the latter part of last week laid claim to the entire $25,-000,000 slice of the Reynolds tobac-co fortune which was held in trust for his father, Smith Reynolds.
