JUDGE CONTINUES RESTRAINING ORDER near State Road.

Suit Pending In Surry Court To Oust Primitive Baptist Preacher

In a hearing at the Forsyth coun ty courthouse at Winston-Salem last Thursday, Judge John H. Clement ordered the restraining order against Elder G. C. Dunbar, restraining him from holding services in the Union Primitive Baptist church of this county, continued until the case is heard in Surry superior court.

The hearing was held on a petition to dismiss the restraining order originally entered in the case.

It was sometime ago that charges were filed in Surry superior court asking a permanent restraining order to prevent Elder Dunbar from holding services in the Union Primitive Baptist church. The suit grew out of a church conference in which Elder Dunbar, then assistant pastor of the church, was excluded as a member of the congregation, his license to preach revoked and ordered not to hold further services in the church. The restraining order, originally, was signed since Elder Dunbar is alleged to have persisted in holding services in the church.

Dunbar were to the effect that he had caused a disturbance and disorder in the church for sometime. He was alleged by the church to have withdrawn from fellowship with the church association and from all the 18 churches of the association with the exception of two, the State Road and Laurel Springs Primitive Bap-

W. Creed, the regular pastor of the church, on behalf of the alleged majority of the congregation.
