

News From The COUNTY CAPITAL

Dobson, April 1.—The annual Junior-Senior banquet of the Dobson high school, under the efficient leadership of Mrs. W. E. Hancock, was held in the Woman's Club room on last Thursday evening. Covers were laid for sixty. The class colors, blue and white, were attractively noticeable in every detail. The beautiful large centerpiece at the President's table, consisted of gorgeous white roses, blue carnations and fern. White candles in blue crystal candelabra and bowls of spring flowers were used in profusion on tables and throughout the entire room. Graceful festoons of blue and white crepe added to the attractive scene. Two large ships, suggestive of the Junior class slogan, "Towing for success", further adorned the President's and officers' table. The clever place cards in the form of miniature ships, held the buttered peanuts, while on the attractive program and menu leaflet appeared the sturdy anchor and rippling waves, with "success" in bold white type printed on each. The following menu in four courses, was exceptionally palatable and good to look upon: fruit cocktail, chicken in croustades, radishes, diced potatoes, carrots, cream cheese salad, nuts, date soufflé, coffee. Toasts were given between courses. Miss Helen Harkrader, president of the junior class to the seniors, with response by Miss Sylvia Blue, president of the senior class. Frank Comer to the faculty, with response by M. G. Stanley, principal. Little Miss Arlene Driggers, of Pilot Mountain, delighted the guests with tap dancing. The Dobson school song concluded the program.
