ELKIN, LEAKSVILLE AND ROXBORO ARE ELIGIBLE FOR P. O.

Survey Will Determine Which Town Gets Federal Building

FUND IS REDUCED

With the federal appropriation under the President's work bill for the erection of federal buildings slashed, chances of a new postoffice for this congressional district lies between Elkin, Roxboro and Leaksville. Congressman Frank Hancock stated here Tuesday while en route from Washington to Roaring Gap where his family is spending the summer months.

To determine which of the three towns is really most in need of a new postoffice, a new survey will be made upon which a decision will be reached.

Postmaster F. W. Graham said Tuesday that in case Elkin should not be given the federal building this year, the town would again be eligible for a building next year. However, he is hopeful that the decision as to which town really needs the building the worst will be in Elkin's favor.

INSTALL NEW AND SAFER MACHINES

Fire-Proof Projectors Are New Equipment of Lyric Theatre

At all times interested in giving Elkin movie fans the very best in material equipment as well as pictures, the Lyric theatre has recently completed installation of new fire-proof projectors which are designed to reduce to a minimum fire hazards and at the same time create a steadier picture on the screen.

The new machines, the most modern type of equipment on the market today, utilize a new type shutter which operates between the light beam and the film instead of in front of the projection lens as in the former machines. This shutter, which cuts off all image from the screen—although too quick for the eye to see—while the partition between the pictures on the film is being drawn by the lens, is shaped to form a fan which circulates cool air over the face of the film.

In case the film should break, the shutter is timed so that one of the blades will always stop in such a position that it will cut off the beam of light from the film. In old machines when the film broke, the intense heat of the light beam would ignite the film almost instantly if the safety device with which it was equipped, failed to function. The new arrangement cannot fail, it was said.

In addition to its safety features, the new machines are superior to the old in many other ways, Louis Mitchell, owner of the theatre, stated.

LATE NEWS from the State and Nation

INQUIRY REVEALS ORIGIN OF TELEGRAMS

Washington, July 16.—A tale of anti-utility bill telegrams, dictated by a power company representative, signed with names from a city directory and then mysteriously burned was unfolded today before the senate lobby committee.

Nervous, but never hesitant, Jack A. Fisher, Western Union office manager at Warren, Pa., now suspended from duty, related the story to the committee in an effort, he said, to clear himself of suspicion that he was involved in the destruction of the messages.

HUEY STILL AFTER WALMSLEY

New Orleans, July 16.—Senator Huey P. Long today apparently had decided upon a recall election to remove from office his political antagonist, Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

Having abandoned two plans aimed at ousting the mayor, one which failed and the other being discarded before attempts were made to execute it, Senator Long announced his newest threat against Walmsley in a printed circular laid on the doorsteps of thousands of New Orleans homes today.

RUMBLE OF WAR GROWS LOUDER

Rome, July 16.—The rumble of preparation for Italo-Ethiopian hostilities increased in volume today as Italy's inspired press, echoing military circles, shouted its battle war was inevitable.

At Addis Ababa, official circles said increasing indications Italy intended to use force against her had led Ethiopia to begin extensive military preparations "to meet an emergency."

TO DIE FOR $24 HOMICIDE

Winston-Salem, July 16.—Germany Williams and Lawrence Dingle, negroes, today were sentenced by Judge J. A. Rousseau to die by lethal gas on August 23, after their conviction yesterday for first degree murder. They were found guilty of killing John Gant, negro iceman, April 28, during a holdup netting them $24.

HOLDS AAA UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Washington, July 16.—With the senate already in a state of all but hopeless confusion as it worried along on the AAA amendments, Boston created a diversion when the circuit court of appeals there held agricultural adjustment act unconstitutional today in a decision rather strikingly analogous to the decision of the Supreme court in the NRA case.

VETERANS CHOOSE ASHEVILLE

Hickory, July 16.—The United Spanish War veterans, department of North Carolina, in closing their 12th annual encampment here today selected Asheville as the next meeting place. Winston-Salem was the only other city extending an invitation for the 1936 encampment.

HOWEVER, CAPITOL NOT ALARMED OVER FATE OF PROGRAM

10 Millions of Benefits Have Gone to Tar Heel Farmers

TO APPEAL RULING

Washington, July 16.—The court of appeals decision in Boston holding the processing tax unconstitutional did not cause any great amount of alarm here today among those who are in sympathy with the AAA farm program.

In the first place the AAA amendments, which have passed the House and now pending in the Senate, are designed to meet the chief objection raised by the court and that is delegation of legislative powers.

Senator Bankhead, Alabama Democrat, said he was confident the new bill removed any chance of the Supreme Court declaring the processing tax unconstitutional.

Chairman Smith, of the Senate agriculture committee, was not so optimistic, but said if the Supreme Court should declare the processing tax unconstitutional then Congress would have to appropriate funds out of the treasury for benefit payments in order to preserve the Roosevelt farm program.

The processing tax is the very heart of the AAA plan to assure the farmer parity for his products and should the Supreme Court uphold the court of appeals it would be a bitter blow to agriculture.

Tobacco farmers would suffer as much if not more than any other class. The AAA program thus far has benefited tobacco growers more than any other group of farmers.

By using the processing tax to make benefit payments to co-operate growers the AAA has succeeded in lining production with consumption and last year the price of flue-cured tobacco was well above parity.

In addition to the higher prices which this co-operation among growers has brought, the producers of flue-cured tobacco have received approximately fifteen million dollars in cash benefit payments.

What is more important to North Carolina is the fact that of this amount ten million dollars has come into the pockets of Tar Heel growers.
