

Elkin Fair Will Not Be Held Due To Tent Trouble and Weather

AMATEUR PROGRAM TO BE STAGED AT THEATRE TUESDAY

BIG TENT FALLS DOWN

Heavy Rain Drenches Ground Making Annual Event Impossible

IS BIG DISAPPOINTMENT

The Elkin Fair, scheduled to have opened for its fifth annual exhibition here at noon today, was called off at a meeting of the board of directors Wednesday morning.

It was decided to call off the event when the largest tent of the two in which the fair was to be housed, collapsed Tuesday night during a steady rain. As a result the interior of the tent was converted into a quagmire by the rain so that it would have been impossible to have dried off the ground in time. The smaller tent withstood the rain.

Owners of the tents, it is understood, were to keep a man on the grounds to look after them following their erection, but failed to live up to their agreement. Collapse of the tent was responsible for the cancellation of the fair.

However, although the fair will not be held this year, one of the features of the fair program, the Amateur Show, will be held at the Lyric Theatre here Tuesday night of next week. Winners in this event will go to Greensboro Sunday afternoon, October 6, and stage a 30-minute program over Radio Station WBIG, which will also serve as an audition. Major Edney Ridge, director of the station, stated over long distance telephone Wednesday afternoon that the program would be broadcast between 4:30 and 5 p. m., and extended an invitation to everyone who wished to attend the broadcast to be present as guests of the station.

For the benefit of those on the amateur program, who have as yet not been notified of the change of date, the amateurs will perform immediately after the showing of the moving picture, "Public Enemy's Wife," starring Pat O'Brien and Margaret Lindsey. Regular admission will be charged.

ROOSEVELT SCORES COMMUNISM AS HE STARTS CAMPAIGN

Says Issues Hidden Under False Claims

RECALLS 1933 EVENTS

Says Republicans Had 12 Years In Which To Do Something

DEFENDS PARTY RECORD

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Contending that his record showed "consistent adherence" to the letter and spirit of "the American form of government," President Roosevelt tonight opened the campaign for his re-election with a repudiation of "the support of any advocate of communism."

Calling communism a "false issue" in the campaign, the President told the New York state Democratic convention assembled here in a state armory that "the previous national administration" had "encouraged" conditions that fostered communism.

The Democratic party, he added, was "realistic enough" to face "this menace."

The President remarked at another point that there was no difference between the major parties as to what they think about communism, but there was a "very great difference" in what they do about it.

"In the spring of 1933 we faced a crisis which was the ugly fruit of 12 years of neglect of the causes of economic and social unrest. It was a crisis made to order for all those who would overthrow our form of government.

"Do I need to recall to you the fear of those days—the reports of those who piled supplies in their basements, who laid plans to get their fortunes across the border, who got themselves hideaways in the country against the impending upheaval?

"Do I need to recall the law-abiding heads of peaceful families, who began to won, as they saw their children starve, how they could get the bread they saw in the bakery window?

"Do I need to recall the homeless boys who were traveling in bands through the country seeking work and food—desperate because they could find neither?

"Do I need to recall the farmers who banded together with pitchforks to keep the sheriff from selling the farm home under foreclosure? Do I need to recall the powerful leaders of industry and banking who came to me in Washington in those early days of 1933 pleading to be saved?

"Most people in the United States remember today the fact that starvation was averted, that homes and farms were saved, that banks were re-opened, that crop prices rose, that industry revived and the dangerous subversive of our form of government were turned aside.

"A few people—a few only—unwilling to remember, seem to have forgotten those days.
