HARVEY PARDUE IS ARRESTED; NOW IN GREENSBORO JAIL

Jonesville Youth Is Held on Federal Charge

WAS DECLARED OUTLAW

Wanted in Wilkes on Charge of Robbery; Was Nabbed in Maryland

HEARING IN DECEMBER

Harvey "Pee Wee" Pardue, of Jonesville, who was declared an outlaw approximately nine months ago by a superior court judge at North Wilkesboro, is now in jail at Greensboro following his arrest in Maryland a little over a week ago.

Complete details of Pardue's arrest could not be obtained here, his capture said to have been brought about by federal agents who were seeking him on a charge of theft of an automobile and transporting it across state lines. It was said, however, that the young man and several companions were arrested while present at a corn shucking.

Brought to North Carolina, where he is wanted on several charges, among which are highway robbery and firing upon officers, he was placed in jail at Greensboro to await trial in federal court there during the week of December 7.

Pardue, it is understood, had made the boast that he would never be taken alive. He is alleged to have been in on the robbery of a Yadkin county man near Doughton, and later to have made his way to Alabama where he was said to have held up a motorist and after forcing the man from his car, to have driven it to Elkin.

Local police were tipped off that Pardue was in town and surprised him near the Elkin school building. Shots were fired by both police and fugitive, but all went wild. He was successful in making an escape and his whereabouts had been unknown until his recent arrest in Maryland.

MUCH INTEREST IS SHOWN IN REVIVAL

The revival which is in progress at the Elkin Pilgrim Holiness church, is getting well under way. A fine spirit is prevailing in each service, with unusual interest being shown. The Emmanuel Quartet, evangelistic singers and preachers of Cincinnati, Ohio, have been delivering excellent messages both in song and preaching.

A special service will be held Friday evening, Nov. 20, when the quartet will sing several requests and each member will give a sketch of his life's story. In past experience this service has proven to be very interesting.

Three services are held each Sunday: at 11:00 a. m., 3:00 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. All are given a special invitation to attend these services.

Americanism: Paying $100 in taxes; feeling like a favorite of Santa Claus when the government gives you $50 of it to waste.

Price On Surry Outlaw's Head Raised to $200

The price on the head of Caleb Wagoner, 44-year-old Surry county outlaw and fugitive from state prison, has been raised to $200 by a recent offer from Master Detective magazine to pay $100 for the capture of the outlaw by someone who notified his picture in the publication's criminal line-up.

A reward of $100 was offered for Wagoner's apprehension by the state of North Carolina two weeks ago after strenuous efforts on the part of Surry county officers and agents of the state prison service failed to effect his capture.

Authorities are still unable to trap the outlaw or locate his hideout, they stated last night, but he was believed for a while to be staying at his father's home and to be hiding from searching parties in the densely wooded country which covers a large area along the Ararat river and stretches from Wagoner's home in the forks of the Ararat and Yadkin rivers to the western slopes of Pilot Mountain.

$17,990 LOANED IN SURRY IN '36

Made By Production Credit Association to Farmers of County

REPAYMENTS ARE GOOD

L. E. Francis, secretary and treasurer of the Winston-Salem Production Credit Association, was in Dobson Wednesday attending to business matters and while there stated to a Tribune reporter that the total amount of loans granted this year in the district served by the association, which embraces Surry, Wilkes, Forsyth, Davidson, Yadkin, Wilkes, Alleghany, Ashe, Watauga and Caldwell counties, was in excess of $90,000. Six hundred and 25 loans have been made, more than one third of which have already been paid in full, and less than $40,000 of the total amount is still outstanding.

The Production Credit Association is not a government institution, but is a borrowing and lending association which was made possible by a government appropriation, and is chartered by and under the supervision of the government. Anyone who joins the association becomes a shareholder in its assets and has a right to a voice in the management of its affairs by virtue of the bylaws of the company.

The capital stock of the association is $130,000, with much more than that available as loans. One hundred and six loans in Surry county this year amounted to $17,990, and Mr. Francis stated that repayments were good, which is an indication that the loans are beneficial to those securing them.

W. H. Hardy is the Surry county director of the association, and Aubrey P. Snow, of Surry, is the bookkeeper at the home office.

The loans the association grants are for operating purposes, which consist of paying fertilizer bills, re-financing loans, buying feed for fattening and breeding, and for other operating expenses of the farm. The loans, which are short-time loans, are secured by a first mortgage on moveable property, with a minimum loan of $50. Loans in Surry county this year ran from $50 to $500. Loans may be obtained at the home office, located in Winston-Salem, at any time of the year.

TWO ARE ARRESTED HERE SATURDAY IN WELL BABY AFFAIR

Gladstone Carter and Mrs. Brown in Custody

RELEASED UNDER BOND

Will Face Hearing This Morning at Wilkesboro Before Magistrate

CHARGES ARE UNKNOWN

A preliminary hearing for Gladstone Carter and Mrs. Flake Brown, both of Elkin, is scheduled to be held before Magistrate A. S. Cassell at Wilkesboro this morning at 10 o'clock growing out of the discovery of a newly born baby in a Wilkes county well near here some months ago.

Carter and Mrs. Brown were arrested Saturday and placed under bond of $500 each. Carter is alleged to have been one of the men who was seen to throw a package into the well the night prior to the discovery of the tiny body the following morning. Mrs. Brown, who has been separated from her husband for sometime, is admittedly the mother of the child.

Officers learned a short time after the baby's lifeless body was found that Mrs. Brown was the mother, the child having been born dead in a Taylorsville hospital. Mrs. Brown claimed at the time that she turned the body over to her sister, Mrs. John Hudspeth, of Elkin, for burial in the family plot here, and that she did not know the baby had been disposed of by being tossed into a dry well. Mrs. Hudspeth was arrested at the time, but declined to throw any further light upon the case, later being dismissed after a hearing in Wilkesboro.

The exact charges against Mrs. Brown and Carter were not learned.

Goodbye Ranch

RENO, Nev. . . . Julian T. Bishop (above) isn't a cowboy . . . nor is it a ranch he's going to sell. It's a quail farm in North Carolina and Bishop, New York stock broker, says he will have to make good his pre-election statement to sell his American property if President Roosevelt were reelected. However, he's not going to leave the country. He's going to Nevada to live, he says.

WILKES ELECTION CASE UNSETTLED

Jurist Declines to Rule on Matter, Saying He Has No Authority

WILL CONTINUE FIGHT

The mandamus hearing in the Wilkes county election case ended briefly in Yadkinville Monday when Judge J. H. Clement, of Winston-Salem, ruled after a short argument, that he had no jurisdiction over the matter with the statement that the returns had been certified by the Wilkes county board of elections before proceedings were begun.

The contestants, Republicans who were defeated in the recent election, charged that D. B. Swearingen, now chairman of the board of commissioners of Wilkes county, and who was defeated by Leet Poplin by two votes, should have had a majority of nearly 100 instead of being defeated.

Although no evidence was presented, it was said the Republicans had with them affidavits by every Republican who voted in Rock Creek township, where the contention arose. The affidavits show, it was said, that 389 persons voted a straight Republican ticket. They also were said to show that enough Republicans voted for Swearingen to give him a vote of 441 whereas the election returns from that precinct only gave him 341, causing his defeat.

Following Judge Clement's decision that he had no authority in the matter, attorneys pressing the case stated that they will carry the matter to the high courts.

Expected Liquidation of WPA
London, Nov. 16. — U. S. Postmaster-General James A. Farley said today it was his "personal opinion" that the Roosevelt administration would liquidate the works progress administration as soon as business improvement reduced unemployment.

"As industry improves, providing additional employment," he said, "my personal opinion is that the administration, as quickly as it can, will turn the unemployed back to the states, towns and counties."

"There probably will be federal help, but I am satisfied that they will clean up the WPA as soon as they can."

Powell Succeeds Wade
Raleigh, Nov. 16. — Stacy Wilson Wade, North Carolina's secretary of state since 1933, resigned today to become administrator of the federal social security office here. Charles Powell, private secretary to Governor Ehringhaus, was appointed by the chief executive to fill Wade's unexpired term, which will end early in January when Thad Eure assumes the duties of office. Eure defeated Wade in the recent Democratic primary and subsequently was elected to the post.

FASCISTS HOLD ON TO GAINS DESPITE BITTER STRUGGLE

Airplanes Drop Bombs in Business Section

MADRID IS WAR TORN

Unestimated Number Killed in Two Raids by Fascist War Planes

CAMPUS IS WRECKED

Madrid, Nov. 17. — Government batteries tonight shelled University City in the northwestern section of Madrid where fascist insurgents stubbornly defended their positions.

The once beautiful campus of the modern university in a few hours become a crater pocked no mans' land, its spacious lawns and parks the newest battlefield of the bloody Spanish civil war which will be four months old Wednesday.

The roar of shot, shell and bomb rumbled over all Madrid today.

An unestimated number of the city's war-weary populace was killed in two raids by fascist warplanes from which bombs streaked down into the center of the city.

Government batteries directed a barrage against insurgent communication lines across the Manzanares river already forded by General Francisco Franco's advance units.

In mid-afternoon the leaders of Madrid's defense announced the fascist advance into the city had been checked.

But the fascists held their hard-won posts within Madrid's city limits. Into the stately buildings, many of them newly completed, in the university they straggled, mounting their machine guns in protected niches.

The Madrid government, while issuing manifestos that the city itself was not in immediate danger of being captured, warned that house - to - house fighting might occur soon.
