

IN WASHINGTON
WHAT IS TAKING PLACE BY

By Prof. R. Reynolds
UNITED STATES SENATOR

The next four months may prove to be one of the most eventful periods in the Seventy-fifth Congress. The legislation passed and the issues raised will certainly ly have a sweeping effect on the whole functions of the Federal Government. Few can predict anywhere near accurately what that effect will be.

Will the President's Supreme Court plan pass through opposition which, to say the least, is formidable? Will reorganization of the executive branch of the government, as recommended by the President, withstand objections raised, or will it survive? Will the new far proposals solve agricultural ills in the way proponents claim? Will the President's ideas for relief funds prevail or will the bloc seeking larger amounts win out?

Let me hasten to say that I cannot answer those questions. Weeks of committee studies, hearings, public sentiment and many other factors enter into the situation and must be considered before the answers are found. However, it may be said that the individual members of Congress, perhaps as never before, appreciate the grave significance of the questions and "behind the scenes"—in the quiet of offices and committee rooms—are giving all facts studied attention.

At the moment the Supreme Court proposal is far and away ahead of all other issues from the standpoint of importance and public interest. Throughout our whole history any suggestion affecting the nation's highest tribunal has brought a barrage of public statements. Fortunately, the radio offers a new form of discussion and, with the press, gives our people ample means of hearing and reading both sides of the question.

Whatever may be said, for or against the President's court plan, there should be kept in mind the fact that the Chief Executive was given a tremendous vote of confidence last November. The majority of our people tendered this vote of confidence. Therefore, any recommendation made by the President deserves to be weighed on its merits and given the acid test of "value to the public good," rather than be affected by snap judgment. The people, with their views reflected in Congress, will be the final arbiter. It is an axiom in political economy that the masses will, in the final analysis, find the correct answer to any question.

For the moment, the proposal for reorganization of the executive branches of the government is in the background. Directly, it may carry as much significance to our people as the Supreme Court plan, although it does not stand out near so high in public interest.

With regard to the agricultural problem, messages already sent to Congress by the President and reports of those yet to come indicate, that from the standpoint of agriculture generally the "ever-normal granary" idea—a plan for storage of surpluses in normal times to meet times of distress—and an effort to solve the far tenantry conditions will be the highlights. The latter plan may go so far as to include all rural citizens now suffering low standards of living.

In connection with these situations and problems, it seems unusually significant that the Congress should be considering grave constitutional questions in the same year we begin observance of the 150 anniversary of the constitution. It may be that the Seventy-fifth Congress may leave its footprints on the sands of time from the standpoint of constitutional action.

Therefore, these problems should be considered without hysteria, without swayed public opinion, and without political bias. What is best for our people? How can that best be attained? Those are the real questions as Congress comes from around the curves of organization and preliminaries and enters the gruelling speedway stretch of the next four months.

JUST STAND UP

"PAT" PATTON, oil-well fire-fighter, says: "I smoke Camels mighty often. They set me right." Yes, Camels are better for steady smoking.

CHAMPION PISTOL SHOT, Miss Arlayne Brown, says: "I'll say Camels don't get on my nerves. And I smoke them 'for digestion's sake' at mealtimes."

—for Digestion's sake—smoke Camels!

Beware The Cough
From a common cold
That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results. Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)
