

TODAY and TOMORROW

FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE

INTEREST 21 Years
 On the day I was born my grandfather put $100 in a savings bank to my credit. It was to become mine when I was 21. At that time Eastern savings banks paid 7 per-cent interest. My $100 accumulated at that rate, compounded annually, for nine years. Then the interest rate was cut to 6 percent and stayed there until I reached my majority.

A few days after my 21st birthday I drew a little more than $550 from the bank. My grandfather's gift had multiplied itself more than five times! That was my first practical lesson in the breeding power of money.

Nobody can make money at that rate today except by taking risks of loss. Most of the banks that used to pay 6 percent now pay 2½. A hundred dollars in a savings bank at that rate would grow to only $167.58 in 21 years. Money is cheaper than it ever has been in my lifetime—which is another way of saying that prices are higher.

Glee Club Is To Appear Here Soon account, especially in a "mutual" bank, such as those of New England, New York, Pennsylvania and some other states. No depositor in a mutual bank has lost a cent, I believe, in fifty years or more. And nobody makes a cent profit out of mutual savings bank deposits except the depositors.

There are more depositors in these banks now than ever before, with more money saved up, and the banks have more assets than ever. I've just seen the annual report of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks for the last year. They have nearly 14½ million depositors, with average deposits of $700 each. I call them our fourteen million smartest citizens.

Nobody gets rich quick putting money away in a savings bank, but nobody who does that goes broke quick, either.

TAXES you pay
 You and I and each of our children and grandchildren are paying $100 a year in taxes. The Twentieth Century Fund reports that is what the levy of Federal State and local governments upon every man, woman and child would come to if the tax burden were evenly distributed. The Federal Government takes 44 cents of each tax dollar, the states 20 cents and local governments 36 cents.

"But I don't pay any such amount of tax," you may say. Lots of folks think that taxes are paid only by the rich and the big corporations. But ask yourself where the people whose names are on the tax lists got the money to pay their taxes.

You and I pay them. The taxpayers can get their money for taxes only by selling things to you and me and all the rest. Every time you spend a nickel, the storekeeper or whoever takes your money, is an unofficial tax-collector. Your money pays his taxes the taxes of the people who make whatever you buy and the taxes of your landlord and all the other property-owners. Think that over.

WORDS meanings

In my work I have to be careful about the use of words. Like everyone else in the writing trade, it is important for me to be sure, not so much to use words which everybody understands as that the reader will understand the word to mean just what I intended it to mean. It's no literary crime to send readers to the dictionary; that's good for their intelligence. But when I write a word which in all my experience and by all the dictionaries means one thing, and find that its meaning has been changed in the public mind to mean something quite different, that's serious.

"Liberal" in its political sense. It used to mean in politics what it means in other relations—generous, tolerant, reasonable.

That old meaning seems to have been thrown away, and men call themselves Liberals today who are narrow-minded, intolerant and certainly not respectful of minorities and their rights.

DEVILS ?

It is human nature to believe that an evil spirit actuates everyone who does not agree with one. From that it is but a step to regarding such persons as devils, and the next step is to personify groups and classes of people as devils.

I have heard about the "Money Devil" ever since boyhood. The Money Devil was a collective term for all bankers and others who tried to collect their interest on their loans to farmers. The railroads were the pet devil for years of those who blamed them for their personal misfortunes. It is an easy way to shift responsibility, to blame everything that goes wrong on an imaginary devil.

JONESVILLE, R. 1

Rev. and Mrs. I. W. Vestal and son, Richard, attended the funeral of Arthur Swaim at Schoolfield Saturday. Mr. Swaim was born and reared in Yadkin county and lived here until 1918, when he moved to Virginia to reside.

Friends of Calvin Hemric will regret to know that his condition is much worse than for the past several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. John Hemric of Cycle, and Tom Ring and Mr. and Mrs. Thurmond Wall, of near Elkin, were guests of Mr. Hemric Sunday.

Miss Biddie Bryant is recovering nicely at a Statesville hospital, where she underwent a tonsil operation Monday.

L. R. Hutchins of this community, accompanied by J. C. Reins of North Wilkesboro, made a business trip to East Bend Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Norman and Mrs. Evan Hutchins of East Bend, were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Hutchins last week.

JR. O. U. A. M.

Regular meeting of Elkin Council No. 98 Jr. O. U. A. M. will be held every Friday night, 7:30 p. m. All members are requested to be present.

NAPHTHALENE MAGGOT CHECK

Small Maggots Found in Many North Carolina Tobacco Seed Beds

BREED IN MILD WEATHER

Small maggots have been found in many North Carolina tobacco seed beds this season.

They are the young, or larval stage, of a midge that looks like a gnat or a very small mosquito, said Dr. B. B. Fulton, research entomologist at State College.

These maggots attacked plant beds in the spring of 1933, but were not found again in appreciable numbers until this year, he added.

Mild winters seem to aid their breeding.

In 1933 it was found that naphthalene flakes scattered under the seed bed cloth at the rate of one and a half pounds to 100 square yards would kill the maggots.

Naphthalene, a chemical by-product of coal tar and inexpensive to buy, gives the best form of controlling the maggots, Dr. Fulton continued.

Tobacco growers who wish to treat their beds should buy the material under the name naphthalene flakes, which is the chemical name, and is not patented, he said.

If it is offered under some other name, the buyer should find out what proportion of the product is naphthalene, and determine whether he is paying more for it that way than he would be by purchasing the naphthalene in its regular form.

Dr. Fulton said the midge maggots are harmful only to very small seedlings, and then only when the maggots are numerous enough to powder the surface of the soil.

SWAN CREEK

The meetings both Saturday and Sunday were well attended. Rev. J. B. Ray delivered interesting sermons at both services. There were 139 present for Sunday school last Sunday.

Frank Myers is slightly improved from an illness which has kept him confined to his home for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pinnix and children of the Swaim's community and Mr. and Mrs. Miles Dobbins spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Saul Pinnix.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stroud and children of Ronda, were the guests over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sparks.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Swaim and daughters, Evelyn and Grace, visited Mrs. Swaim's sister, Mrs. Luther Gray, at Denneysville, Sunday. Friends of Mrs. Gray will regret to know that she is confined to her home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Couch visited Mr. and Mrs. Herman Swaim at Crutchfield last Sunday.

Members of the Swan Creek choir attended the singing convention at North Elkin school last week.

Miss Annabelle Cooter is a patient in Hugh Chatham Memorial hospital, Elkin, her friends will regret to know.

Mrs. DeEtte Morrison and small daughter of Jonesville, are spending sometime in this community, visiting relatives.

Mrs. Glenn Swaim and children of Ronda, were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Myers.

PLEASANT HILL

We had a large number present at Sunday school last Sunday. D. W. Day, superintendent of the Sunday school, gave some interesting information on the lesson.

The Happy Day Quartette sang at Cool Springs church last Sunday night.

We had an interesting prayer service at the church last Sunday night, conducted by George Couch. One of the quartets sang a number of songs. The service next Sunday night will be in charge of D. E. Broome, principal of the school. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Value of the 210,924 church edifices in the United States is placed at $3,839,500,610.
