DIONNE QUINTS HAVE BIG INCOME

Is Reported at Around $21,000 a Year; Are Worth About $500,000

ARE WARDS OF KING

The business of raising quintuplets is not such a bad business. The five little Dionne girls that weighed collectively ten pounds and one and a quarter ounces at the time of their premature birth, May 28, 1935, a year later weighed collectively eighty-five pounds. News Week states that in three months the "quints," as it calls them, made $150,000.

The quintuplets, Emilie, Annette, Cecile, Yvonne and Marie, have in their name a trust fund of $175,000 received from firms and advertising, photographs, etc., and which they are to share when they come of age.

The children are wards of the king until they are 18; they live in a hospital with their nurses, two constables, a housekeeper and an orderly, and are under the care of their physician, a retired judge, and their father, ten persons altogether. The hospital, specially built, has eight rooms.

Breakfast is of milk and tomato juice; an hour later, orange juice and cod liver oil; another hour later, coddled egg, milk and biscuits. Lunch consists of strained vegetables, baked apple, prunes, bananas or apple sauce; supper is of cereal and milk. They are out of doors from 9:00 to 12:30, also for a time in the afternoon. Most of the supplies come free.

At one year old they looked exactly alike; all mouths then had two teeth, except one, which had but one. The family had a new car. Neighbors were opening hot-dog stands. The road to the house had been paved.

At seventeen months of age the quintuplets received $50,000 for standing, sitting and talking in front of moving picture cameras for 150 minutes; and were then worth over $250,000.

At their second birthday the quintuplets were calculated to be worth $450,000. Expenses are about $1,000 a month for nurses. The income is from motion picture contracts and endorsements of food given in their behalf.

At last reports, the quintuplets were worth $500,000 in cash and government securities, and their annual income is not less than $21,000. The quintuplets are the first ever to have lived more than a few hours.

MAKES REPORT ON PROBABLE ACREAGE

Purpose Is to Assist Growers Generally in Making Changes in Plans

POTATOES SLIGHTLY UP

The crop reporting board of the department of agriculture at Washington made a report recently on the indicated acreage for harvest in 1937 of certain crops, based upon reports from farmers in all parts of the country to the department on or about March 1 regarding their acreage intentions for the 1937 season.

The purpose of this report is to assist growers generally in making such further changes in their acreage plans as may appear desirable.

Plans with regard to sweet potatoes are not very definite this early in the season, but they show a nominal decrease of 2 per cent.

The intended increase in tobacco acreage is reported to be 15 per cent, with much larger increases in certain types that are most in demand. With this increase the total tobacco acreage would still be about 10 per cent below the 1928-32 average.

Flue cured tobacco growers intend to increase the acreage of this class of tobacco about 10 per cent above that harvested in 1936. This increase would result in an area of 967,800 acres, which would still be about 2 per cent less than the five year (1928-32) average and about 15 per cent less than the record acreage grown in 1930.

Burley growers intend to increase the acreage of this type of tobacco about 31 per cent above the 1936 acreage. Even with this increase, however, the 1937 burley acreage would be about 5 per cent below the five year (1928-32) average, and 19 per cent below the record acreage grown in 1931.

Reports from growers indicate a prospective total acreage of peanuts for all purposes of 2,098,000 acres, exclusive of those grown with corn and other crops. The intended acreage, largest on record is 2 per cent higher than the acreage grown alone last year and compares with a five year (1928-32) average of 1,702,000 acres.

The indicated increase is 4.5 per cent of the four states, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, and Alabama, which had 75 per cent of the acreage harvested for nuts in the United States in 1936.
