

NEW HAIR ON ANY PATE
It is with considerable pride that we, on the eve of Elkin's second Amateur Show, announce the perfection of the Browning Hydro-Electric Hair Growing Machine, which will be demonstrated for the first time on the stage of the Lyric theatre tomorrow night (Friday), as a feature of the Amateur Show.

It is necessary, in order to demonstrate this wonderful machine, that some bald Elkin man will come up on the stage. Whoever volunteers will be rewarded with a growth of hair guaranteed not to be less than six inches in length, and any color he may desire—if the new invention works. If it doesn't, the volunteer won't have need of any hair one way or another.

Acting on the principle that intense cultivation, plus a hydro-electric bombardment of the atoms of the hair roots will instantly galvanize any hair root to the least bit interested in science attend the amateur show, if only to see the hair growing machine. And it is especially urged that bald-headed men come early and sit on the front row. That is, if they wish to be demonstrated upon.

Aside from the hair-growing machine and the marvel of the age, "Mekko," the Mechanical Man, which will also be shown upon the stage, an excellent program will be on tap, featuring the best amateur talent available from Surry, Wilkes and Yadkin counties, in addition to a number of comedy acts that are bound to be good. If they are not, then we have had our hair turn grey for nothing.

As yet we, as master of ceremonies and the fellow who has got to do all the worrying tomorrow night, are unable to announce whether our Uncle Culpepper will be present. It all depends whether or not his sentence has expired, for with the exception of a postcard bearing the notation "1-cent due," which we received a couple of weeks ago, we haven't heard from him. Uncle Culpepper is not as young as he once was, and besides, he sort of hates to leave his hogs.

Speaking of "Mekko," the Mechanical Man, there are numerous people hereabouts who scoff and question the appearance of any such contraption. Some seem to think that Mekko will turn out to be a person who, by walking with jerky movements, will give the impression of being mechanical. However, this is not the fact, for Mekko, while roughly resembling the human form, is a man-made man, given life by electricity.

To see Mekko is to believe. One look, and anyone with a grain of gumption will instantly realize that no human being, no matter how great his control of muscle, or how good an actor, could ever impersonate such a mechanical marvel. If Mekko isn't as represented do you think we could afford to give so much publicity to him? Of course not. Tsk. Tsk.

Winners of the Amateur Contest will go to Charlotte Sunday for a broadcast from WBT beginning at 1:15 and ending at 1:30 p. m., a total of 15 minutes. At Greensboro last fall the amateurs were allotted 30 minutes, which proved just twice as much time as we needed to complete the program. You can take it from us that 15 minutes, when passing before a microphone, is a heck of a long time!

HIGH FLIERS
Through the courtesy of Ab Somers, of Elkin Motors, Inc., Hugh Royall, Wilbur Carter, Harvey Laffoon and us went to Coolceee last Friday and flew from there to Elkin in the large trimotor Ford plane that was here over the week-end. Mr. Somers also went along, although flying to him is old stuff, he being a licensed pilot in his own right.

The boss (Mr. Laffoon), had never been up before—that is, up in a plane (we frequently get him "up in the air")—and we were quite interested in his reaction to soaring along a thousand or so feet above the earth, especially just after that terrible disaster which occurred at Lakehurst. However, he got along just fine, although he did remark that he thought it a little reckless on the part of the pilot not to have gotten out and inspected the landing field on the Brooks Cross Roads highway before setting the big ship down there.

Hugh Royall, who had been up before "but not in ten years"—appeared to enjoy his trip immensely after he had succeeded in puffing a cigar, which he lighted and puffed on industriously until we landed. However, he did express his displeasure at the way Wilbur Carter ran up and down the aisle of the cabin, going from one window to another, because he was afraid Wilbur would get the ship off balance.

Ab Somers, to make the trip more pleasant for us all, regaled us with stories of airplane crack-ups; of the agonies of air sickness, and the like. He was a real comfort.

As for us, we just sat there and looked out the window and noticed just how far away the ground was from the right landing wheel, suspended there in space. And we also wondered, the way the others were gassing, if there was any possible danger of an explosion such as destroyed the German Hindenburg, which was also caused by escaping gas.

But all in all it was a very pleasant trip, although a wee bit bumpy in places, the ship having a tendency to drop out from under one every now and then, but always catching itself before it was too late. And we couldn't help admire the ease in which Captain Gilmour, the pilot, landed the big metal bird, setting it down as gently as a soap bubble coming to rest on a velvet carpet.

Nice to have seen you.
