Sarah Atkinson
By HERBERT GRAHAM, JR.
I will miss her. She was my friend. A cheery greeting, a sincere smile, that was her trademark. She turned the sunny side out regardless of the weather. Sarah had a definite place with all of us, in church, school or recreation hours. She was a mainstay on a basket ball team, a difficult opponent on the tennis court and an excellent swimmer. I knew her as one who played the game—joyful winner, good natured loser. It was Sarah who planned and managed our picnics at Carter's Falls or camping trips to Shady Shack. In her classes she stood high, but in the minds of us who knew her, she was paramount.

PLACE HUGE PIPE UNDER EAST MAIN

48-inch Culvert Put Under Paved Street 14 Feet Beneath Surface

BY HIGHWAY FORCES

Local state highway forces, faced with what to the layman would be the almost superhuman task of putting a metal culvert 48 inches in diameter under a concrete street without tearing into the surface of the street, accomplished the task the latter part of last week in short order, completing the job in one day.

The culvert in question was placed under East Main Street near the home of Alex Chatham, at a depth of 14 feet below the street level. Traffic was not inconvenienced a moment during the entire job.

In order to tunnel under the street, the following procedure was used: first a huge ditch was dug on the north side of the street to the level desired. Then the huge culvert was placed in position with one end against the earth where the tunnel was to be started. Inside this large iron pipe, three men worked, one to dig, one to shovel the dirt into a wheelbarrow, and the third to push the wheelbarrow the length of the pipe and out the opposite end.

According to T. A. Leeper, district engineer, when the men working in the end of the pipe had tunneled out about two feet, a large, 50-ton jack was placed against the opposite end of the pipe and it was pushed into the hole. This process was repeated over and over, the men in the pipe tailoring the hole to exactly fit. The job—begun early in the morning—was completed by night.

BROADCAST CHANGED TO LEGION STADIUM

Charlotte, N. C., May 26 — In response to a tremendous demand for tickets which had exhausted the big Army Auditorium in three days, Professor Quiz, who is scheduled to make a personal appearance in a nationwide radio broadcast in that structure on Saturday evening, May 29 at 7 o'clock, has agreed to make his appearance in the American Legion Stadium instead. The stadium has a seating capacity of more than 15,000 as compared with the auditorium's 5,000 seats, and it now appears that almost anyone who desires to see and hear his favorite among national entertainers will be able to secure a seat.

Professor Quiz is being brought to Charlotte by the Nash-Kelvinator corporation and tickets for the performance may be secured at any office of the Duke Power Company. The contestants for the two prizes awarded by Professor Quiz at each appearance will be selected from applicants from Piedmont Carolinas. Application blanks may be had by those who desire to compete at any Duke Power Office. These blanks will have to be in Charlotte not later than Friday morning, May 28. Professor Quiz himself selects the contestants from among the applications which he receives.

Admission to most seats in the stadium will be by the tickets which may be had at any Duke Power office, but there will be some sections available for those without tickets. A section will also be reserved for colored people.

HOMECOMING DAY AT HUNTING CREEK CHURCH
