

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR WINSTON FAIR

Anticipate Interesting and Comprehensive Display of Farm Products

CATALOG IS NOW READY

With prospects bright for bumper crops in most sections of the Winston-Salem territory the management of the Winston-Salem and Forsyth County Fair anticipates the most interesting and comprehensive display of farm products ever shown in North Carolina. To that end every available inch of space is being allotted to those who wish to compete for the splendid premiums being offered in every class.

Last year tobacco was added to the list of farm products for which cash premiums were offered and this year the display is expected to be far better than last. Every type of tobacco grown in this section will be shown and the finest specimens from each of the many large tobacco farms hereabouts will compete for the premium money.

The new 1937 catalogue, listing the hundreds of products for which cash money is paid for best displays during fair week, can be obtained from the county farm agents or direct from the fair association in Winston-Salem. Hundreds of copies were mailed to exhibitors of previous years and others known to be interested, but all who wish to compete are urged to secure their copy.

The management of the fair is rapidly completing the personnel of helpers who will supervise the various exhibits and otherwise aid in promoting North Carolina's finest agricultural fair. Competent judges will be engaged to view and classify the various exhibits, the animals and the products of the farm. In every way this will be conducted truly as an agricultural exhibit and emphasis will be laid on the exhibit buildings. The entertainment of the public will not be overlooked, of course, but it is the intention of the fair management to make the 1937 event, to be held during the week of October 5th to 9th, a truly educational affair.

Announcement will be made very shortly of the judges in the various contests.

HAYES & SPEAS REDUCE STOCK BY 25 PER CENT

Planning to re-paint and redecorate their large store, Hayes & Speas Furniture Co., of this city, is announcing in this issue of The Tribune a reduction of 25 per cent for cash on their entire stock of furniture and home furnishings.

This big reduction event is now under way and will continue until 6:00 p. m. Monday, August 16th.

According to the management of the store, the 25 per cent reduction is being made in order to sell as much furniture as possible before the task of painting is begun, inasmuch as every piece of furniture will have to be moved out of the way, and will be liable to damage from paint or handling.

Customers wishing to buy on the store's easy payment plan will also be given a reduction during the event, it was said.

Growers Pleased With Weed Prices On Border Market

Governor Clyde R. Hoey, of North Carolina, visited the Lumberton and Whiteville markets and spoke to the assembled throngs, including auctioneers, warehousemen, buyers, growers and spectators.

He commented that the outlook for fair prices was promising and said, "from a hasty inspection and judging from the estimate of experienced tobacco men, the farmers of this section are engaged in harvesting the best tobacco crop grown in recent years in both quality and quantity."

The Mullins, S. C., market, largest in South Carolina, opened with an estimated 1,500,000 pounds on hand. Despite a heavy morning rain, crowds attended the sales. Prices ranged from $6 to $85 a hundred and officials estimated the day's average would be around $25.

A drizzle at Lumberton apparently failed to dampen spirits and R. C. Rankin, sales supervisor, said prices for the day would average $24 to $26 a hundred compared to opening day average last year of $11.72.

Speaking from a bandstand in an open park at Lumberton, Governor Hoey expressed the hope that prices would be "reasonable and fair."

Prices for the first sales at Dillon, S. C., brought $6 to $39 a hundred, with the average estimated at $25 to $27 for the day.

Greensboro Firm Gets Job On Main Bid Of $51,075.00

089 and alternate of $2,618, and $1,867, making a total of $55,574. Reconsideration of possible costs involved in constructing the building, however, and of expenses incident to construction, caused officials to abandon the idea of extensive use of local granite. This decision was made by Leroy F. Barton, special assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and supervising architect L. A. Simon.

As matters now stand, about $24,000 will be available to cover the cost of the site property, the business of construction, and of the various minor contracts such as screens, furniture, lock boxes and landscaping. In a building costing $70,000 to $80,000, this is plenty of margin for incidental costs, officials agree. Gallimore's bid was the lowest of nine submitted. He has been given 210 calendar days in which to complete the work, and this period will extend from the date of notice to proceed, expected to be issued within a month. Gallimore has been asked to execute a formal contract and submit two bonds within fifteen days. The bonds, each for $25,600, will guarantee construction of the building according to Federal plans and specifications and proper payment of labor and building material dealers.
