They were very favorably impressed with the progress in their home state during their absence.

SOCIETY.

Miss Masten is Bride of Vance Byrd

Characterized by dignity and quiet simplicity was the marriage Sunday afternoon at two o'clock of Miss Maude Reece Masten and Vance Byrd. The marriage was solemnized at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Eph Whisenhunt on Church street, with Rev. Whisenhunt officiating, using the ring ceremony. Only a few close friends witnessed the ceremony.

An improvised altar was arranged in the living room. The altar was banked with fern and dahlias, in autumn hues, and flanked with long white tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. Eph Whisenhunt played the wedding music, using "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin as a processional and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," as a recessional. Little Edith Adair Whisenhunt, flower girl, was the only attendant. She was lovely in a soft dress of pink and white.

For her wedding the bride wore a handsome two-piece dress of navy silk whipcord, trimmed at the neck with white braid, and accessories of navy and a shoulder bouquet of Talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Byrd is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Masten of this city and was graduated from the city schools with the class of '33. She is popular with a host of friends and is active in religious circles. For several months she has been employed at McDaniel's department store.

Mr. Byrd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Byrd of Ronda, and is a graduate of Ronda high school. For several years he has made his home here where he is connected with Sydner-Spauhour company.

Following a brief honeymoon to Eastern North Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. Byrd will be at home at an apartment in the home of Mrs. Ora Wall Vanhoy on Elk Spur street.
