equipment being added to much new equipment purchased during the last two years. Only modern methods are employed and customers who patronize the White Swan are assured of absolute cleanliness. All clothes are sterilized in the laundry process.

The dry cleaning department, in the hands of experienced dry cleaners and pressers, is located in the front of the building, occupying a large, well lighted and ventilated room on the right side. Dry cleaning equipment is modern throughout and satisfactory service, on a par with that to be found anywhere, is guaranteed.

The new plant, with its larger facilities, in addition to providing a completely satisfactory laundry service insofar as the actual cleaning of clothes is concerned, will also mean quicker service for its customers.

Beginning modestly when the business was purchased here several years ago by Wilbur and Roger Carter, the business has shown a steady growth, making a large new plant a necessity. And it is this new plant, in every detail, that the management invites the people of this section to see Friday.
