WHAT IS TAKING PLACE BY

UNITED STATES SENATOR

Editor's Note—Senator Reynolds' column for this week was written at John Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where the Senator is undergoing treatment to find the cause of trouble affecting his hearing.

The legislative snarl of the first week of the special session of Congress indicate that members of both Houses have benefited from their own surveys of conditions "back home" and are determined to see that new legislation is in accord with national needs.

This is reflected in the growing pressure for tax relief for business, particularly small businesses that find it difficult to compete with monopolies; in the desire to draft a farm program that is workable and not just designed to satisfy the demand that something be done, and in the effort to avoid new government boards and commissions.

Aside from farm legislation, the tax situation is one of the most important problems confronting Congress. It is an open secret that the Congressional Committees are daily finding evidence that taxes are definitely retarding full business and industrial recovery and are determined to bring in a bill for tax revision that will be more equitable than the existing law. If the pressure for action continues, it may come at the special session, although the program calls for tax legislation at the regular session.

As soon as the farm bill is reported, probably by the time this column is printed, every effort to speed it along will be made in both Houses. It now seems certain that the members of Congress have a better picture of farm needs and are hopeful that they can be met through a well-planned law that will stand the test of time.

What will be done about the wage and hour bill is problematic. The "behind the scenes" activities in the House, where the measure is a live issue, indicate that the bill finally reported will be more favorable to the South and free from too drastic Federal control. Some believe that the law should set standards for wages and hours, leaving it to the Justice Department to enforce, rather than to set-up elaborate and separate enforcement machinery.

Another important legislative program is the Federal reorganization bill. It may prove to be one of the real controversial measures to be handled during the special session. At the moment it seems certain that the Congress will retain full control of independent offices and commissions now responsible to the legislative branch of the government. However, much groundwork must be done before any reorganization bill is finally acted upon.

To again mention farm legislation, there is much hope that early enactment of a program for agriculture will have a beneficial effect on business and industry, certainly from the standpoint of stimulating buying. It is highly important that business and industry have a better idea of available markets and that those who comprise the markets be better able to buy. Thus the farmer must have an idea of what he will get for his products, with some assurance that they can be sold, before he can maintain his status in what business and industry terms as "markets."

To put it another way, the Congress seems definitely of the mind that the farmer is entitled to a better share of the "larger life" as we term our economic progress, and that the prosperity of agriculture is an essential base for improved conditions in all spheres of our economic life.

"WOMANLESS WEDDING" HERE PROVES SUCCESS

The "Womanless Wedding" presented Friday evening by the Parent-Teacher Association, under the direction of Mrs. E. F. McNeer, was a decided success, both from a standpoint of entertainment and financially.

Members of the association are deeply grateful to the men of the town for their splendid cooperation in presenting the play.

113 LOSE LIVES ON CAROLINA ROADS

Death Toll 2 Less Than In September; Year's Total Is Higher

Raleigh, November 22. — Automobile wrecks in North Carolina last month killed 113 persons—two less than in September and one less than in October, 1936.

However, the month's total brought to 887 the number of highway fatalities so far in 1937, compared with 803 for the same period last year, the Highway Safety Division reported today.

A total of 815 persons was injured in 858 accidents last month, compared with 689 injuries in 626 wrecks in September.

Thirty-three persons were killed in October in automobile collisions, four in collisions with horse-drawn vehicles, six with trains, six with fixed objects and two with bicycles.

Thirty-eight pedestrians were killed and 114 injured, and there were five fatalities among children playing in streets. Non-collision accidents claimed 24 lives. Walking on the road was blamed for 11 fatalities, drunken driving for seven, reckless driving for 15, speeding for 21, hit-and-run drivers for 11, and speeding on curves for 19.

Six drunken pedestrians were fatally injured. Fifty-one fatal accidents occurred on straight roads and four at straight intersections.

Most dangerous time of day was between 6 and 8 o'clock p. m. when there were 17 fatal accidents. The worst day was Sunday, when 26 fatalities occurred. Saturday was second with 25.
