Barn Dance Honors Newlyweds and Bride and Bridgroom Elect

"BETCHA-A-MILLION" NOW HAS ONLY $1.20

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—Gus Oliva, who had $4,600,000 eight years ago, came to town today with $1.20 in his pockets and a patch on his pants.

One year the former newspaper carrier paid the government a quarter of a million in taxes on a fortune he reaped in the stock market. He donated thousands to charity. He spent other thousands to furnish his Russian Hill apartment in a rivalry with Templeton Crooked, multi-millionaire. Some say he bet $100,000 on a California-Stanford football game.

Then bad investments cleaned him.

Now he faces a grand theft charge in Los Angeles. Gus says the charge is false, that he put up a $1,700 ring as security on a loan but somehow a cheap ring showed up in its place. On December 13, friends of "Betcha-a-Million" Gus will give a testimonial entertainment to finance his defense.

Crisis At No. 10

Confronted by a series of grave incidents in Europe and Asia, England's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain (above) faces growing opposition for alleged deal with Hitler promising a free hand in Eastern Europe in exchange for pledge of Reich withdrawal in Spain; for reported negotiations with Rebel General Franco to restore the Spanish monarchy; and for failure to prevent Japanese highland actions in military and civil occupation of Shanghai.

HOGS SHOULD BE KILLED COOL DAY

Present Time is the Best Time, Expert at N. C. State College Points Out

SUGGESTIONS ARE MADE

"Hog-killing time. How this expression stirs the activity of the farm family as cold weather arrives!"

"It means plenty of hard work, but it also means fresh pork, sausage, spare ribs, liver pudding, cracklin' corn bread — filling the smoke-house," said Prof. R. E. Nance, of State College.

A moderately cool day, with the weather above freezing, is better than a bitter cold day for hog-killing, he continued.

Stop feeding the hogs 24 hours before they are to be slaughtered. It is easier to clean and dress the carcass when the digestive tract is empty. And when the system is not gorged with food, the blood will drain out more readily.

carcass when the digestive tract is imals before killing. Getting the hog wrought-up produces a feverish condition that prevents proper bleeding and causes the meat to sour while in cure.

For scalding the carcass, Professor Nance said that water at a temperature of 150 degrees is best. In cold weather, add a bucket of cold water to half a barrel of boiling water, and this will give about the right temperature.

Or dip the finger into the water quickly. If it burns severely the first time, it is too hot. But if the finger can be dipped in three times in quick succession, with the water burning severely the third time, the temperature is about right.

A vat sunk into the ground beside a platform close to the ground level provides a convenient place to scald the carcass and scrape off the hair.

Tools that will aid in dressing the carcass are: A common six or eight-inch butcher knife, a six-inch skinning knife, a smooth steel for sharpening knives, several hog gambrel sticks, two bell shaped hog scrapers and a 28-inch meat saw.

LONDON IS COMING OUT OF HEAVY FOG

London, Nov. 27.—Millions of Britons breathed moderately fresh air again tonight after three choking days of a fog that was blamed for the loss of 12 lives.

Before the fog—one of the heaviest in London's history—lifted, the thick soupy gloom had "blacked out" half of England, cutting visibility in many places to a scant two yards.

There were scores of accidents as pedestrians made torches of newspapers to guide their way along the street. Ofttimes they formed chains as they groped along the sidewalks.

Buses ran behind schedule, or quit altogether. Trains generally were late. Automobiles were conveyed by flares.
