PRONOUNCED A SUCCESS.

The State Fair Closed Saturday-Big

Crowds Attended Each Day. The happy and handsome North Carolina folks have had their annual re-union and renewed acquantances around a great and creditable display of the products of North Carolina's industrial men and enterprises. These good people have journeyed to their capital city, received and duly appreciated its generous and bospitable welcome, passed friendly and some-times even holier greetings with each other. Hearts and hands have been clasped together and a week has been filled to overflowing with genuine enjoyment. The weather was most propitious, and the soft glow of a gentle antumn sun added greater luster to the gorgeous apparel of the charming matrons and maidens.

It was all beautiful sunshine until parting time came when just about the time the crowd began breaking up and the exhibitors began packing away their exhibits, the sun which had shed its rays so bountifully and usparingly upon the gala occasion, hid itself behind dreary looking clouds and just as the God-bless you's were about to be said it began to rain, and it seemed that the clouds were furnishing the tears for the sad farewells.

Frank Stanton, of the Atlanta Constitution, recently sang an ode to the handsome colonel from Battery Park on his visit to Atlanta. It has been as frue of his visit to Releigh than it was in Atlanta. So we beg leave to appropriate it-verbatim:

"When Ed. McKissick came totown the bands when Ed. McKissick came to town the bands began to play.

And "Dixie" went a-rolling o'er the moun-tains far away.

And thered stripes of "Old Glory" waved in splendor up and down

From the very highest story when McKissick came to town!

When Ed, McKissick came to town the stars When Ed. McKissick came to town the stars in welcome smiled; The engines—they went whistling an' the ste-ple bells went wild! And there resethree cheers from Dixie, which no noisy bells could drown. And the big balloons went skyward when Mc-Kissick came to town!

He was welcome on the mountains-he was welcome on the plain.

His smile a benediction in the sunlight and the rain;

And the flags waved from each steple, and
the skies—they ceased to frown,
And a shout rose from the people when McKisslek came to town! All in all the State Fair was one of the grandest in the history of the Association, and they promise that the next shall be equally as good in every respect.

North Carolina Skins and Furs. There was a time when skins of coons, deers, bear, etc., were the medium of exchange (the currency) in this State, just as berbs are now in remote sections. But we have long ago lost sight of the skin and for industry, and left it to the Indians of Manitoba. the Northwest and to Alaska or to the Esquimaux. Imagine our surprise when we were told that the only fur works (we do not know if a more technical name is current) in the South are in North Carolina, in Hyde county. We saw the product, too, beautiful coon, possum, mirk otta, muskrat fors perfectly cured and well finished. The proprietor told us that the people laughed at him in the beginning, but that they were trapping for him now. He himself catches about four hundred animals a season, and he can buy many more. And yet there are people who cannot make a living, even when herbs have only to be gotten out of the ground or wild animals caught in a trap. If one cannot get along in North Carolina he need not go else-

William Koopsman, near Kokomo, Ind. imagines that he has turned into an animal, A week ago he cast off all his clothing and A week are he cast off all his clothing and went about his farm entirely nude under the belief that his body would soon be covered with a growth of hair as a protection against the weather. In this condition he stayed on the roof of the house several nights to avoid capture, sitting on the chimney occasionally to break the force of the cold, frosty night air. Koonsman was finally taken into castody, but he successfully resisted every effort to dress him. He was put in an iron cage in the jail, where he climbed and ran around the bars like a monkey. He has been taken to the asylum.

BIG CROP OF APPLES.

The Aggregate Yield a Shade Under 59,-090,000 Barrels.

Throughout the States of chief commercial productica, including New England and New York, the crop of winter apples is large. A special report places the aggregate yield at a shade under 59,000,000 barrels for all of the United States, against 60,500,000 barrels in 1895 and 57,000,000 barrels two years ago. This authority says that the crop in New England, New York, Michigan and parts of a few other States is phenomenal. New England and New York alone have over 16,000,000 barrels, against little more than 7,000,000 a year ago, while Michigan is harvesting the greatest crop of fine fruit ever secured in that State. The report covering the Central West, however, shows that in many instances the crop is insufficient to supply home requirements. The Canada crop is among the inreset on record. Exports from the Atlantic Coast are already 1,000,000 barrels, or a third more than all of last season, and the foreign markets have a capacity for absorbing further wast quantities before A special report places the aggregate yield absorbing further vast quantities before spring.

year-old granddaughter, Fannie Palmer, were kilied, and William E. Hahn, a friend, and Miss Deborah, Dr. Palmer's daughter, were injured on a grade crossing of the Atlantic Highlands division of the Central Railroad of New Jemery at Keansburg. Mr. Hahn's injuries, it was thought, might result fatally, but Miss Deborah Palmer, who is only bruised about the hips, will recover.

The accident occurred a few minutes after 8 o'clock a. m. Dr. Palmer, who was the owner of considerable property in that vicinity, intended to drive to a dwelling house owned by him just north of the village, where repairs were in progress. He had in the wagon several utensils commonly used by house decorators in their work and a quantity of paint, which was placed under the seats. In the front of the wagon sat Dr. Palmer and his granddaughter. Miss Deborah Palmer occupied the reer seat with Mr. Hahn, who lives at Atlantic City, but has been visiting the Palmers for several days. Ho is an engineer on the West Jersey Railroad. The rendway leading from Dr. Palmer's house to the grade crossing is rather winding, and at the freight station here is a sharp turn to the right, just before crossing the track. The station hides from view all approaching trains from the south. It was just time for the 8.26 train from Atlantic Highlands, and apparently without any warning it came upon them as they turned the corner of the freight station, striking the rear end of the wagon with terrific force, kneeking it fully a hundred feet and hurling the occupants out with great violence. W. W. Ramsay, the station agent, heard the crash, and went at once to aid the injured. It was sound that Dr. Palmer had sustained a fractured skull, bis head having struck the sharp corner of a railroad ite. His right foot had been cut off by the train. He was otherwise badly bruised and lacerated. Miss Fannic Palmer's daughter, was taken to her home suffering principally from shock.

Dr. Palmer was sixty-seven years old, and went to Keansburgh about forty years ago from Keyport
