BILL ARP'S LETTER.

MONEY AND NERVE ARE IDEN-TICAL IN THEIR EFFECTS.

Plenty of "Fithy Lucre," But it is Not Circulating Freely.

The doctors tell us that paralysis is the loss of the function of motion from interruption of nervous influence. Trade, commerce and industrial pursuits have nerves, too, but they seem to be paralyzed. The spinal marrow is diseased and muscular power has be-come staguant. What has caused this unnatural condition we know not with may certainty, for the political doctors disagree, but it is believed by many that it is owing to the lack of circula-tion of the blood—that is of money, and that the demonstization of silver is at the bottom of it. Whatever it is, the patient is in a bad fix. The other day I rode out with a lady friend in the suburbs of Atlanta to look at some of the cottage homes. She wanted to buy a home for herself, and we spent parts of three days in examining and pricing properties. There were hun-dreds of them and they were cheap enough, but what struck me was that a building and loan company had more for sale than anybody. This company had leaned money four and five years ago to improve suburban lots. They loaned not exceeding one-half the value of the vacant lot and have had to forcelose their mortgages because the borrower could no longer pay the interest, and so they bid in the property and have held it, ping to get their money back, but they can't and are now seeking buyers at less than the property cost them, and in some cases less than the original loan. A lot that four or five years ago was worth $1,000 and has on it a house that cost $600 or $800 is offered for $1,200, and perhaps $1,000 would buy it. The company can stand it, but what has become of the poor fellow and his family, I know not. They had hopes and were looking forward to the time when their humble home would be paid for, but this paralisys evertook them and swept their home in Cartersville. A year later he bought it for $800, and now he could not get $500 for it if he washed to sell. Is it any wonder that the people have lost confidence and are willing to make any change that is offered? The patient is awful sick and will even take strychnine if it is prescribed. But the long agony is nearly over and we shall see what we shall see. The people are ready for the ballot and the ballot will settle the nation's will. It is the masses against the classes-the same old story, "And David fled from Saul to the cause of Adulium and all who were discontented or in debt or distress joined him a king, but in course of time they were victorious. But I don't believe that capital is as much alarmed as it was a month ago. The banks have hedged and are-prepared for the change if any comes. Certain it is there will be no collapse if Bryan is elected and there will be no relief if McKinley is. This government can't be ruined by a change of rulers. The civil war cleaned up the south pretty well, but in ten years it had railied and in fifteen years hardly a trace of the war could be found. Then let us not be alarmed at the situation. If Me-Kinley is elected and a Republican congress, and something is not done to relieve the people they will be ignominiously buried from power lots years hence. Distress and discontent are growing things. While capital is the time concentrating to the few, debt and discontent is sprending to the many. Capital will not turn a wheel as long as it can be loaned on mortgages at a good per eent. A few months ago rome of our public spirited citizens determined to

The solution arrived at will enable each side to claim a victory. Lord Salisbury can justly say he succeeded in protecting the rights of the British settlers, and Mr. Olney can claim with literal truth that he succeeded in bringing Great Britain to consent to arbitration.

The Post says that the settlement of the Venezuelan dispute is wholly satisfactory to Great Britain and the United States.

The Daily Graphic holds that the solution to the vexatious question reflects the hichest credit upon all concerned. It fully justifies the intervention of the United States.

Last Saturday National Chairman Butler, of the People's party, gave out the following: To the people of the United States: "In the remarkable campaign jug clo the People's party was the only party that supported solidly and unitedly the great issues represented in the candidacy of Mr. Bryan. The United States Battleship.

The United States second-class battleship texas sank at the Cob dook in the Brooklyn Navy Yard at 6 n. m., a few days ago. She lies in twenty-five feet of water, and there are nine feet of water in her lower compariments aft and four and a half feet forward, and it constantly rises.

Six tugs and three divers were at once set to work to raise the ship. The damage cannot be ascertained, but as the engines are well under water, the money damage will probably be great.

The cause of the sinking of the ship is supposed to have been due to the blowing out of the main injection valve or seaceck at the hottom of the keel.

The ship arrived ten days before from the Month Roads she scraped her bottom. She was to join the North Atlantic Squadron in a few days as wrong. Murdered liis Mother-In-Law.

A special from Richmond, Va., says: One of the most brutal murders ever committed In Carroll county has just come to light, and the Sheriff and a posse are in pursuit of the murderer, who is an Italian named John Selego. On November 2 Mrs. Ann Mitchell left her home to go to Woodlawn, about five miles from Hillsville, to get medicine for her miles from Hillsville, to get medicine for her daughter. Selego, hyr sun-in-law, started to a blacksmith shop near by, got a mattock, concealed himself in a thicket through which Mrs. Mitchell had to pass and crushed her head with the mattock. He buried her body in a pile of rocks, where it remained several days. Selego then carried the body through his yard on a sledge and left it in the woods. He then joined in the search to find it, until the marks of the sledge were discovered, when he fled to the woods.

Ten-Cent Cotton.

D. A. Tompkins writing from New York & the Charlotte, N. C., Observer, says: "Cotton men say that European buyers expect a rise in price more on account of the prosperous trade expected all over Europe this winter than on account of short erop. Good au-thorities here say that with a cop of 8,000,-006 or 10,000,000 bales cotton will go to It cents. It should not be forgotten, however, that New York is excited over the result of the alection."

SAVED BY HER BIG SLEEVE.

Lady's Narrow Escaps from Being Balloon sleeves, ribbed with stays of shalebone, saved a young lady at West Point a few days ago from being fatally bitten by a copperhead snake. The young lady, Miss Florence Sears, of New York, visited West Point with a number of friends and while leading the party on the mountain side overlooking the training ground of the young soldiers she stooped to pick a bunch of wild flowers. As she was about grasping the flowers she heard a startling, hissing sound. Not realize ing what the danger was she threw up her right arm to ward off some unseen peril. In a moment a copperhead snake struck at her from beneath a loose rock

just above where she was standing. Miss Sears saw the reptile as it struck at her. It was too late to jump back. and the arm that she had thrown upward caught the blow. It saved her face from injury, and the balloon sleeves of her waist almost baffled the snake. But the strike of the poisonous reptile was a vigorous one. The sharp teeth and fangs tore through the light cloth and hooked in the whalebone stays. As the reptile's weight dragged it down, it tore the sleeve and the fangs scratched along the skin from shoulder to elbow. The incisions, however, were not deep, and the deadly poison, it is believed, did not enter the victim's veins.

At Miss Sears' feet was a large stone She was still bending over when the snake struck her. She picked up the stone and crushed the snake's head before it could gather itself for another strike. When she had bravely done this without uttering a scream, her courage vanished. She gave one cry and fell fainting across the dead snake.
