THE '49 EXCITEMENT OUTDONE.

nder Tuttle, of the United States Revenue Cutter Bear, Tells of the Scenes at St. Michael's-Deckhand Had $150,000-Made It All In Seven Months -Gold Enough to Turn One's Mind,

SEATTLE, Wash. (Special).—The population of the Northwestern Territories will be multipled tenfold inside of the next six The exodus of excited gold hunters from all over the I acific coast has begun, and trains, arriving twice daily from the south, bring hundreds of eager and anxious men, who would gladly pay the transportation companies double for berths on the three outgoing steamers.

One of the most significant utterances in One of the most significant utterances in corroporation of the stories of immense gold finds in the Northwest Territory is found in a letter received from Captain Francis Tuttle, commander of the United States revenue cutter Bear, who was at the time of writing at St. Michael's on the Yukon River. Captain Tuttle cannot, by those who know him, be accused of being a dreamer. It is the first communication sent down from the far north by a United States officer relative to the gold excitement. The letter was malled July 1, and is graphic in its description.

officer relative to the goin scale of the letter was malled July 1, and is graphic in fits description.

Captain Tuttle says: "The days of '49 in California are a mere side show compared with the excitement in the Yukon country. Imagine my astonishment on reaching here yesterday to run across a man who, last september, was discharged as a deck hand from a steamer on Puget Sound. The fellow made his way into Alaska, worked seven months on the Klondyke and has now reached St. Michael's with $150,000 in gold. I could hardly believe my senses, but there was his gold, sure enough.

"As I write St. Michael's is full of miners awaiting an oppartunity to get down to Puget Sound and to California. Nearly every other man of them has $50,000 worth of dust, and there is not a man here with less than $15,000. The latter are referred to as 'poor fellows' who have been hard hit with bad luck, and it seems to be real sympathy that the more fortunate ones show for these $15,000 lollows.

"The deck-hand, with his $150,000, had the largest amount of gold of any one in the crowd. The whole business is almost incredible, yet one must believe what he sees.

Daniels Attempted to Assault His Employer's Wife and Was Pursued For a Week.

"Jim" Daniels, a colored farm laborer, entered the room of Mrs. John Baker, the wife of his employer, near Goodwater, Ala., a week ago and attempted to assault her. The woman's screams brought her husband from an adjoining room and the miscream fled. Baker organized a posse who searched with dogs for Danteis, chasing him forty unlies. He was pursued so close by the dogs that he was forced to climb a tree. When the posse arrived he prayed from the top of the tree for mercy, but in response got twenty bullets from as many guns and fell to the ground dead.

55TH CONGRESS ADJOURNS. The Dingley Tariff Bill Is Now the Law of the Land.

Washington, July 26th, -(Special.) The tariff bill passed its last legislative stage at 3 p. m. Saturday when the Senate, by the decisive vote of 40 to 30, agreed to the conference report on the

The announcement of the result was The announcement of the result was greeted with enthusiastic applause by the crowded chamber. This closed the labor for which the Fifty-fifth Congress assembled in extraordinary session and after stubborn resistance, at times threatening a deadlock, the Senate concurred with the House in a resolution for the final adjournment of the session at 2 o'clock tonight. The President's message for a currency commis-sion was received, but the House bil creating the commission was not acted upon. The End in the House.

The last session of the House wa marked by many interesting events. In addition to the final act of the Speaker in affixing his signature to the Dingley bill, a bill providing for the creation of a currency commission was crowded through in the closing hours.

The House recessed until after the Senate had adopted the conference re-port and one minute and thirty-one seconds after the house reconvened the en-grossed bill was signed and on its way

The last step necessary was taken at the White House when the President affixed his signature at 4:04 o'clock affixed his signature at 4:04 o'clock with a beautiful mother of pearl-handled pen, which Mr. Dingley requested the President to use. The President recognized the right of Mr. Dingley, though he laughingly commented on the diminutive size of the pen. He then appended his signature to the bill, asked the date and wrote "July 24th, approved" and the bill was an act.

CROPS HAVE IMPROVED.

Cotton is Very Vigorous, But Somewhat Smaller Than the Average. The North Carolina Crop Bulletin or the week ending July 19th has been one of the most favorable of the season. Fine showers occurred on several days, which were nearly general over the State, only five or six counties still suffering from drought, All crops have improved. Cotton is very vigorous and the only complaint is that it is somewhat smaller than the average.

Cutting and curing tobacco is now beginning also in the central district. EASTERN DISTRICT. - Nearly all reports received indicate that the past week has been exceptionally favorable. Genial showers, with moderately warm lays and plenty of sunshine, has caused a general advance in crop conditions. The nights have been little cool, but not sufficiently so to damage the cotton. There is, however, one section in the southern portion of the district, in the southern portion of the district, including Duplin, Pender and Brunswick, where almost no rain has yet fallen and corn is being out short. In general, crops are flourishing. Cotton is very good; it is a little late in blooming in north portion, where it is being plowed for the last time. Corn is about laid by; it has improved though it will be short; bottom proved, though it will be short; bottom land corn is fine. Tobacco has improv-ed greatly and cutting is pretty general in the eastern district. Sweet potatoes fine; apples ripe; melons abundant. Strawberry plants are being set out. Central District.—The past week has been an exceptionally favorable one; the drought has been broken in all counties which were suffering and local showers have occurred through out the district. The nights have been a little cool. All crops made good progress during the week. Corn is tasseling low, with small stalk, and there are still complaints of damage by chinch bugs; but the late crop has improved materially, and much of the early crop is safe. Cotton, crop has improved materially, and much of the early crop is safe. Cotton, though still smaller than the average, is very vigorous and blooming and bolling well. Prospects for to-bacco much improved; farmers topping it; cutting and curing has just begun in this district. Oats all cut. Wheat threehing continues. Sowing turnips

WESTERN DISTRICT. - Drought still Western District.—Drought still prevails in Surry and Alleghany counties, and over limited portions of a few others, but in general the past week has been more favorable, with good raius and more moderate temperature; in fact, the nights have been quite cool in the northern and mountain portions of the district.—Too much rain occurred in Mitchell county and portions of others, and some lowlands are too wet to plow. Crops are doing remarkably well. Cotton is perhaps still a little small, but is blooming nicely. Corn is about laid by; it is perhaps still a little small, but is blooming nicely. Corn is about laid by; it is small in stalk and tasselling rather low but is looking well. Some complain of chinch bugs still. Sweet potatoes very fine. Wheat threshing continues. Good stand of peas and many being planted.

THE HOME OF BILL NYE.

Summer Girl of Mountain Cities in the Land of the Sky.

Asheville, N. C.-July 24.-(Special Correspondence.) - Not many miles from this place lived Bill Nye-alas, poor William, the people about here knew him well- and they have many queer stories which they tell of him queer stories which they tell of him and many which the humorist in his perigrination throughout this pioturesque region would tell to them.

It was Nye who gave the memorable account of how it was that Vanderbilt happened to settle in this rare and rarified section of the South.

"George and me worked the combination," he said. "We have tastes of the same hue often a dark brown. I'm the same hue, often a dark brown. I'm long on gray matter; he has the long green. We pitched our tents side by side this proves the greatness of men, to say nothing of the country round about."

about."

But Nye has passed, and there is no monument save a cottage far up the river. Vanderbilt remaineth, and like old Horace, he has erected a monument more enduring than brass. Since the visit of McKinley, when he refused to enter the estate unless an invitation was extended to the correspondents accompanying him, newspaper men have rather risen in the estimation of Hard-ing, the surly English sub-manager, and more extended courtesies are shown

But Biltmore is only an accessory fea ture of this luxurious section. It represents the artificial, and looking at it in this contrasted light with the limitless wealth of nature spread out in its grandest forms, the scene makes a study which is interesting and not soon to be

Asheville, just at this season, becomes the summer girl of the mountain cities. She gets on a cool shirt-waist, with a jaunty sailor hat and bedecks herself in the refreshing greenery of the season. She looks delightfully cool, and there is an air of comfort and series satisfaction in her meaner that she can defy tion in her manner that she can defy the blistering heat which wilts her rivals and sends them indoors. Instead of retreating from the sun, Asheville gets out and glories in its glare, for it is tempered by a stiff breeze which comes down from the crown of mountains around; she goes a golfing, rigs up in wheeling costume for a spin, gets into tennis paraphernalia, or starts on a jaunt up the river for a try at mountain trout.

Just now Asheville is on the verge of the summer season. For the next three months it will be a gay place—gay in a summer way, for the town is always lively and wears the air of prosperity throughout the whole year. The popular idea of Asheville is erroneous. I had pictured the place as a small mountain city, with two or three big hotels near by and Biltmore and Ed McKissick in the rear ground. Instead, here is one of the most metropolital towns in appearance in the stead, here is one of the most metro-polital towns in appearance in the South. The people have full enjoy-ment of life. The business part of the city is in the bottom of a hugh basin scooped out among the mountains and eliced in two by the Swannanca and Franch Broad, Here are mile of paved streets, put down, by the way, by the late General Pierce M.
