 Hadley, the Republican candidate for governor of Missouri defeated Cowherd, the Democratic candidate by 17,263 votes. Below the governor, the Democratic state ticket won by pluralities ranging from 72 to 3,094. Taft carried the state by about 2,000. The result of the election is a complete repudiation of Cowherd.

The Entertainment

The entertainment given here on Friday night of last week in the hall over the Elkin Canning Factory by the Morphet and Stevenson Company which is travelling under the direction of the Dixie Lyceum Bureau, was of a high order; perhaps the best ever witnessed by our people at home. Mr. Morphet has a wide range of talents—magician, musician, ventriloquist and clown—and in each a genius. While Mr. Stevenson in his special line, that of music has few equals. He showed himself an expert performer on a wide range of instruments. We are sure he could have taken a number of tinpans, frying pans, or wooden buckets and knocked good music out of them. He could have taken a stick and knocked out nice music on a rail fence.

As a violinist Miss Jackson is an artist. Her impersonating was also good. Mrs. Morphet's part on the program was principally that of assistant to her husband.

All who attended went away feeling that they had got their money's worth.

Receptions

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McNeer entertained elaborately and most delightfully Thursday evening in honor of Miss Angie Smith. The McNeer home admirably appointed for entertaining as it is, was decorated in exquisite taste. Potted plants, ferns and white carnations were placed most advantageously. Progressive hearts was the pastime and at the end of the game Miss Susie Gwyn won the ladies prize. Mr. Thurmond Taylor the gentleman's. Delicious refreshments were served, after which with much reluctance all bade Mr. and Mrs. McNeer good-night, thanking them for such a delightful evening. Those enjoying Mr. and Mrs. McNeer's hospitality were: Mr. and Mrs. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Biggs, Mr. and Mrs. Hendren, Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. John Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Gilvin Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Lillard, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mesdames Litaker, Jennings, Hatch, Hunt and Haskins. Misses Susie Gwyn, Bettie Allen, Angie Smith and Maude Ring, Messrs. Baily, Click, Chatham, Taylor and Horton.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. M. A. Biggs and Mrs. A. G. Click entertained in honor of Miss Angie Smith whose marriage to Mr. John Horton took place Tuesday night. The decoration throughout the house were chiefly of carnations and ferns and were both pretty and artistic. Each guest wrote a telegram of good wishes to the bride, after which she was showered with sachet bags. Delicious refreshments were served. Few at home's have been more generally enjoyed and Mesdames Click and Biggs may well feel gratified that they have afforded so much pleasure to so many friends. Those present were Mesdames Smith, Hatch, Jennings, Haskins, Hunt, Lillard, Mornings, Gilvin and John Roth, Weir, Hubbard, Litaker, Hendren, McNeer, Galloway, Noel and Ring; Misses Susie Gwyn, Bettie Allen, Angie Smith, Ellen Ebert, and Maude Ring.

On Friday evening Mrs. Virginia Hunt was hostess to a theater party in honor of Miss Angie Smith. The following attended:

Mesdames Smith, Hatch, Jennings and Haskins; Misses Bettie Allen, Susie Gwyn, Angie Smith, and Maude Ring; and Messrs. Smith, Horton, Click and Baily. Delicious refreshments were served and the occasion was a most delightful one.

Smith-Horton.

The wedding last Tuesday evening at the elegant home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Smith on Gwyn Avenue was an elaborate affair, eclipsing, perhaps, anything of the kind ever witnessed in Elkin—and Elkin has witnessed quite a number of fashionable weddings within the past five or six years.

The contracting parties were Mr. John B. Horton, and Miss Angie Smith, sister of Mr. A. M. Smith, both of whom are well known and deservedly popular.

The decorations were in excellent taste, the color scheme throughout being pink and white; almost a countless number of pink and white bells were hanging everywhere throughout the large and well appointed Smith mansion.

The beautiful ring service was used, and Dr. C. W. Robinson of the Presbyterian church, North Wilkesboro united the destinies of these two young people for life.

The bridal party was up stairs while the guests were below. Just before the hour for the ceremony Mrs. M. A. Biggs came down the broad stairway and going to the piano rendered an appropriate selection. Mrs. Virginia Hunt next came down leaning on the arm of Mr. Alex Chatham, Jr., and sang beautifully "I love you truly" and "Dear Heart."

While the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Biggs filled the large rooms, and hallways, little Miss Margaret Price and her little brother, William, came down the stairway and took positions just inside the parlor. They were followed by Miss DeWitt Chatham and Master William Roth who took positions near the parlor door. Following these came Miss Louise Roth and Master Thurmond Chatham.

The little girls wore accordinian plaited pink silk—the little boys wore white linen suits. The little girls and little boys standing aside and holding a long ribbon on either side formed an aisle through which the party marched as they entered. These came in the following order: First the groom attended by his brother, Mr. Walter Horton, as best man, followed by the bride, who was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frank Jennings, as dame of honor. The bride and dame of honor were elegantly gowned; the former in white satin the later in pink silk. The bride carried lilies-of-the-valley—the dame of honor carnations.

The impressive marriage ceremony over, a brief period of congratulations followed after which all repaired to the dining room where a solid course was served. From the dining room they were conducted into the sitting room where coffee and chocolate were served. They then repaired to the library where they were again served, this time to punch.

As the guests left for their homes or hotels each was given as a souvenir a box having on it in gold the initials of the bride and groom in monogram—each box contained a small piece of the wedding cake.

Mr and Mrs. Horton left on the early train Wednesday morning for Washington City where several days will be spent. From Washington they expect to come to Virginia, the former home of the bride where some time will be spent with her relatives and friends.

Below we give the names of the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding; Mrs. N. R. Horton, the groom's mother; Messrs. Walter and Crit Horton; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gwyn; Messrs. T. B. and Chas. Finney; Mrs. J. L. Clemmons; Mrs. E. S. Blair; Mr. Henry Blair; Dr. Horton and wife. (All the above are from North Wilkesboro except Mr. Crit Horton whose home is at Boone Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Chatham and children and Mrs. M. E. Mornings. Mrs. Hatch, Mrs. Haskins and Mrs. Jennings of Virginia; these are sisters of the bride.

Swanecreek Items.

There will be thanksgiving service at the church on next Thursday at 11 o'clock a. m. The church at Swan Creek has appointed a meeting of some days to commence on the 27th of December, 1908, everybody is cordially invited to meet with us and take part in the services, as we think it is better to spend some time in devotional service to our creator during the holidays than to spend them in sport and revelry as some take a delight in doing.

Members of the church should let their light shine before the world if their is any light in them.

We are living in the land of peace and plenty and are expecting a full measure of prosperity to follow. The farmers are about done gathering in and cribbing their corn, and we think there is about an average crop in this settlement this year.

Our free school commences today at Windy Ridge. Miss Martin is the teacher.

Mr and Mrs. J. Z. Adams were visiting friends and relatives on Hunting Creek Sunday.

May peace and harmony abound throughout our land and country.
