GOVERNOR GLENN OPENS BIG FAIR

Tells of New England's Cordiality Expressed Toward North Carolina
FINE PROGRAMME OF HORSE RACING
Amusing Incidents in Which Gullible Rustics Are Done by the Fakirs

GOV. ROBERT BRUCE GLENN.

Yesterday was the opening day of the sixth annual fair of the Central Carolina Fair Association, and though the attendance, as is usual on the first day, was not large, it made up in distinction what it lacked in numbers.

Indeed, the great exhibit hall had scarcely received the finishing touches—some of the many beautiful exhibits had scarcely reached completion—when the entrance of the First Regimental Band of Asheville announced the arrival of Gov. Glenn and his party.

The governor's carriage was preceded by a guard headed by Chief Marshal Robert B. Douglas, the other members of the guard being Glenn Brown, Walter Bandy, Temple Harry, Tom Bell and Charles Murray. Governor Glenn was accompanied by Mayor Murphy, Dr. J. L. Battle, president of the Fair Association, Capt. Stokard, of the Medical Department of the United States Army, Prof. H. C. Hammill, Judge Douglas, Dr. W. H. Battle, A. L. Brooks, J. Van Lindley, C. M. Vanstoy, Dr. J. W. Whitsett, Prof. Faust, W. E. Bevil, Julius Price, Charlie Lamb, T. Gilbert Pearson, Father Vincent, P. H. Merriam, Dr. Brooks and Dr. G. W. Turner.

The mayor introduced Governor Glenn and the latter responded by telling first of his recent visit to New England, the industrialism displayed there, and the cordial feelings which that part of the country is prepared to show toward North Carolina. He spoke of the tremendous growth of Greensboro since 1880, when the town boasted only 3,000 inhabitants and no hotels, stores or industries worthy the name, to its present dimensions with stores, hotels, factories, etc., and its steady progress toward still greater things.

He spoke of the awakening of Greensboro from her sleep, her spring into the industrial arena, her triumphs there till now she has won every blessing—except whiskey. He referred to the expenditure of $300,000 on good roads for North Carolina, the three hundred and sixty-nine schools erected in the State in one year, the general trend of advancement in general education, manufacturing, invitation to Northern capital and the advancement of the people from a condition bordering on illiteracy to a condition second to none of our States. Especially was he anxious to encourage the great progress of the women of the State, and pointed with notable pride to the number of first-class female colleges.

The negro too is not left out of the Governor's scheme for the general welfare and the advancement of the race in general betterment of the race.

"Cato," said the Governor, "always ended each of his speeches with the words 'Catherine must be destroyed.' 'My theme,' said he, 'is not destruction, but the desire to impress on each and every North Carolinian that he must do his duty entirely.' North Carolina has never yet done one thing to cause her sons to love their heads in shame. Long before Plymouth and Jamestown were the first North Carolinians landed on Roanoke Island, and there the first Christian prayer went up, the first baptizing took place. Long before Patrick Henry exclaimed: 'Give me Liberty, or give me death!' the patriots at Mecklenburg declared for freedom. The last to secede the North Carolinians were the first to stand for the Union. The first at Gettysburg, the last at Appomattox to surrender."

things possible—butterflies and iron castings. The furniture exhibits were especially good, and the ladies' fancy work and art exhibits attracted deserved attention—anything from coffee-velvet lace to bed quilts, or from stuffed birds—not the usual hat brand, but the real warbler—to beautiful specimens of pyrography.

The Y. W. C. A. had a most attractive and artistically decorated corner, where luncheon was served, presided over by Mrs. Whitsett, chairman; Mrs. E. L. Piper, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Sykes.

Side Lights on the Fair. But the midway! The Daily Industrial News reporter made a rash resolve to attempt its complete description with the result that a too closely interviewed monkey seized the reporter's pencil, scolded the rubber with one chew, the point with another and so almost baffled the literary aspirations of the interviewer.

And the skin games! Early in the morning the fakirs unfolded their tents like the Arabs and noisily stole all day. Their favorite method whether worked with wheel, pegs, numbered board, pins, or pointers, was the come again game that leaves the loser standing to win lots more if he only stays in.

The fakirs gathered the bills in till their hands could not hold the bundles and still the country youths and some of the city ones handed over their dollars in exchange for a experience from whose lessons they backslid as soon as they reached the next layout. Reuben in his bright tie, with his bangs cut in bunches and sunburn and freckles on his nose still responded to the invitation to "hit me in the kisser and win twenty to one." And though the "kissin'" pictured there was anything but tempting, Reuben continued to try at fifty cents or a dollar a throw as the case might be.

Some were bold, some timid ones asked gently to be allowed in by the mighty fakir; one did not dare tempt Fate himself, but got a message to draw the card that was to decide whether his earnings were to remain in his pocket to buy "Mirar" a new "bummit" or go to help buy the needy fakir his crust and sup.

RAILROAD PAYS DAMAGE CLAIMS

The Southern Satisfies Litigants Who Were Injured on the Road

TWO MEN BADLY INJURED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

One Brought Suit and the Other Settled by Agreement—Two Other Claims For Small Amounts Adjusted and the Cases Taken Off the Court Docket.

Special to Daily Industrial News. Durham, N. C., Oct. 10.—In the superior court three damage suits have been settled in which the Southern Railway was the defendant. All of the suits were settled by compromise. In one of these suits Thomas Trolinger, colored, was the plaintiff. He asked for damages in the sum of $10,000 on account of hurts he received in a head-on collision near the coal chute, this city, some time ago. The road gave him by compromise $3,750. Trolinger was fireman on the shifter, and this engine and a through westbound freight collided. In the collision Jake Price, the yard conductor, was badly hurt, having been in the hospital most of the time for more than a year. He was fearfully burned about the feet and legs and will be a cripple all of his life. The negro Trolinger lost a foot and was badly scalded. The road failed to reach an agreement with the negro and the suit followed, resulting in the compromise that has now been brought about. It is understood that the damages sustained by Mr. Price have been settled satisfactorily, without suit being brought.

TRYING TO CATCH ROOSEVELT

Durham Wants the President to Get Off the Train A While.

Special to Daily Industrial News. Durham, N. C., Oct. 10.—Durham has a delegation in Washington who are acting with the governor in an effort to get the President to stop in Durham on his trip through the State. Under the present program the President will give Durham five minutes of his time on the trip through North Carolina. At a joint meeting of the city officials and Chamber of Commerce a committee was appointed to go to Washington, and in conjunction with the governor to make an effort to get the President to stop in Durham. If the efforts are successful a platform will be erected somewhere near the Trinity College gate, this being close to the railroad and with plenty of room, and he will be asked to speak to the people here. Those who are now in Washington for the purpose of seeing the President are Mr. W. A. Erwin, Mr. J. F. Willy and one or two others who met these in the nation's capital.

Durham Has Caught Him.

Special to Daily Industrial News. Durham, N. C., Oct. 10.—Mayor Graham late this afternoon read a message from the Durham committee now in Washington stating that Secretary Loeb had decided that the President would stop fifteen minutes in Durham. This telegram to the mayor was signed by Mr. E. Erwin and W. T. O'Brien, of the committee sent by citizens and Aldermen to get the President to stop here. Definite arrangements for the reception to be tendered the nation's chief will not be made until after the return of the committee, these being expected to reach here tomorrow. The President will be asked to speak here and elaborate arrangements will be made for his reception.

SHAW'S VISIT TO THE OLD DOMINION

Secretary of the Treasury Spent Ten Days in the Virginia Campaign

HE FOUND A SPLENDID SENTIMENT PREVAILING

Solicitor Hayes Regarded as a Finely Equipped Lawyer, Fully Capable of Protecting the Government's Interests in the Internal Revenue Cases.

Special to the Industrial News. Washington, Oct. 10.—Secretary Shaw, of the Treasury, returned to the city today from a ten days' tour of Virginia, where he has been making strong Republican speeches. Secretary Shaw says he found a splendid sentiment in the State in favor of progressive business development, and that many leading business men were inclined to join the Republican party and support its policies.

Representative Campbell Sloop is in charge of the campaign in that State. From all reports received he is making a determined fight, the result of which will be large gains at the approaching election.

Interest Felt in Fraud Cases.

Much interest is being felt here among officials of the Department of Justice and Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury Department, over the prosecution of the fraud cases now pending in Greensboro. Solicitor A. B. Hayes, of the Internal Revenue Bureau, who has gone to North Carolina, to assist District Attorney Holton, is considered here a splendidly equipped lawyer, especially on internal revenue matters, and is fully able to conduct these cases. Mr. Hayes was designated to this work after a long conference between District Attorney Robb and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the former representing the Department of Justice, and the Commissioner representing the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Important Suit Filed.

An important suit will be filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia this week by a North Carolina employe of the Government Printing Office. Mr. Charles H. Potter, formerly of Wilmington, had a three-year-old child burned to death in an alley near his residence on account of the negligent building of a fire by certain contractors erecting new houses near his.

Judge W. A. Montgomery, of Raleigh, N. C., who is visiting his kinsman, P. M. Wilson, an employe of the United States Senate, is being cordially greeted by his many friends in this city.

SPECIAL TERM FOR SAMUELS TRIAL

Judge Boyd Compelled to End Hearing of Ex-Revenue Officer Samuels in Federal Court

SOLICITOR GENERAL HAYES UNABLE TO TAKE UP CASE

District Attorney Holton Became Worse Yesterday and Was Forced to Take His Bed, But His Condition Is Not Considered Serious.

Although Solicitor General A. B. Hayes, of the Internal Revenue Department at Washington, arrived here yesterday to see what arrangements could be made concerning the continuance of the trial of ex-Revenue Officer George W. Samuels in Federal court for forgery, conspiracy and making false reports in office, which was stopped on account of the illness of District Attorney Holton, Judge Boyd was compelled to discontinue it and order a special term of court for the hearing of the case. The special term will be held here on January 3.

District Attorney Holton became some worse yesterday and was forced to take his bed. He is suffering a general breakdown and while his condition is not considered serious, it is such that he will need rest and time for recuperation before he can be able to resume his Federal court duties.

When Solicitor General Hayes arrived a consultation among the officers of the court, the counsel for the defendant and counsel for the prosecution was held and it was decided that the conditions of the case were such that it would be impracticable for another to take up the prosecution in the place of District Attorney Holton. He had prepared the case and the lines of prosecution, the character and testimony thereof was such that it would take a long time for other counsel to take it up and continue it. The jury was withdrawn and the district attorney, or his assistant, was commissioned to draw a new jury for the trial at the special term. The head of the defendant was ordered continued and the assistant district attorney was ordered to arrange for the recognition of the witnesses for the prosecution to the time of the special term.

Other Revenue Cases Go Over.

Of course as the prosecution is unable to continue in the Samuels case, all the other similar cases which were to come up for trial at this term of court will necessarily have to be discontinued until the special term. Federal court will continue in session, however, the remainder of the week in order to finish up with the less important cases. These will be in the hands of Assistant District Attorney A. H. Price as to the prosecution.

WALKER INDICTED IN FORSYTH FOR MURDER

Defendant Shot Eugene Lamar in Kernersville

WALKER INDICTED IN FORSYTH FOR MURDER

Winston-Salem, Oct. 10.—In Forsyth superior court this morning the grand jury returned a true bill for murder against Ade Walker, charging him with killing Eugene Lamar, in Kernersville, on the 9th day of August, 1905. The defendant was arraigned at the opening of court this afternoon and pleaded not guilty. Judge Bryan ordered Sheriff Asplough to summon a special venire of sixty men for jury service in this case, the trial being set for Thursday at 10 o'clock a. m. The day of the crime Walker and Lamar, it was alleged, had been drinking together. They went to a blacksmith shop near the Southern depot in Kernersville, where Walker, as testified to by the blacksmith at the preliminary trial, proposed to Lamar that "we shoot it out." Both men had pistols and began firing. One ball fired by Lamar took effect in Walker's leg, but the wound did not prove serious. Lamar was shot in the abdomen and died in an hour or two thereafter.

Students Visit City Library.

The senior class of the Greensboro High School with Prof. Jackson, visited the city library yesterday, studying the system used in cataloguing the books. While the high school students are constant visitors to the library, a knowledge of the index system used will be very helpful to them and by a familiarity with the system of classification can more readily find references upon any subject.

BENDER THE INDIAN PROVED INVINCIBLE

Second Game in World's Championship Series Won By Mac's Men By Same Score as Prevailed in the First Contest.

New York, Oct. 10.—When two well-trained baseball teams are pitted against each other with the points covered by men of acknowledged cleverness, there is always a doubt as to the outcome until the game is completed. The truth of this was proven today, when in the second game of the world's championship series the Philadelphia champions of the American League defeated the National League victors on the Polo grounds.

The visitors put in their Indian pitcher, Bender, with Schreckengost to handle him, against McGinnity and Bresnahan. The visiting battery was excellent, supported, as was the local end for two innings. But in the third inning Gilbert made a costly error which gave the visitors a lead which they never relinquished. McGinnity was relieved in the latter half of the eighth inning, Strang batting in his stead and Ames going into the box. The change did not prove effective, however.

In the third inning Schreckengost sent a grounder to Gilbert, who threw wildly to first and the friends of the local team groaned when the batter was safe. Bender made a neat sacrifice, tried to send the ball to the boundary, but it was an easy out. Led, the next up, was the right man in the pinch, as he singled to center, scoring Schreckengost. Davis was thrown out by Dahlen and the inning ended in favor of the Philadelphia, who had tallied one run.

Monte Cross struck out at the beginning of the eighth inning, but Schreckengost singled to left. Brovne made a beautiful long running catch of Bender's foul fly. Hartsel then doubled to left, but the relay throw from Wertes through Devlin, to the plate, was dropped by Bresnahan and Schreck scored. This was another run made on an error. Then Lord singled, bringing Hartsel in with the final run of the game.

Dr. Gillette Says He Gave Several Large Amounts in Cash

VAGUE ITEM FOR LEGAL EXPENSES

McCurdy Hands Out Something New About the Life Insurance Business

New York, Oct. 10.—The sessions of the insurance investigating committee were terminated for the week at the adjournment today, because of the death of Fred Nixon, speaker of the assembly of the legislature of New York, at his home in Westfield.

The testimony today did not elicit beyond what had been disclosed in the testimony of previous witnesses. The feature was the presence as witnesses of the executive officers of the Mutual Life Insurance Company. These were President Richard A. McCurdy and Vice Presidents Grannis and Gillette.

While it had been hinted last week that some expenditures charged to legal expenses might have been contributions to campaign committees, it was announced definitely by Dr. Gillette that the Mutual Life contributed $40,000 to the Republican national campaign last fall, that in 1900, $35,000 was contributed, and in 1896 $15,000 was given for campaign purposes.

Campaign Contributions in Cash. Dr. Gillette testified that he paid these amounts personally in cash, and later in the day Mr. McCurdy said that while he knew contributions had been made he did not know the amounts. He said that no contributions had been made to campaign committees before 1890 and that no contribution to State or municipal campaigns had been made in this or any other State. The contribution of $2,500 to the Congressional campaign committee, Mr. McCurdy said, he knew nothing about until it came out in the testimony last week.

An interesting statement was made by Robert Oliphant when he was on the stand early in the day. Mr. Oliphant, chairman of the committee, and he could not tell what the $25,000 items drawn to his order were for beyond that they were for legal expenses. He said the company maintained a confidential fund for expenditures for which no voucher was taken and no receipt was received. These payments were made on the assurance of an executive officer that they were all right.

McCurdy Not a Middleman Man.

Mr. McCurdy testified that he never knew what Mr. Thebaud, his son-in-law, was getting out of the business of C. H. Raymond & Company, and said he did not think it was any of his business to ask about Mr. Thebaud's personal affairs. He said the company did the business to get the commission, and that was all he knew. All contracts were made without his knowledge.

Witness said on the matter of salaries that he never requested that his salary be raised, and all such increases he took as a compliment to his management of the business. They were always made by the committee on salaries of their own accord.

A New Theory of Life Insurance.

Toward the close of the session Mr. McCurdy made the startling statement that an insurance company was not an institution founded to make money for the policy-holders, but was, or should be, a great philanthropic enterprise founded to increase and spread its benefits over the entire earth.

"There has been a great mistake made," he said, "about the real province of life insurance companies in these latter years. People have been led to believe that the main purpose was to make money for its policy-holders. In my view that is not the purpose of such companies. They are an extraordinary thing. When a man is insured in a company he should take into consideration the fact that he has entered a great philanthropic concern that is in duty bound to spread itself, even though this growth prevents him from realizing as much as he expected."

It was brought out that the witness and Dr. Gillette held enough proxies of policy-holders to control the board of trustees by electing its members. Mr. McCurdy said he understood that the policy-holders have sufficient confidence in the Mutual to take out policies and leave the management to the officers.

Free Silver a Menace.

Vice President Grannis knew little about the contribution to campaign funds, but justified them on the same grounds as President John A. McCall, of the New York Life, that the free silver plank in the Democratic platform was a menace to the interests of the policy-holders.

When Mr. Grannis was called he assumed the entire responsibility for the terms of the contracts with C. H. Raymond & Company, by which that firm made such large profits. When the method of the expenditure of the $25,000 items was inquired into Mr. Grannis admitted that the general solicitor could get $25,000 any time he wanted it without disclosing for what purpose he wanted it and without rendering any account of it. He further said he never knew where a cent of the money spent by the general solicitor went.
