FORAKER DENIES ANTIROOSEVELT INTRIGUE STORY

Ohio Senator Says He Had No
Part in the $5,000,000
Plot.

IS NOT HOSTILE TO THE PRESIDENT, HE SAYS

Has Supported all Measures Advocated by Roosevelt Except Three—Explains
Why He Did Not Support These and Reads the Declaration of Independence

Canton, O., April 10.—In the presence of 1,200 people, Senator Joseph B. Foraker at the auditorium tonight, delivered an address in which he defended his action as a servant of the people of Ohio and declared he is willing to abide by their decision in the future. The occasion of this address was the annual banquet of the Canton Board of Trade. Senator Foraker was down on the program to deliver an address on "Civic Pride," but his speech was largely directed to his work as senator and a declaration that he means to always do best in his own way.

He was received with much enthusiasm as he stepped forward to speak. Senator Foraker discussing published statements regarding the President's attitude toward the senator's speeches at this time, replied to a publication mentioning him as one of an anti-Roosevelt combination, reviewed the investigation of the discharge of the negro soldiers on account of the trouble at Brownsville, Texas, reiterated his views regarding recent railroad legislation, protested against the infringement by one branch of the government of the rights of another branch, declared that the representatives of the people in Congress are accountable only to the people and are not "properly subject to any other influence"; denied the right of any one except his constituents to call him to account, and sounded a note of warning against increased surveillance of business men who need no "normal regeneration."

He quoted a published report that "President Roosevelt has drawn a deadline for Senator Foraker," and that "if he attacks President Roosevelt, President Roosevelt will be heard from in no uncertain tones." Senator Foraker said:

"That the President of the United States should become personally engaged in a political contest to determine his successor is without precedent, unless it be the bad precedent set by Andrew Jackson as to Martin Vanburen.

"That he would enter upon such a struggle with a declaration that he is to set limitations upon the freedom of speech of those who may differ from him, and that they are to disregard those limitations at their peril, is without precedent."

The Twelve Men Who Are Deliberating Over the Fate of Harry Kendall Thaw

THE JURORS IN THE CASE.

THAW'S FATE UNDECIDED UP TO LATE HOUR

Case Was Given to the Jury at 5.17 Yesterday Afternoon.

BOTH DISTRICT-ATTORNEY AND COURT SCORE HIM

Prisoner Hears Fearful Arraignment of His Life and Character—No Shred of Delmas' Hero Being Left—Four Verdicts Possible Under Instructions.

New York, April 10.—Charged with the responsibility of deciding the fate of Harry Kendall Thaw, the jury which since January 23 has been sitting in judgment on the young slayer of Stanford White, retired at 5.17 p. m. today to begin the consideration of their verdict.

Six hours later they had failed to reach an agreement and shortly after 11 p. m. were locked up for the night in the juryroom of the criminal court building. Justice Fitzgerald, who had been waiting for some word from the juryroom, became convinced at that hour that he chances of receiving a verdict tonight were too remote to warrant his remaining up any later.

Justice Fitzgerald had earlier in the evening gone to his club uptown and had held an automobile in readiness to make a quick trip to the courthouse, should he be needed. His instructions regarding the locking up of the jury were given by telephone.

It was said that when Justice Fitzgerald's message was received at the courthouse the officers on duty there put the matter up to the jurors themselves, asking if there was any possibility of their arriving at a verdict within the next few hours.

The reply from the juryroom was strongly negative. The jury was said to be almost hopelessly divided and none of those connected with the case tonight would venture the hope of anything better than a disagreement as the climax of a long drawn out trial.

Harry Thaw sat in the prisoner's pen adjoining the deserted courtroom during the long hours of the jury's deliberations. By his side was his wife and his counsel who remained with him until all hope of a verdict tonight was abandoned. During the early evening all of the Thaw family were with the prisoner but before ten o'clock they made their way uptown to their hotel.

In the life of Harry Thaw this day will go down as the most trying he has ever experienced. From the opening of court until the jury retired, the fates dealt unmercifully with him. Beginning with District-Attorney Jerome's final argument and throughout the judge's charge, Thaw had to listen to a scathing attack upon his character and to a narrative drawn from the evidence, which was meant to strip his deeds of the halo of chivalric glory, which his own attorneys had thrown about them.

Four Verdicts Possible.

The judge's charge, lasting about an hour, was a concise outline of the law, and gave to the jury the alternative of rendering any one of the following four verdicts—murder in the first degree; murder in the second degree; manslaughter in the first degree; or not guilty on the ground of insanity.

The statute governing the plea of insanity was defined clearly, much stress being laid on the fact that an irresistible impulse to kill had no place in the law.

The judge also informed the jury that an illusion, unless the illusion, if true,

LONGWORTH DECLARES FOR TAFT FOR THE PRESIDENCY TO SUCCEED ROOSEVELT

President's Son-in-Law Thinks
Ohio Man Can Best Carry
Out the Policies; Inaugurated
by the Administration.

Thinks That If Ohio Republicans Will Stand by Secretary of War He Can Be Nominated and Elected.

Cincinnati, April 10.—Congressman Nicholas Longworth returned home from Washington today. In an interview he declared himself in favor of the nomination of Secretary Taft as the Republican candidate for President. He said that his opinion was personal and that he spoke for himself, but that he believed that Taft in the eyes of the people typified the Roosevelt administration.

Continuing, Mr. Longworth said: "The great question before the people in the next presidential election will be, in my opinion, the approval or disapproval of Republican policies as registered by the legislative and executive branches of this government for the past eight years under the administration of President Roosevelt.

It seems to me that after the President himself there is no living man who so thoroughly typifies in the eyes of the people the spirit of the Roosevelt administration as William H. Taft. There is no one who can be better trusted to carry out many of the great reforms which will be necessarily incomplete upon the retirement of President Roose-

COLONEL GRAVES ASKS BRYAN TO NAME ROOSEVELT

Editor Urges Nebraskan to Re-nominate President at Democratic Convention.

WAS REQUESTED NOT TO MAKE THE ADDRESS

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 10.—A sensational feature of the banquet given here tonight by the Bryan Anniversary Club, at which W. J. Bryan was the guest of honor, was the letter and subsequent speech of John Temple Graves, editor of the Atlanta Georgian, who in his letter refused to speak because the toastmaster asked him not to talk about his (Graves') suggestion that Bryan should nominate Roosevelt for reelection.

Later, Mr. Graves, after being persuaded to take his place at the banquet table, delivered his speech.

In beginning his address, Mr. Bryan paid his respects to Mr. Graves and what he had said. He complimented Mr. Graves in the highest manner for his honesty and his boldness, and said if there was any place in the world where absolute freedom of speech should prevail it ought to be in a Democratic gathering. He added that when he had heard that Mr. Graves had retired from the hall because there might be doubts about the wisdom of what he had to say, he had sent for the Georgian's editor to return and insisted that the speech should be delivered. Turning directly to the subject of Mr. Graves' recommendation, Mr. Bryan said:

"As at present advised, I shall not present the name of Theodore Roosevelt to the national Democratic convention. Bear in mind, I say 'as at present advised.'"

Mr. Bryan contended that if after mature consideration and reflection and the presentation of the arguments in the case, he should feel that his duty lay in that direction, he would present Mr. Roosevelt's name, even though it should prove to be the last act of his. He then went on to say that if any Republican was to be selected by the Democrats to head their national ticket the man should be Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin. Mr. Bryan then proceeded with his speech, presenting reasons why, in his opinion, Mr. Roosevelt was not the proper man for the presidency.

Mr. Graves said:

"A gathering of Democrats in this strenuous era may be always a feast of fellowship, but it should be not less an occasion for serious counsel and fearless deliberation.

"The festive occasions of our modern Democracy have in the main been feasts of reason, but they have very rarely been followed by any decisive flow of the ballots in succeeding national campaigns.

"We have always been right, but we have rarely been President—only once in forty years. We bring out of the turbulent years behind us a record of high purposes, and hollow results, of heroic advocacies and unavailing campaigns, of splendid enthusiasms and few victories, of radiant reforms and unrealized expectations, of unflinching loyalties and a lamentable lack of the number of ballots sufficient to entrench us in the administration of the government.

"The Democratic organization is still one of the two great parties of the republic. Its meaning was never clearer, its mission never more beneficent, but its prospects are as uncertain as they have ever been since Thomas Jefferson brought home from France the shibboleths of popular liberty on which it sprung to life.

"We have had no balance of the books

Clairvoyant Wanted In This City

EARL VAUTARE,
Clairvoyant and Palmist Who Decamped from Greensboro Taking, Say the Police, Something in the Neighborhood of $16,000 in Cash, Jewelry and Other Valuables. The Man Arrested at Union, S. C., Was Yesterday Released by the Officials of that Place as He Proved Not to Be the Man Wanted.

MAN HELD AT UNION SUSPECTED OF BEING VAUTARE IS RELEASED

Does Not Correspond to Photograph of Absconding Palmist
Sent to South Carolina City by Greensboro
Police.

Special to Daily Industrial News.

Union, S. C., April 10.—The man giving his name as S. A. Ward, who was arrested near Cross Anchor yesterday and committed to jail here last evening on suspicion that he was Earl Vautare, the clairvoyant and palmist, who it is alleged swindled Greensboro society women out of valuable jewelry and cash, was today released, as it is thought by the officials here that he is not the person, he not corresponding with a photograph said to be a good likeness of Vautare which was received here today.

In a number of ways Ward filled the description, being practically the same weight, height, and with the same prominent eyes. He had receipts from persons in Newberry, Abbeville and Laurens by which he established his alibi to the satisfaction of the sheriff and several others.

When in jail this morning Ward received a letter from his wife and little child at Ridgeway and one that had been forwarded from Laurens, the contents of which he read to those who saw him in jail, explaining to their satisfaction why he was not living at Ridgeway. He was seen by Dr. S. S. Linder, who knew him fifteen years ago, and the recognition was mutual.

Ward left his stove-working tools at the Gypsy camp near Cross Anchor, where he was arrested, and since his release has been in Union, but expects to return to Cross Anchor tomorrow.

While the photograph received today does not correspond very well with the man who gave his name as "Briggs" a clairvoyant and palmist who came into a newspaper office here on Saturday, still from his conversation and manner, those who saw the so-called Briggs are convinced that he was either Vautare himself or had been closely associated with him.

PRESIDENT NAMES OHIO NEGRO FOR DEPARTMENT JOB, JOLTING ENEMIES

Appoints Ralph Tyler to Auditor-

ONE ON FORAKER AND DICK

BY JOHN E. MONK.

Washington, D. C., April 10.—By appointing Ralph Tyler, of Ohio, to the post of auditor of the treasury for the navy department, a $4,000 job, President Roosevelt today gave Senators Foraker and Dick a severe jolt and incidentally took a sideswipe at Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania.

Tyler is the negro who was talked of some weeks ago for the appointment as collector of customs at Cincinnati. To make a place for him, the President transferred W. E. Brown, of Erie, Pa., who has long been identified with

DAUGHTER TESTIFIES AGAINST FATHER HELD FOR KILLING HIS SON

Preliminary Hearing of Nathan
Moore Begins in Wilson
Courthouse.

RAN STILL IN THE KITCHEN

Special to Daily Industrial News.

Wilson, N. C., April 10.—The courtroom was crowded today at the hearing of the preliminary trial of Nathan A. Moore, charged with the murder of his son.

Polly Moore, a sister of the dead boy, testified that her father told her that he had kicked and beat her brother with a bottle and also hit him with a chair. Her brother just before his death told her his father had kicked him. Her father told her he beat him because he, her brother, was drunk.

Defendant's counsel contended that inflammation of the lungs, which physicians say was the cause of death, was not caused by the kicks or wounds received. The postmortem examination showed bruises on the lung and liver.

The hearing is continued until Friday on account of the absence of one of the defendant's counsel. The defendant is refused bail in the meantime.

Polly Moore, the prisoner's daughter, testified that until recently her father ran a blockade whisky still in the kitchen.

GLENN SAYS HE DIDN'T REFER TO ROOSEVELT

Says Remarks at Pinehurst Simply Referred to American President, and Not to Any Individual.

Raleigh, N. C., April 10.—Governor Glenn returned today from Pinehurst, where he delivered an address at the conference on education in the south and concerning the statement published that he had said that he "considered President Roosevelt the greatest ruler the world has ever known," said:

"In the course of my remarks at Pinehurst, I said that I regarded the President of the United States, whether Democrat or Republican, as the greatest ruler in the world and I did not refer to Mr. Roosevelt or any President by name. I was speaking, not of an individual, but of the power and greatness of the position."

Governor Glenn recalled other addresses in which he had referred to the President of the United States as the "greatest ruler in the world."

NEGRO "LOWED TO GIT RAKEOFF" ON STOLEN $5

CHARGE DROPPED AGAINST SALIS-BURY BLACK AND MAN WHO
THOUGHT HIM GUILTESS

Special to Daily Industrial News.

Salisbury, N. C., April 10.—There was an interesting small case in the mayor's court this morning when a sort of Midshipman Easy duel between the law and two defendants was on.

Last night a fellow from New London giving his name as Williams went into the money drawer of a restaurant here and, taking $5 from it, gave it to a negro named Arthur Barber, telling him to take it somewhere and have it changed into forms tangible enough to aid a crap game.

Barber appears to be half-witted and bears the surname of "Paul," doing all the bidding of the white folks and generally being no account. Williams told him he would give him $1 to get the change. Paul started off and bought a pair of shoes for a child, a second-hand suit of clothes and appurtenances, spending every cent of the $5.

A warrant was issued against both Williams and Paul, and in the city court this morning Paul got up as his defense: "I 'lowed to get my rake off."

Later the warrant was withdrawn on the recommendation of the plaintiff, who paid all costs and refused to squaal.

The freight train was on a siding when the passenger, running at a moderate rate of speed, crashed into it, demolishing both engines. The engineer claims that the accident was due to the failure of his air pump to work.

All of the injured were on the passenger train and no one was fatally hurt.
