VAST AUDIENCE HURLS MONEY ON THE STAGE

It is said tonight that other colleges will announce their intention to contribute shortly. The Pittsburgh branch of the National Peace Society has taken up the matter and the Grand Army posts have presented Mr. Stead with a resolution of thanks for his efforts for peace.

The banquet given by the board of trustees of the Carnegie Institute in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, the founder, was held tonight at the Hotel Sehenley. Mr. Carnegie made his appearance at this function after being absent all day, due to it was stated, from fatigue occasioned by yesterday's ceremonies.

The exercises today were slightly handicapped by inclement weather. Three large chests of books were presented to the institute by Emperor William through his personal representative, Lieut.-Gen. Alfred F. J. L. von Loewenfeld. The books are handsomely bound and treat of the German empire and army. Many messages were received today from all parts of the world congratulating Mr. Carnegie and Pittsburg in possessing the great institute.

Among the speakers today were Sir William Henry Breese, London; Ernest von Inne, Berlin; Robert S. Ball, London; Lieutenant-General von Loewenfeld, Berlin, and Leonce Benedite, Paris. Tomorrow the Western University of Pennsylvania will confer honorary degrees on the foreign and American guests, and in the afternoon the party will go by boat to the mill district of the city, where they will be given an opportunity to see the great steel mills in operation.

ROCKEFELLER CONGRATULATES CARNEGIE ON INSTITUTE

Pittsburg, Pa., April 12.—John D. Rockefeller, in a letter to Andrew Carnegie today congratulated the donor of the Carnegie Institute upon the dedication. The letter follows: "Lakewood, N. J., April 12, 1907. To Andrew Carnegie, Pittsburg, Pa.:

"Please accept my hearty congratulations on your great and good speech on the dedication of Carnegie Institute in your old home city of Pittsburg. It has the right name I am with you. You have my best wishes for the success of all your good efforts to help our fellowmen. I hope and trust that our prosperous men the country over will be stimulated to emulate your noble example. I believe that untold good would result therefrom.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND THE BIG CARNIVAL

Another big crowd attended the carnival last night, and until a late hour the scene was one of gaiety. Confetti, laughter and fun were predominant. The weather has been very much against open air performances during the week, but the management is gratified over the liberal patronage received.

DON'T WAIT TOO LONG.

At the first sign of Backache or pain in the region of the Kidneys, or weakness and Urinary trouble, the following simple prescription should be used: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. Any good prescription pharmacy will supply these three ingredients at small cost, which can easily be mixed by shaking well in a bottle. This is said to force the kidneys to filter the acid and poisons from the blood, overcoming the worst cases of Rheumatism.

Thaw Jury, After Long Deliberation, Disagrees

smiled wearily at Thaw as he was led away again to the Tombs. They were permitted to speak with him for a few moments to bid him be of good cheer, before he crossed the "bridge of sighs" to the cell in the prison which until a few minutes before he had hoped that he was about to quit forever.

Outside the big square of the criminal courts building, only a few hundred persons were gathered. Thousands had been there earlier, but police reinforcements had arrived with instructions to keep everyone moving and this had soon tired the idly curious into a willingness to depart. Inside the building, in the gallery and overlooking the court and gathered along the corridors—were groups of more fortunate persons who had been able to make their way past the vigilant police guards.

The courtroom itself, was half empty. Only the newspaper men, the court attaches, and a few favored friends, were allowed to enter to hear the verdict. Justice Fitzgerald feared a demonstration of some sort should the general public be admitted and he gave strict orders against this.

It was 4:25 o'clock when the jury filed into the court-room. Harry Thaw had been waiting for a summons to face the jurors ever since shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. He felt that today would bring the crisis and that either a verdict would be reached or Justice Fitzgerald would discharge the jurors from any further consideration of the case. This was the general belief, and the only remarkable feature of the case was the dogged manner in which the jurors continued at their task and declined to ask to be excused.

Justice Fitzgerald had determined to let them fight it out among themselves until they should call for assistance. This appeal came at 4:15 o'clock and then followed a hunt for counsel, both District-Attorney Jerome and the attorney for the defendant having temporarily left the building. When they arrived, Justice Fitzgerald notified them of the jury's communication that a disagreement seemed inevitable.

Everyone connected with the case seemed willing to accept the situation as offering no hope, and then followed the brief courtroom proceedings at which the disagreement was publicly announced, the jury dismissed and the prisoner remanded.

Thaw, when he had returned to the Tombs, prepared and gave out the following statement: "I believe that every man in the jury, possessing average intelligence, excepting possibly Mr. Bolton, comprehended the weight of evidence and balanced it for acquittal. All my family bid me goodbye with courage. I trust (D. V.) we may keep well."

To his attorneys Thaw said he was deeply disappointed. "But I could hardly expect anything else in view of the events of the past few days," he added.

Earlier in the day Thaw had given out another statement in which he said he had desired that his fate should be judged upon the "written laws of the State of New York." He declared that the evidence adduced had convinced even District-Attorney Jerome of his innocence under the strict letter of the law.

Attorney Delmas, who conducted Thaw's case in court, and who in making his summing up address to the jury, appealed almost directly to the "unwritten law" or "dementia Americana," as he termed it, was not in court today when the jury made its report, and was discharged.

NEGRO WITH RAZOR CARVES A WOMAN

Cutting Affray Takes Place in Suburb Known as Frog Town.

Sarah Turner, a negro, residing in that section of the city known as "Frog Town," was severely cut late yesterday evening by a razor in the hands of Caswell Johnson, a negro who has given the police no little trouble during the last few years.

Johnson was on the side of the woman's face, running from the top of her ear to her mouth, and the other, starting on the top of her shoulder, extending the full length of her back.

Dr. Turner was summoned to attend the injured woman and found it necessary to take thirteen stitches in her back. It is said that Johnson went to the home of the Turner woman a few days ago and after burning all of her clothing, beat her into insensibility. Since that time he has been dodging and all efforts on the part of the police to locate him have been futile.

Johnson is the man who several months ago was cut by Robert Dulan, the negro who was killed a few nights ago near the plant of the Hardwood Manufacturing Company, and whose mysterious death is proving a puzzle to the police.

The numerous fights and murders which have occurred during the last few days have proved alarming to at least a part of the Greensboro negroes, one of whom was heard to remark a few nights ago that "Dis town sho' is gittin' superstitious and ef'n a man wants to feel safe, he had better escape to his home."

SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR SHOWED UNITY OF U. S.

The President, accompanied from the White House by Lieut. S. B. Young, retired, and Maj. Frank B. McCoy, his naval aide, were met at Fort Myer by Captain Preston's troop of the Thirteenth cavalry and escorted to the cemetery gates, where they were joined by the remainder of the military and naval contingent in the march to the monument.

A distinguished company assembled on the stand from which the President delivered his address. A number of former members of the Rough Riders' regiment are in the city and were invited to seats on the stand.

The monument is the design of Mrs. Capron, and stands in a good location in the reservation. It is a monolith, made of Vermont granite, stands fourteen feet high on a base six by six feet. The memorial bears the names of more than one hundred members who died either in Cuba or after the return of the regiment to the United States.

The President Roosevelt was the colonel of the Rough Riders during most of its existence, and he spoke today with a personal feeling. He referred to the peculiar gratification of all the members of the regiment in seeing this memorial erected to the memory of their dead comrades, and spoke of the funeral services that Chaplain Brown held over "the first fight that we saw, the fight in which we served under the after time lieutenant-general of the United States army who is with us here today, General Young."

SALARY MUDGLE A CASE FOR COURT, SAYS CLEMENTS

only involves the determination of the legislative mind, but also involves the determination of a bona fide claim against the state, and according to trend of the decisions of our Supreme Court, this authority has never been recognized in the office of the attorney-general.

This is a bona fide claim against the state, and is a question for the judiciary to settle. Were the attorney-general to take upon himself the authority and responsibility of passing upon this claim, it is evident that it would be his duty to pass upon and determine each and every claim against the state, and this is not a part of his duty. For were he to pass upon these several claims against the state, it would be incumbent upon the state treasurer to act upon the opinion of the attorney-general and the state auditor.

UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT AT NORMAL COLLEGE

"Business Men's Carnival" Proves a Big Success and Those Present Well Pleased—Given by the Members of the Adelphean Literary Society.

A unique and highly creditable entertainment was presented last night by the members of the Adelphean Literary Society of the State Normal and Industrial College, and despite the fact that the night was a disagreeable one, the immense auditorium was crowded. The hall it is said, will seat 1,000 people, and there were few unoccupied seats last night.

To say that the affair was a success would be to but half express it, for it was more than a success in every way. All who attended were well pleased and deserving of the praise they gained.

Each of the leading firms of the city was represented in a unique manner, each representative wearing an appropriate costume. There were songs, tableaux and plain business statements from the characters, all winning much applause.

The scene of the carnival was in the palace of the Queen of Progress, who, seated on a white throne, around which were stationed her attendants, heard the different merchants of Greensboro as they talked of their business.

First there was the grand march of the representatives, to give the audience an opportunity to single out the different firms. Then the queen appeared, attended by her subjects, "Attention to Business," "Energy," "Perseverance" and "Courtesy," and before her throne the representatives talked business. The manner in which the different characters presented their wares was a good object-lesson for salesmen.

One of the most interesting features of the program was the reading of the essays, which won the first, second and third prizes offered by the Vogue Shoe Company. The subject was "Why is Vogue an Appropriate Name for a Shoe Store?"

The essays were read by Miss Fleda Johnson, who represented the Vogue firm. The prizes were three expensive pairs of shoes.

At the close of the carnival the queen addressed the merchants and expressed her intention of making Greensboro her permanent home. "It is her fitting," she said, "that the Gate City should be the home of the Queen of Progress and the time is near when Greensboro will be the leading city of the south."

STEAMER IS BROUGHT IN AFTER SECOND ATTEMPT

New York, April 12.—The Clyde line steamer Arapahoe, which broke her crank-shaft while off the Delaware coast enroute from Charleston to New York Tuesday night, arrived at this port today in tow of a tug.

The Arapahoe's propeller is believed to have struck a submerged object as she neared Winter Quarter shoal. On Wednesday the steamer Apache, of the same line, summoned by wireless telegraph, came to her assistance, and twice attempted to tow the disabled steamer, but the hawser parted in a heavy sea and both steamers anchored.

On the following day the steamer Iroquois took the Arapahoe in tow until met by the tug O. L. Hollenbeck, off Barnegat last night and the tug brought the Arapahoe into port.

DIZZINESS Relieved by Simple Change of Food.

A very common cause of dizziness is the poisonous nature that results from imperfect digestion. When the stomach is unable to digest the food because of its being eaten too fast or because it is of the indigestible sort, part of it lies in the stomach and ferments, producing gas and bacteria.

"I tried about every known remedy for my troubles but got only temporary relief. Then I tried Grape-Nuts. This food certainly commends itself to a delicate appetite with a gentle persuasiveness that is peculiar to itself.

348 REAL ESTATE DEALS FOR WINSTON THIS YEAR

PROBABLY GREATEST NUMBER OF TRANSFERS RECORDED IN COUNTY IN SOME TIME.

Special to Daily Industrial News. Winston-Salem, N. C., April 12.—Three hundred and forty-eight transfers of real estate have been recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Forsyth county since January 1. A number of these have represented large amounts. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have changed hands as a result of such transfers.

It is quite probable that never before in the history of the county have so many transfers been recorded in the same period of time. The price of real estate here, in most cases, is based on the real value of property and not on speculative values. The real estate market, as well as other fields of business here, is in a healthy state, and everything would seem to indicate that the city and county will continue to go forward at a rapid rate.
