A Tornado Theory.

The season for tornadoes has opened and several of these ruthless visitors have made their accustomed appearance in the West. Little seems to be accurately known of the causes of these violent disturbances.

The Baltimore Sun claims, we believe, to be a Democratic newspaper, and therefore it is to be presumed that it would not employ dudes to keep it informed in regard to Democratic politics in the South, but this correspondent—bewildered probably by courtesies extended by citizens of all parties and being densely ignorant of the real political situation in North Carolina—undertakes in an ex cathedra sort of way to enlighten its readers as to the present condition and future prospects of parties in this State.

Starting out with historical mis-statements as to the town of Salisbury, as the newspaper dode is likely to do when he ranges so far from his sphere, he breaks ground with the gratuitous and palpable lie that "although the election for Governor does not take place until next year, political excitement in the State is already running high."

"The President's idea," he said, "was that while the Republicans should control the Federal offices in North Carolina, minor Federal positions might occasionally be bestowed upon liberal Democrats who could be useful to the coalition, and in making up the State ticket all the prominent positions, including the nomination for Governor, should be bestowed upon men of character and ability who had left the Democratic ranks and joined the coalition movement."

A cyclone in Barnwell County Monday cut a path three quarters of a mile through the timber which was felled for a railroad. A number of farm houses and out-buildings were blown down. Some cattle were killed and several persons hurt, some of them seriously.

Stamps to the value of $30,000,000 were shipped Monday to collectors of internal revenue throughout the United States, to be used on articles subject to a stamp tax after May 1. The packages weighed in the aggregate fifteen tons and filled 500 of the largest-sized mail pouches.

The solicitor of the treasury has rendered an opinion that collectors of customs should demand and collect from the owners and masters of foreign private steam vessels carrying passengers a fee of twenty cents each for the certified copies of the certificates of inspection delivered to them under the requirements of the act of 1882.

Lawyer Bros. powder magazine, containing about 1,500 pounds of powder, situated a quarter of a mile from Larders, Kan., exploded Monday, killing instantly Chas. L. Goodrich, his brother and a clerk disappeared leaving the store open and unattended. The singular part of it is that the grocer, leaves off work at 4 o'clock but his employees are doing a good business, and was much respected.

Senator Anthony's physicians say that he is suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys, complicated somewhat with heart disease. They think he may recover.

John H. Reinkin, a grocer of Savannah, Ga., left the town on the 16th inst., giving out that he was going to Caloosa Springs. Last Monday his brother and a clerk disappeared leaving the store open and unattended. The singular part of it is that the grocer, leaves off work at 4 o'clock but his employees are doing a good business, and was much respected.

Defunct. About ten o'clock on Saturday night last the citizens of the heretofore quiet and thrifty town of Durham were aroused by the announcement that a horrible murder had been committed in their midst. The party who committed the deed was named Thomas Bolin, a young colored man. It seems that he had been living lawfully with one Ellen Couch, colored and was very jealous of her, so on Saturday night he rushed on her with an ax and split her head open, cut her right eye and broke her left arm. He made an attempt to escape, but was pursued and captured by some colored people, who turned him over to the police. After he was captured by the colored people he attempted to kill himself by cutting his own throat, but unfortunately he did not cut quite deep enough. A physician sewed up his wound, but he pronounced the injuries of the woman as fatal.

High Authority. Dr. W. E. East, president of the college of physicians, Montreal, writes: "I have recommended Light's Best Food as the best preparation for debility, indigestion, dyspepsia, fever, ague, and loss of appetite. (Take no other.)"
