The Hon, James B. Beck, Senator

HORSE SENSE FROM MR. BECK. from Kentucky, has always enjoyed the reputation of being a clear-headed statesman and an honest man. He has been interviewed by the New York Tribune, and in regard to the contest of 1884 he expresses himself as follows:

"The way I view the situation for the next Presidential campaign is this: The majority of the people of the United States are tired of what you might call Republican bossism, but don't think yet-that we can be trusted. We have a majority of the next. Congress, and the result wil! depend upon what we do. If we organize and go honestly to work to legislate for the good of the whole country, put down monopolies without disturbing industry, carry a genuine reform of the civil service into effect, and keep clear of the idea that power is to be used only to reward political friends, we will elect the next President. The contest will be one of ideas of this character, and will not be affected by the differences of opinion on the tariff. Personally I am a liberal trader; some of my friends believe in protection; but these things will not influence us much. The vital questions are so great that I do not care to speak about men. There isn't any one man big enough to stand for them -no one who towers over the others so greatly that he can be looked upon as the only fit man to represent the principles now at issue."

It will be observed that Mr. Beck does not anticipate the least trouble from the differences of opinion among Democrats on the tariff, and yet some very knowing newspapers would have us believe that if this or that man is The decline amounts to four points in elected Speaker because of his views on that question, the Democratic party will go to the everlasting bowwows. The Democratic party is greater than any individual member of it, and nothing short of an act of political insanity on the part of those to whom its management is entrusted can prevent it from carrying the country in 1884.

An idea of the prodigious growth of the great Northwest may be interred from the fact that the gross earnings of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railroad for the year ending June 30 next are likely to foot up fully $9,000, 000, an increase of $2,500,060 ever the previous year's business. This road has been in existence but a few years, and is a phenomenal success.

We have received from Hon Abram S Hewitt a pamphlet copy of his address upon the occasion of the opening of the Brooklyn bridge, The address is worthy of Mr Hewitt and of the great occasion, and will add to his fame as a scholar, a thinker, and a practical statesman.

The Czar of Russia celebrated his coronation by removing from office the mayor of Moscow for publicly expressing the hope that the Czar would institute constitutional government. Russia is a bad place to have hopes, or, having them, for publicly expressing them.

P. J. Shehy, who served as one of the jurors on the Guiteau trial, has become insane. He went upon the jury with much reluctance, and ever since the hanging of Guiteau has been in a morbid state over the responsibility for the hanging.

The Boston Post remarks: "Of 44 daily newspapers which published the account of the Brooklyn bridge disaster, 25 used the headline 'Baptized in Blood,' 10 'A Baptism of Blood,' and 9 Baptism of Blood.

When a Russian wants to get drunk and his favorite benzine isnot obtainable he makes a decoction of very strong tes, squeezes a lemon into it and drinks a dozen cups or so which have the desired effect.

Among the ancestors of the present Czar of Russia have been one barbarian, four idiots, one epileptic, several mistresses, and nearly a dozen drankards.

Gen Grant says he is out of politics. It may be remarked that quite a number of distinguished Republicans have gone out of politics.

CROP REPORT.

Report of the Condition of the Growing Crops. Washington, June 9.—The Department of Agriculture reports the increase of the cotton area as slightly ,exceeding 3 per cent; Florida and Ten-nessee fail by 1 per cent to maintain their area, and there is a decrease of about 10 per cent in the cotton districts of Virginia and Missouri. The increase is 8 per cent in Texas, 7 in Arkansas, 5 in Louisiana, 3 in Alabama, 2 respectively in South Carolina and Mississippi and 1 in Georgia.

The department record of the area in 1882 was 16,276,000 acres. Returns now indicate a breadth of 16,780,000 acres an increase of 504,000 acres. Virginia 55.00; North Carolina 10.50, South Car-olina 16.19, Georgia 28.73, Florida 2.58, Alabama 26.10, Mississippi 22,78, Louisiana 932, Texas 30.35, Arkansas 11.88, Tennessee 8.07. Missouri, Indian Territory and other States contribute the remainder. The planting has been late and replanting to fill defective stands more general than usual. The cold and wet April was followed by a cold and very dry May, with frosts from May 20th to 24th. There were continued attempts to fill the gaps up to the date of the report, and in the Gulf States belated plants had not appeared on the first of June. A persistent effort has been made to perfect stands through the cotton belt. The low temperature and rains of April have delayed planting and retarded the growth. All returns make the season late, the range being from one to three weeks. More favorable weather in the lower latitudes begins already to brighten the outlook. There were counties in North Carolina in which from one-sixth to onethird of the cotton was not up. The frost of the 23d May, which extended nearly or quite through the area plant-ed was especially injurious on the northern borders. In South Carolina cold nights and drying winds during May greatly re-duced vitality, and the weather of the first week of June was scarcely warm enough for cotton. There is frequent reports of the presence of aphis wherever the plant is in the worst condition. The caterpillar has made its appearance in Butler county, Alabama, and Robertson and Victoria in Texas. Notwithstanding these drawbacks there is a fair stand, medium vitality and usually clean culture.

The condition of winter wheat is reported lower than in May throughout the entire area with few exceptions two in Ohio, eight in Indiana, fifteen in Illinois, seven in Missouri. It is slight in Michigan, and generally throughout the South. The general average of the condition is 75, against 83 in May. In June, 1882, it was 99 for winter wheat: It is by States as follows: Connecticut 92; New York, 63; New Jersey, 101; Pennsylvania, 97; Delaware 83; Mary land, 98; Virginia, 93; North Carolina, 95; South Carolina, 95; Georgia, 96; Alabama, 95; Mississippi, 83; Texas, 86; Arkansas, 80; Tennessee, 85; West Virginia, 88; Kentucky, 77; Ohio, 69; Michigan, 80; Indiana, 67; Missouri, 70: Illinois, 51; Kansas, 89; California, 88 Oregon, 90. These figures indicate the condition of the growing wheat, without reference to loss of area by plowing up winter killed areas, the spring wheat area has been increased about half a million acres, or nearly five per cent. Wisconsin reports a reduction of one per cent; Iowa of two per cent; Minnesota makes an increase of five per cent; Nebraska of 87; Dakota of 40, and Montanaof 87. The spring wheat States have an a reage of nearly ten million acres. The condition of spring wheat is everywhere high, averaging 98 per cent, the same as last year. The area of barley increased five per cent. The total acreage is about 2,350,000 acres. The condition averages 97 per cent. The increase in the area of oats is four per cent; the area is 19,200,000 acres. The condition is high, averaging 96 per

The Governor's Children.

Richmond Dispatch The baby crop this year is very large. So far as heard from, the late summer and the drought has affected it very little. Every evening a hundred baby carriages, under charge of their nurses are to be seen on the Capitol Square beneath the shade of the trees near the Governor's mansion. Yesterday two of our country cousins stopped on the avenue to get a breath of fresh air and to shelter themselves from the sun's fierce rays. Standing there, one said to the other:

"So that is the Governor's house?" "Yes," responded his friend.

Pretty nice place? Yes, it will do very well.

Are those children all Cameron's? Then, by jings, I don't see how he can ive on $5,000 a year. I can't either. The Legislature ought to raise his salary. Yes, I think so. They went off determined to run for the Legislature, and if elected will vote for the increase.

The Sequel of Nickerson's Fraudulent Divorce.

Washington, June 9.—When Adju-tant General Drum received the official telegram from Philadelphia announcing that the decree of divorce in the case of Major A H Nickerson had been set aside, the General of the army directed Gen Drum to issue papers for the immediate arrest of Major Nickerson, preparatory to his being tried by court martial, on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. The papers were issued this afternoon lessenger dispatched at once to serve them upon him. Promotion of Gen. Barringer .-- The Fight at Pavis' Farm---The Wilson and Kantz Raid---Action at Blacks and Whites---Staunton River Bridge --- A Disastrous Failure. From advance sheets of Bloan's History. On the 6th of June Lieut. Col. Rufus Barringer received his commission as Brigadier General, and took command of the brigade, and was ordered to guard the lower crossings of the Chicka-When Grant crossed the Chickshominy, Barringer's command fell back, before the immensely superior numbers to White Oak Swamp Bridge, where he was joined by Gen. W. H. F. Lee, with Chamblis' Brigade, and a determined stand made against the advancing enemy. The cavalry held the position until late in the day, when it was relieved by the infantry. The cavalry lieved by the infantry. The cavalry hung upon the skirts of the enemy, skirmishing daily, especially at Rock's, Malvern Hill, Crenshaw's and Herring

On the 18th of June the Division crossed the James and took a position two miles South of Petersburg. Early in the day of the 21st, General Barringer, while guarding the front observed the enemy advancing rapidly and in large force, with infantry, (Barlow's Division) and artillery, to seize. the Weldon Railroad. The enemy was so near when Gen. Barringer made this discovery that he had barely time to form his line. His line was composed of the First, Second and Third Regiments, and was ranged in front of the Davis farm. McGregor's battery was now ordered into position at the Davis house, on the railroad, and the Fifth Regiment was assigned to the support of the battery. Orders were given that when the action began, the whole line should fall back to a wood through which it was thought the enemy would pass on their way to the railroad. Mc-Gregor was ordered not to fire until the rangement had the desired effect. The enemy mistook the retrograde movement for a retreat, and massed their troops in the woods. McGregor now opened upon them, and for a moment they staggered; but soon recovering, they rushed forward, when they received an effective fire frem the dismounted men at short range. The enemy abandoned the field with a loss n killed and wounded amounting to several hundred. The total loss of the Confederates was 27. Among our captured were Col. Baker, of the Third, and Lieut. Foard, aide to Gen. Barringer.

During the afternoon we stuck the enemy in flank near Blacks and Whites. Gen. Dearing attacked with great vigor, supported by the Sec ond North Carolina Regiment, and by Graham's and McGregor's batteries The enemy was much annoyed by this move of Gen. Lee, and dismounting large force made a furious attack of Dearing. The latter was forced back his lines broken, and the artillery nearly captured, when Maj. Cowles came u with the First North Carolina Regi ment. That splendid officer hurled hir regiment against the exultant foe wit such crushing effect as to instantly check their progress. Just at this mo ment Maj. Roberts, with a portion of the Second,occupying the extreme right of Dearing's line, seeing the latter in full flight, faced suddenly to the left with consummate courage and skill, attacked the enemy's rear. In an instant the tide of battle was turned and the day saved. The enemy was driven back in great disorder and with

"We held the position under a terrific fire until night, when the enemy, finding his celumn cut, and abandoning all hope of re-uniting his forces in that direction, retired and made directly for Staunton river bridge. Gen. Dearing was allowed to halt one day in order to ration his command. The artillery was sent back. The North Carolina Cavalry Brigade alone pressed the pursuit. Ger W. H. F. Lee accompanied it. We over took the enemy just as they reached the bridge on the morning of the 25th The Home Guard made a gallant defence at the bridge, Gen. Lee, with the Carolinians, at the same time giving the enemy's rear some heavy blows. Thus this important bridge was saved. That night the enemy beat a hasty retreat via Boydton and Lawrenceville. So severe had been our labors in this march, so terrible the heat, dust and smoke left in the track of this vandal horde, and so exhausted were both men and animals, that the North Carolina Brigade did not now exceed 300 effective men. Turning back the disabled men and horses, we renewed the chase with this small force. Dearing, in the meantime, was ordered by Gen. Lee to move on the left flank of the retreating col-We failed again to hit the main body of the enemy, but this strategy on the part of Gen. W. H. F. Lee no doubt greatly alarmed the fleeing foe, and orced them into the snare so well prepared for them by Hampton and Fitz Lee at Monk's Neck and Sapony church Here their defeat was overwhelming and the Confederates' triumph glorious "The enemy lost all their artillery, all their trains, and all their booty, and from 1,200 to 1,500 prisoners; their loss in horses, including those killed or abanioned on the march, could not have been less than from two to three thousand. They did our people and railroads vast injury, but never did a raid end so "The loss of the North Carolina Brigde during this raid was 35 killed and wounded. Among the killed was Col. Andrews, of the Second, at Blacks and Whites, June 23rd. "The utter destruction of the enemy's cavalry in this last raid now secured us a long rest. The time was devoted to the great work of organization, discipline and drill. From this period the baigade steadily increased in numbers and efficiency. Under the new system of horse details, introduced by Major Gen. Lee, our broken-down horses were soon replaced by fresh ones. In a few weeks the brigade numbered 1,500 mounted men, all thoroughly armed and equipped. Later in the fall it numbered 1,800, despite heavy losses in action. More than half of the bridage was armed and equipped at the Federal expense. Company F. of the First Regi-ment, boasted that all their arms, accoutrements and equipments were spoils from the foe. And the same could truth-fully be said of other companies in the

Roberts of the Second, Major Moore, of the Third, and they all de-Major Moore, or the Third, and Major McNeill, of the Fifth, and they all deserved especial praise and honor for raising their respective commands to the highest state of efficiency: For four weeks the enemy scarcely moved on our part of the lines."

Thieves on the Rounds. The thieves must have been on a regular raid Friday night, judging by the reports that were made to the police vesterday. Mr. Lindsay Adams brought up a bolster pin that had been left in a window of his house by a thief who had succeeded in getting inside but was frightened away. The bolster pin was an acceptable gift to Mr. Adams, as he needed one, and intended to have one made next week. He returns his thanks to the thief for the gift. The residence of Mrs. J. P. Ross, on Trade street, near the Air Line depot, was entered by a burglar, who carried off a quantity of flour and lard. Policeman Boyte tracked the thief for over, a mile, but finally lost the trail. Mr. George Holobaugh, who lives near the graded school, was the next sufferer. Some rogue entered his premises, and, going to his hog pen, stole a fine hog therefrom. How the thief managed to keep the hog from squealing and waking up the neighborhood is a trick which he will probably not care to divulge. Mr. A. Schroeder's premises were also visited, and his fine game chickens, in which he took a great pride, were stolen.

splendid phenomenon in the June sky. His rosy belts and equatorial clouds and the constantly changing aspect of his satellite system never cease to be interesting, and whoever has seen them once is sure to wish to see them again, as often as he can. One of the great charms of a telescopic view of Jupiter is the visible motion of the planet and his moons. In a single evening one can see the huge globe roll half way over on its axis, the time of a whole rotation being only ten hours, and can witness the passage of the round black shadow of one of the moons across the face of the planet, or the disappearance of another moon as it goes behind the planet or is eclipsed in the great cone of shadow which Jupiter throws far away into space behind him. It is difficult for one not accustomed to astronomical observations to comprehend the fact that those little shining globes which he sees moving so silently and smoothly in their orbits are actually worlds in size, and that they are removed hundreds of thousands of miles from the great planet around which they circle. of the Air Line trains on and after to- If, as most astronomers believe, Jupiter day, will be as follows: No. 50 leaves has not yet cooled down into a habita-Charlotte at 2 a m, srrive Atlanta 2 p m, ble globe, he is, in some respects, all the No. 51 leaves Atlanta at 3.10 p m and more interesting to us on that account: arrive Charlotte at 3.40 a m. In other words, they can behold part of the geological development of a distant world, and, if the human race could exist long enough and could hand down its records unbroken from age to age, it might at last have a complete history, based on actual observations, of the growth of Jupiter, from a globe of gaseous or fluid matter to a solid and habitable world like our own.

North Carolina at West Point.

North Carolina leads all the Southern States in the number of graduates at West Point this year. Our State graduates four, one of whom stands fifth in the list. There will be fifty-two in the graduating class this year, one having died. Ohio leads the list as she almost always does. This year she not only holds first place, but will graduate the largest number-six. Pennsylvania comes next with five, one of whom stands third and another of whom is a Hebrew, whose success is said to be an innovation at the Post, at least in late years. Illinois also graduates five who are well up in the class. In the Far West, California and Nevada break in on the usual record and each graduates one. South Carolina graduates only one, Mr Davis, of Fairfield county, but he holds fourth place in the list. Massachusetts has four representatives, two of whom graduate close together, being fourteenth and sixteenth, in the list. New York has three and so also does Indiana, one of the latter being at the wrong end of the list. New Jersey and Missouri each have two, and the rest and credited one to each of several rangement of Liver, Bowels and Kidneys. SYMPTOMS OF A DISEASED LIVER.

Bad Breath; Pain in the Side, sometimes the pain is felt under the Shoulder-blade, mistaken for Rheumatism; general loss of appetite; Bowels generally costive, sometimes alternating with lax; the head is troubled with pain, is dull and heavy, with considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of leaving undone something which ought to have been done; a slight, dry cough and flushed face is sometimes an attendant, often mistaken for consumption; the patient complains of weariness and debility; nervous, easily startled; feet cold or burning, sometimes a prickly sensation of the skin exists; spirits are low and despondent, and, although satisfied that exercise would be beneficial, yet one can hardly summon up fortitude to try it—in fact, distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred when but few of them existed, yet examination after death has shown the Liver to have been extensively deranged.

If You have eaten anything hard of digestion, or feel heavy after meals, or sleep-less at night, take a dose and you will be relieved.

A Governor's Testimony.

Simmons Liver Regulator has been in use in my family for some time, and I am satisfied it is a valuable addition to the medical science.

J. Gill Shorter, Governor of Ala.

Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, of Ga., says: Have derived some benefit from the use of Simmons Liver Regulator, and wish to give it a further trial. "The only Thing that never falls to Relieve."—I have used many remedits for Dyspepsia, Liver Affection and Debility, but never have found anything to benefit me to the extent Simmons Liver Regulator has. I sent from Minnesota to Georgia for it, and would send further for such a medicine, and would advise all who are similarly affected to give it a trial as it seems the only thing that never fails to relieve.

P. M. January, Minneapolis, Minn.

Dr. T. W. Mason says: From actual experience in the use of Simmons Liver Regulator in my practice I have been and am satisfied to use and prescribe it as a purgative medicine.

The University Commencement. Several of our young people who attended the commencement at Chapel Hill last Thursday, returned home yesterday and report that the whole thing was a great success. They were particularly interested in the ball and say that it was one of the most brilliant ever given in this State. The addresses by the representatives of the two literary societies were all good. Mr. Chas. Heitman, of Lexington, spoke on "Liberty and Law in North Carolina," and won the Mangum medal by his speech Dr. A. D. Hepburn, of Davidson College, preached the Baccalaureate sermon from the text 1 John, 2 chapter, 14 verse: "I have written unto you young men because ye are strong." Dr. Hepburn also presented each of the graduates with a Bible.
