THE GREATEST FINANCIAL IN STITUTIONS in the world are the insurance companies of the North and of Europe. During the last hundred years these companies have made hundreds of millions of dollars of profits, and have accumulated other hundreds of millions of dollars of surplus.

What made their great success? The first and greatest reason is: their own people believed in them and gave them all the business they would write. Why are there not as great insurance companies in the South? The first and greatest reason is: the Southern people 10 Cents a Line, Six Words to the Line have always given the greater and bet-

At 3 o'clock Mr. Covington, who had left his door unlocked, was aroused by the knowledge that some one was in his room. He sprang up and caught the man, who proved to be Humphries. Mr. Covington's trousers, which he had put on a chair at the head of his bed, upon retiring, were on the fibor. He rang his bell and Mr. J. A. Erwin, the night clerk, and the servants in the office, responded. The man was turned over to Officer Irvine, and six or seven silver half dollars in his left-hand pocket corresponded with similar money missing from Mr. Covington's pocket. Humphries was locked up.
