OBSERVER PRINTING HOUSE turns out handsome printing it necessarily means that high prices MANTELS! MANTELS! MANTELS! are charged. We won't do poor work at any price, but by using materials adapted to the requirements of the job you can pay little omuch. You will often find our prices for fine work even below what you pay elsewhere for inferior work. One of the main reasons for our great success is knowing how to charge for each and every job of work. We don't have to guess at it, and make you pay more for it than it is worth. It is always safe to deal with men who understand their business-men who have had years of experience, and not only know how the work should be done, but know how to make the prices right. This is important-

We make very low prices on large contracts for Book and Pamphlet work. Don't place your order until you get an estimate from us.

They were standing in the nunlight Of the summer time of life; She was still without a husband, He was waiting for a wife. And her cheeks were rich and rosy, And her lips were insclusar red. So he pressed her dimpled fingers As he looked at her and said, as they stood there on the heather Where the road had crossed the ril "May we not fare together Up this long, hard hill?"

Now her hand began to tremble,
And her eyes were full of tears,
As she trained them on the road that
Wound away among the years;
But she had no voice to answer
Him; she could not understand,
For the future lay before her,
Like a far-off fairy land.
There was music in the rill
As they went away together,
Up the long, hard hill.

Oftimes the way was sunny,
Other times 'twas full of lures,
But the love that had come to them
Was the true love that endures.
Though the bonny brow is wrinkled,
Though the raven lock be gray,
Yet the road might have been rougher
Had she gone the other way.
Now the frost is on the heather,
And the snow is on the rill,
And they're coasting down the short

Philadelphia, June 23.—A special meeting of the members of the mari-time, commercial, grocers and other exchanges was held in The Bourse today, to consider the proposed with-drawal by the Oceaness Steamship Company, of its direct service between Savannah and this city. President Bartol, of The Bourse, called the meet-ing to order. William R. Tucker, secre-tary of the board of trade, stated that tary of the board of trade, stated that one of the few connecting links between Philadelphia and one of the most important Southern ports was about to be broken. The proposed move of the company, the speaker said, is from the belief that an arrangement may be made between the present company and another company to divert the commerce of this city to the ports of Baltimore and New York.

Col. James, formerly of the Oceaness Company, stated that the company had been losing money for some time, and commerce of this city to the ports of Baltimore and New York.

Halifax, June 23.-The United States flag was deliberately torn from a string of other flags on Sackville street yester. day, Queen Victoria's jubilee day. The flags were displayed by Thomas Lownds from his residence. The flag was a very large one, and only the band of it was left on the rope. Some time ago Mr. Lownds received a threatening letter concerning the United States flag which was displayed by him on another occasion. The outrage was committed early in the morning and the perpetrators fled before they could be arrested.
